KOREAN TALKS STILL STALEMATED

Rising Flood Waters Surge Into Twin Cities Of Kansas

Emergency Declared; Explosions Rock Town

KANSAS CITY, July 13 (AP) — The worst flood in local history surged into the Twin Cities of Kansas City, Mo. and Kansas City, Kas. today bringing near paralysis to this metropolitan area of 900,000 population.

With three major industrial districts under water and fire burning in an oil storage tank area of two square blocks, the city council proclaimed a state of emergency.

Mayor William E. Keop and City Manager L. P. Cookingham earlier had requested that all non-essential businesses close in Kansas City.

Residents were asked to remain in their homes unless on essential business.

Water Supply Limited

The water supply in Kansas City, Mo. and suburbs supplied by that city's water plant were reduced sharply by the flooding of Turkey Creek pumping station.

Army engineers recommended evacuation of North Kansas City, an industrial area north of the Missouri River from the Kansas City Mo. business district.

They also advised the Municipal Airport to move all of its equipment to higher ground. The airport is adjacent to North Kansas City, although within the corporate limits of Kansas City.

The evacuation was ordered after the weather bureau predicted a flood crest half a foot higher than the 1903 top—greatest flood on record heretofore. This would pour the water over the dikes.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is bringing 500 men and 1500 trucks with equipment into the flood area from surrounding states in an effort to keep transcontinental phone lines open.

Kemp and Cookingham, in their proclamation, asked all businesses to close except these:

Restaurants, drug stores, essential food stores, hotels, newspapers, radio stations, medical offices and clinics, public utilities and related businesses.

Explosions Rip Tanks

Even as the mayor and city manager made their request, fire swept a two-block oil tank storage area at Roanoke Parkway and Southwest Boulevard in the flood zone.

Explosions ripping through a dozen gasoline storage tanks started the blaze. Firemen worked in waist-deep water to fight the blaze and confine it.

Earlier another gasoline tank fire threatened the Argentine Industrial district in the flooded portion of Kansas City, Kas. The fire was extinguished after it gutted a residence and a warehouse.

Maj. Gen. Lewis Pick, Chief of the Army Engineers, told reporters in Washington that damage from the flood, which devastated much of Eastern Kansas before pouring into Kansas City, could reach $1,000,000,000.

Acheson Admits More Officials Were Suspended

Lattimore Summoned For Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson disclosed today that a number of State Department employes have been suspended in the last month or so.

There are in addition to the two officials whose suspension—in connection with security charges against them—was announced last night.

These are in addition to the two officials whose suspension—in connection with security charges against them—was announced last night.

Acheson refused to say how many more have been suspended or give any new names. He told a questioner he did not think public disclosure was the best way to handle the situation.

It had became generally known among State Department reporters that John P. Davies and Oliver Edmund Clubb, high ranking officials specializing in Chinese affairs, had been suspended before the department formally announced it last night.

Reporters brought up their cases at Acheson's news conference today and asked the Secretary whether there were any more.

He replied there were only the two, but later, after talking with an aide he revised this to say more have been suspended.

Acheson told questioners the suspensions were under a statute which he understood was only about a month of six weeks old.

He said that officials or other employes who have to face hearings on loyalty or security charges since the application of the law became effective must be automatically suspended pending hearings.

Those involved in earlier hearings on procedures, he said, have not had to be suspended.

Applauds Move

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), Acheson's severest critic, applauded the two suspensions but told a reporter he regarded the secretary's ban against giving out information on others as "typical of Acheson, who never wants to admit there is anything wrong with the State Department."

Meanwhile, Owen Lattimore, summoned back to Washington for another Congressional investigation, said on Capitol Hill that the Institute of Pacific Relations was never run by the Reds.

"It never has been Communist-dominated and it never has been a Communist front," Lattimore told reporters. He had just emerged from a two-hour session with members of the Senate Internal Security Committee, behind closed doors.

Enemy Casualties Listed At 1,202,928

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Enemy casualties in the Korean war have now risen to 1,202,928, the Army estimated today.

The figure covers the fighting through July 4, before the cease-fire negotiations brought a lull in the conflict.

Enemy battle casualties were set at 872,737—an increase of 8,788 since the last estimate nine days ago—with the Chinese suffering 500,107 of that number and the North Koreans 372,630.

Tito Doubts Russia Motives

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 13 (AP) — Premier Marshall Tito said today he doubts Russia's sincerity in seeking an end of the Korean War.

Here, on the fringe of the Iron Curtain with his country under constant pressure from its Soviet satellite neighbors, Tito expressed the belief that Russia's cease-fire move "is only a maneuver — to calm things down in Korea in order to open fire in another place."

He did not mention the other place by name. Yet it was obvious he was referring to his homeland, which has been engaged for three years now in a bitter feud with the Soviet-dominated Cominform.

Tito's remarks were made in his first major address this year. He spoke before a crowd officially estimated at 40,000 in war-devastated Tito-Grad, new capital of Montenegro.

It marked the first time that Tito — once one of Stalin's most ardent admirers and faithful disciples in the cause of Communism — has made sharp attacks on Russia's chief of state personally and publicly.

Office Worker's Eyes To Help Blind Mother See

DETROIT, July 13 (AP)—The eyes of a young office worker, who died with a brain tumor, may help a near-blind mother of six to see again.

But Lawrence G. Shannon, 32, who died early today, did not know that he was going to help Mrs. Lena Campbell. He was unconscious in his last hours.

The permission for the transplanting of the corneas from Shannon's eyes was given by his mother, Mrs. May Shannon, and his six brothers and sisters.

Rift Between President And Douglas Widens

Senator Is Potential White House Candidate

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — President Truman today rebuffed Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill) by naming only one of three men sponsored by Douglas to fill vacancies in Illinois Federal Courts.

The White House announcement rekindled political rumors of coolness between Mr. Truman and Douglas, and set the stage for a possible serious rift in Democratic Party ranks.

A permanent breach might even have national repercussions in the 1951 elections since Douglas has followers who are boosting his stock as a potential candidate for the White House.

Douglas was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Whether he would fight the nominations in the Senate remains to be seen. He could probably block them if he chose, because the Senate does not usually approve nominees if their home state Senator declares them objectionable to him.

In line with Senate tradition, Douglas sent his recommendations to Mr. Truman several months ago, urging the appointment of Joseph Samuel Perry, William H. King and Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

Of the three, Mr. Truman nominated only Perry, who also had the support of former Senate Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois. While Douglas recommended Perry he was reported to have been primarily interested in seeing King and Epstein nominated.

In addition to Perry, the president named Joseph Jerome Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington as U. S. District Court Judges in Chicago.

Drucker is a nephew of the veteran Rep. Sabth (D-Ill), chairman of the powerful house rules committee and an ardent "fair deal" supporter. Drucker is now a Municipal Court Judge in Chicago.

Truman Wants Strong Illegal Border Entry Law

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — President Truman said today that "phenomenal numbers" of illegal immigrants are streaming into the United States from Mexico — at least half a million last year. He asked Congress to "lose no time" in passing strong laws to halt the illegal border crossings and punish offenders.

The President also asked Congress to improve the Labor Department's machinery for placing domestic workers in farm jobs. He said the fullest opportunity must be given "to those of our citizens who seek employment on the farm."

Nine Children Hurt In Crash

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — Nine of the 45 children on a special camping bus were slightly injured today when the bus, unable to stop, plowed into a car halted for a red-light.

The nine were treated for cuts and bruises at Maryland General Hospital.

Acheson Backs UN Stand In Korea Talks

Wants Neutral Zone To Resume Meetings

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The United States is seeking a Korean armistice agreement which would establish a buffer zone along the present battle line—mostly north of the 38th parallel.

This was indicated at Secretary of State Acheson's news conference today. Acheson also endorsed fully Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand on the Communists that Korean truce talks must be resumed in a completely neutral zone with free access for negotiating teams of both sides.

Hope To Resume

In discussing the present disruption of the talks—which officials here hope may be resumed shortly—Acheson declined to go beyond what Ridgway, the U. N. commander, has already said about the conduct of the Communists.

Specifically he declined to comment or re-state in his own words a charge by the Voice of America that the Communists had shown "bad faith" before the talks were interrupted and that this in fact caused the interruption.

Acheson did say, however, that performance is the test of the Reds' attitude and that the world will be able to judge by their performance what they intend to do.

The 38th parallel issue came into the news conference discussion when Acheson was reminded that the Communists had published their requirements for an armistice agreement, including establishment of a buffer zone along the 38th parallel boundary between North and South Korea.

Doesn't Favor Withdrawal

A reporter recalled that during the MacArthur hearings Acheson had said he would consider a settlement of the war along the 38th parallel as a victory for the United Nations forces in that it would mean the Red conquest of South Korea had been prevented. He was asked wether he was talking in this connection about a settlement precisely on the parallel or in the area of the parallel.

He replied that he was not talking about the line in an exact surveyor's sense but meant the general area. Pressed as to wether he would favor withdrawal of United Nations forces from their present positions north of the parallel, he declined to define his views exactly but stated emphatically that he has not said anything that would indicate that he favored withdrawal south of the parallel.

Bradley Fears Korean Truce

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—General Omar N. Bradley said today he is convinced that Communism is out to rule the world. He warned that if the Reds are repulsed in Korea, they will probe for another soft spot somewhere else.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the Administration's proposed new $8,500,000,000 military-economic foreign aid plan.

Rep. Judd (R-Minn) asked Bradley if he would be more—or less—apprehensive of a Communist strike elsewhere if a workable Korean armistice is reached.

"I think it would increase my apprehension," Bradley replied. He did not specify where any new outbreak might come but noted that up to now large Communist forces have been "fully occupied." Any Korean armistice, he suggested, might release Communist power for other strikes.

A few minutes later, however, Bradley modified this somewhat. He said that since the Communists "got their fingers burnt as much as they did" in Korea, they might be hesitant to start something elsewhere.

Discuss Truce Problem

Supreme Commander Matthew B. Ridgway (right) discusses the present stalemate between the United Nations forces and the Communists in Korea with Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior UN negotiator. The Allies are awaiting a Red reply to Ridgway's demand that armed forces be removed from Kaesong where the peace talks have been negotiated. Ridgway also stipulated that if an agreement on the present deadlock couldn't be reached that the peace site be changed and talks renewed there.

Guardsmen Stretch Barbed Wire To Block Mob Violence In Cicero, Ill., Race Riot

CICERO, Ill., July 13 (AP)—National Guardsmen stretched up barbed wire barricades today to block any new mob attempt to storm an apartment building in which a Negro family has rented a flat.

Riots broke out in this Chicago suburb of 70,000 after the Negro bus driver moved his furniture into the apartment Tuesday.

The string of barbed wire, forming a fence five strands deep, barricaded all street and alley entrances in the square block around the building. Some 350 steel helmeted guardsmen armed with rifles and tear gas grenades manned the barricade.

The outer perimetera — four blocks square area—was patrolled by police and sheriff's deputies.

May Replace Guard

Only 100 persons were in the area early in the evening.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson told a news conference in Springfield that he was considering replacing the Guardsmen now on duty with Chicago Guardsmen, if the situation does not improve. The Chicago Guardsmen are in summer training at Camp Grayling, Mich., but will return this week end. The Guardsmen on duty now are from nearby cities.

The height of disorder occcurred Thursday night and early Friday when 450 guard troops moved in to help some 200 Cicero and Cook County sheriff's policemen. In the melee, an undetermined number of demonstrators were injured. Seventeen were hospitalized, five of them for slight bayonet wounds. The others, including police officers and soldiers, were hit by flying brickbats.

Mob Included Minors

Police said the mob included a large number of minors. Estimates of the number ranged from 4,000 to 8,000. It was the first time since the 1933 mine war in Southern Illinois that state troops were called out to quell a civil disturbance.

Seventy two persons seized at the disorder scene early today were released, 60 of them under bonds of $50 each, after they were booked on various charges.

A crowd gathered in front of the apartment building Tuesday when the furniture of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., a Negro veteran of World War Two, was moved into the $60-a-month flat.

Former Slave, 107, Succumbs In Michigan

DEARBORN, Mich., July 13 (AP)—The last of Michigan's once proud band of "Boys In Blue" died today.

He was 107-year-old Joseph (Uncle Joe) Clovese, a runaway slave who played the drums for the Union Army in the Civil War.

Clovese, who died at Dearborn Veterans Hospital, also was the last surviving negro of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Hospital doctors said Clovese died of hardening of the arteries and other complications of old age.

Airplane Crash Delays Harriman

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP)—Averell Harriman took off on his Presidential mission to oil-troubled Iran, after a 20-minute delay caused by a Friday the thirteenth accident at National Airport.

The military plane carrying President Truman's foreign affairs adviser to Iran, for talks intended to help solve the British-Iranian oil dispute, was not directly involved.

It had just made its turn preparatory to heading for the take-off runway when a private plane piloted by Leonard Cecil of Washington made a forced landing from about 200 to 300 feet in the air, blew out a tire and went into a groundspin.

Harriman's pilot stopped his ship abruptly, 200 feet away. It was not allowed to proceed until fire-fighting equipment had been cleared from the scene. Cecil was unhurt.

Guatemala Riots Kill 4, Injure 61

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, July 13 (AP) — This capital city quieted down today after two days of rioting in which four persons were killed and 61 injured.

The government suspended constitutional guarantees for 30 days in a decree dated Thursday. It described the rioting as part of a plot against the regime of President Jacobo Arbez Guzman.

The street demonstrators called themselves anti-Communists but the government said this was a masquerade.

Miss Mosby Dies

WARRENTON, Va., July 13 (AP)—Miss Pauline Vincent Mosby, 82, the last surviving daughter of Col. John S. Mosby, died in a Warrenton hospital yesterday after a brief illness.

Mosby was the leader of the famed Mosby's Rangers of the war between the states.

House Continues To Blast Holes In Controls Bill

Rejects Authority For New Agencies

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — A rebellious house shot new holes in the Administration's economic controls bill today.

By a vote of 92 to 39, the chamber rejected President Truman's request for unlimited authority to set up new Federal corporations to spur defense production or assist in control measures.

Republicans Lead Way

Once again the Republicans took the lead in blasting away at the already tattered controls measure. A few Democrats joined them.

Rep. Crawford (R-Mich) told the House that the requested authority would take away the right of Congress to control the "chicaneries" of any new government agencies which the President might see fit to create.

Under the corporations control act passed several years ago, only Congress itself can charter new agencies such as the Commodity Credit Corporation, which supports farm prices, or the Home Owners Loan Corporation, set up in depression days to aid hard-pressed home owners.

The vote came on an amendment by Rep. Hardy (D-Va) striking the proposed power out of the new bill.

Hardy said he had become convinced after first-hand experience with government agencies that all Federal corporations should be chartered by Congress.

Work At Snail's Pace

Working at a snail's pace — with gaping vacancies on both sides of the aisle — the House had taken up only 16 of 57 pending amendments as the chamber got ready to recess for the weekend after five days of voting.

President Truman has asked for a two-year extension of the present controls law, with greater authority to impose curbs on prices, wages, rents, materials and other economic factors as a weapon against inflation.

The Senate has passed an eight-month extension, but has loaded it down with restrictions on the Administration's powers.

"Hell On Wheels" Armored Division Arrives In Europe

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Advance troops of the "Hell On Wheels" armored division landed here from the United States today "to keep the Russians out of Western Europe."

That's the way Maj. Gen. Williston B. Palmer described the mission of his famed Second Armored Division as 1,100 soldiers walked down the gangplank of the Navy transport General Gallan. Other transports are carrying the rest of the Second's 15,000 men across the Atlantic.

"This division was sent over here to keep the Russians out of Western Europe and we aim to do it," Palmer said.

The armored division follows the Fourth Infantry Division into Germany under the U. S. plan to build American fighting strength in Europe to six divisions.

Two more U. S. divisions—the 28th and 43rd — will follow the Second Armored later this year. Combined with other Allied forces, the West will have more than 14 divisions in Germany before 1952.

Outside on the dock double lines of medium tanks lay on flatcars ready for movement. The equipment preceded the division's vanguard and soon will be battle-fit.

Most of the Second's arriving troops were drafted last December. They average between 20 and 22 years old and seem cheerful.

Allies Await Reds' Reply To Demands

Communist Position Remains Unchanged

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—The Allies awaited a Red reply today (Saturday) to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand that Communist soldiers get out of Kaesong and the Reds show other proofs of good faith if cease-fire talks are to be resumed.

Since shortly after 1:15 p. m Friday (10:15 p. m. EST Thursday), the next move has been up to the Reds.

At that hour, radios beamed to the Reds a statement by General Ridgway, Allied Supreme Commander, on why there have been no three "primary prerequisites" for getting them started again.

Makes Demands

He accused the Reds of objectionable tactics from the start of the talks Tuesday.

Ridgway's three demands:

1. Clear Kaesong of armed guards and also the five-mile area radiating from its center—or pick another site with such a neutral setting.

2. Permit complete freedom of movement to and from the conference site.

3. Allow each side to send anyone they wished, up to 150 persons, including "representatives of the press," to the conference site.

"If you agree to these proposals," Ridgway said, "the present recess can be terminated and the conference resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

Ridgway told the Reds that "since the first meeting at Kaesong your delegation has placed restrictions on the movement of our delegation." He emphasized that the recess since Wednesday was "solely due to those unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions against which representatives have repeatedly protested."

Remain Unchanged

Some indication that the Communist position remained unchanged came fom a message sent Friday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il head Red delegate, in reply to a message Thursday from Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator.

Nam firmly rejected Admiral Joy's demand that 20 Allied correspondents be allowed to visit Kaesong, although they were not to have attended the conferences.

House Group OK's Billion Dollar Air Force Building Plan

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A secret billion dollar Air Force building project in Europe and areas rimming Russia was approved today by the House Armed Services Committee.

New and expanded American air bases are included in the project.

In other moves to force a mighty global ring of American air bases against any Soviet aggression:

1. The State Department said Saudi Arabia has agreed to let U. S. bomber and fighter planes use strategic Dhahran airfield for the next five years. The big Middle-East base is only about 1,500 miles from Russian territory.

Wants 150 Groups

2. The House Armed Services Committee tentatively approved $357,686,000 in construction at eight bases in the Alaskan area and Puerto Rico and six within the United States.

3. Senator Lodge (R-Mass) proposed that the U. S. speedily build a 150-group Air Force, the mightiest in the world, to avoid the risk of "national disaster."

The Air Force said yesterday it is rushing the construction of a system of North African bases.

The Armed Services Committee action was part of its item-by-item consideration of a $6,561,262,000 world-wide military construction program. The committee approved the spending of $1,071,638,000 for the secret Air Force construction.

To Buy Weapons

The State Department also disclosed it had agreed to let Saudi Arabia buy weapons and defense materials in the United States. It added that training in the use of the equipment would be offered so "Saudi Arabia may maintain its internal security, its legitimate self-defense, or participate in the defense of the area of which it is a part."

Lodge estimated the cost of building the 150-group Air Force at $74,000,000,000 over a three-year period.

Lodge estimated Russia has 9,000 tactical planes it could use in any attack on Western Europe. He expressed belief Russia had increased its armaments build-up even more than the United States since the Korean War began.

In line with Senate tradition, Douglas sent his recommendations to Mr. Truman several months ago, urging the appointment of Joseph Samuel Perry, William H. King and Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

Of the three, Mr. Truman nominated only Perry, who also had the support of former Senate Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois. While Douglas recommended Perry he was reported to have been primarily interested in seeing King and Epstein nominated.

In addition to Perry, the president named Joseph Jerome Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington as U. S. District Court Judges in Chicago.

Drucker is a nephew of the veteran Rep. Sabth (D-Ill), chairman of the powerful house rules committee and an ardent "fair deal" supporter. Drucker is now a Municipal Court Judge in Chicago.

Truman Wants Strong Illegal Border Entry Law

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — President Truman said today that "phenomenal numbers" of illegal immigrants are streaming into the United States from Mexico — at least half a million last year. He asked Congress to "lose no time" in passing strong laws to halt the illegal border crossings and punish offenders.

The President also asked Congress to improve the Labor Department's machinery for placing domestic workers in farm jobs. He said the fullest opportunity must be given "to those of our citizens who seek employment on the farm."

Nine Children Hurt In Crash

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — Nine of the 45 children on a special camping bus were slightly injured today when the bus, unable to stop, plowed into a car halted for a red-light.

The nine were treated for cuts and bruises at Maryland General Hospital.

Acheson Backs UN Stand In Korea Talks

Wants Neutral Zone To Resume Meetings

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The United States is seeking a Korean armistice agreement which would establish a buffer zone along the present battle line—mostly north of the 38th parallel.

This was indicated at Secretary of State Acheson's news conference today. Acheson also endorsed fully Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand on the Communists that Korean truce talks must be resumed in a completely neutral zone with free access for negotiating teams of both sides.

Hope To Resume

In discussing the present disruption of the talks—which officials here hope may be resumed shortly—Acheson declined to go beyond what Ridgway, the U. N. commander, has already said about the conduct of the Communists.

Specifically he declined to comment or re-state in his own words a charge by the Voice of America that the Communists had shown "bad faith" before the talks were interrupted and that this in fact caused the interruption.

Acheson did say, however, that performance is the test of the Reds' attitude and that the world will be able to judge by their performance what they intend to do.

The 38th parallel issue came into the news conference discussion when Acheson was reminded that the Communists had published their requirements for an armistice agreement, including establishment of a buffer zone along the 38th parallel boundary between North and South Korea.

Doesn't Favor Withdrawal

A reporter recalled that during the MacArthur hearings Acheson had said he would consider a settlement of the war along the 38th parallel as a victory for the United Nations forces in that it would mean the Red conquest of South Korea had been prevented. He was asked wether he was talking in this connection about a settlement precisely on the parallel or in the area of the parallel.

He replied that he was not talking about the line in an exact surveyor's sense but meant the general area. Pressed as to wether he would favor withdrawal of United Nations forces from their present positions north of the parallel, he declined to define his views exactly but stated emphatically that he has not said anything that would indicate that he favored withdrawal south of the parallel.

Bradley Fears Korean Truce

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—General Omar N. Bradley said today he is convinced that Communism is out to rule the world. He warned that if the Reds are repulsed in Korea, they will probe for another soft spot somewhere else.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the Administration's proposed new $8,500,000,000 military-economic foreign aid plan.

Rep. Judd (R-Minn) asked Bradley if he would be more—or less—apprehensive of a Communist strike elsewhere if a workable Korean armistice is reached.

"I think it would increase my apprehension," Bradley replied. He did not specify where any new outbreak might come but noted that up to now large Communist forces have been "fully occupied." Any Korean armistice, he suggested, might release Communist power for other strikes.

A few minutes later, however, Bradley modified this somewhat. He said that since the Communists "got their fingers burnt as much as they did" in Korea, they might be hesitant to start something elsewhere.

Discuss Truce Problem

Supreme Commander Matthew B. Ridgway (right) discusses the present stalemate between the United Nations forces and the Communists in Korea with Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior UN negotiator. The Allies are awaiting a Red reply to Ridgway's demand that armed forces be removed from Kaesong where the peace talks have been negotiated. Ridgway also stipulated that if an agreement on the present deadlock couldn't be reached that the peace site be changed and talks renewed there.

Guardsmen Stretch Barbed Wire To Block Mob Violence In Cicero, Ill., Race Riot

CICERO, Ill., July 13 (AP)—National Guardsmen stretched up barbed wire barricades today to block any new mob attempt to storm an apartment building in which a Negro family has rented a flat.

Riots broke out in this Chicago suburb of 70,000 after the Negro bus driver moved his furniture into the apartment Tuesday.

The string of barbed wire, forming a fence five strands deep, barricaded all street and alley entrances in the square block around the building. Some 350 steel helmeted guardsmen armed with rifles and tear gas grenades manned the barricade.

The outer perimetera — four blocks square area—was patrolled by police and sheriff's deputies.

May Replace Guard

Only 100 persons were in the area early in the evening.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson told a news conference in Springfield that he was considering replacing the Guardsmen now on duty with Chicago Guardsmen, if the situation does not improve. The Chicago Guardsmen are in summer training at Camp Grayling, Mich., but will return this week end. The Guardsmen on duty now are from nearby cities.

The height of disorder occurred Thursday night and early Friday when 450 guard troops moved in to help some 200 Cicero and Cook County sheriff's policemen. In the melee, an undetermined number of demonstrators were injured. Seventeen were hospitalized, five of them for slight bayonet wounds. The others, including police officers and soldiers, were hit by flying brickbats.

Mob Included Minors

Police said the mob included a large number of minors. Estimates of the number ranged from 4,000 to 8,000. It was the first time since the 1933 mine war in Southern Illinois that state troops were called out to quell a civil disturbance.

Seventy two persons seized at the disorder scene early today were released, 60 of them under bonds of $50 each, after they were booked on various charges.

A crowd gathered in front of the apartment building Tuesday when the furniture of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., a Negro veteran of World War Two, was moved into the $60-a-month flat.

Former Slave, 107, Succumbs In Michigan

DEARBORN, Mich., July 13 (AP)—The last of Michigan's once proud band of "Boys In Blue" died today.

He was 107-year-old Joseph (Uncle Joe) Clovese, a runaway slave who played the drums for the Union Army in the Civil War.

Clovese, who died at Dearborn Veterans Hospital, also was the last surviving negro of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Hospital doctors said Clovese died of hardening of the arteries and other complications of old age.

Airplane Crash Delays Harriman

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP)—Averell Harriman took off on his Presidential mission to oil-troubled Iran, after a 20-minute delay caused by a Friday the thirteenth accident at National Airport.

The military plane carrying President Truman's foreign affairs adviser to Iran, for talks intended to help solve the British-Iranian oil dispute, was not directly involved.

It had just made its turn preparatory to heading for the take-off runway when a private plane piloted by Leonard Cecil of Washington made a forced landing from about 200 to 300 feet in the air, blew out a tire and went into a groundspin.

Harriman's pilot stopped his ship abruptly, 200 feet away. It was not allowed to proceed until fire-fighting equipment had been cleared from the scene. Cecil was unhurt.

Guatemala Riots Kill 4, Injure 61

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, July 13 (AP) — This capital city quieted down today after two days of rioting in which four persons were killed and 61 injured.

The government suspended constitutional guarantees for 30 days in a decree dated Thursday. It described the rioting as part of a plot against the regime of President Jacobo Arbez Guzman.

The street demonstrators called themselves anti-Communists but the government said this was a masquerade.

Miss Mosby Dies

WARRENTON, Va., July 13 (AP)—Miss Pauline Vincent Mosby, 82, the last surviving daughter of Col. John S. Mosby, died in a Warrenton hospital yesterday after a brief illness.

Mosby was the leader of the famed Mosby's Rangers of the war between the states.

House Continues To Blast Holes In Controls Bill

Rejects Authority For New Agencies

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — A rebellious house shot new holes in the Administration's economic controls bill today.

By a vote of 92 to 39, the chamber rejected President Truman's request for unlimited authority to set up new Federal corporations to spur defense production or assist in control measures.

Republicans Lead Way

Once again the Republicans took the lead in blasting away at the already tattered controls measure. A few Democrats joined them.

Rep. Crawford (R-Mich) told the House that the requested authority would take away the right of Congress to control the "chicaneries" of any new government agencies which the President might see fit to create.

Under the corporations control act passed several years ago, only Congress itself can charter new agencies such as the Commodity Credit Corporation, which supports farm prices, or the Home Owners Loan Corporation, set up in depression days to aid hard-pressed home owners.

The vote came on an amendment by Rep. Hardy (D-Va) striking the proposed power out of the new bill.

Hardy said he had become convinced after first-hand experience with government agencies that all Federal corporations should be chartered by Congress.

Work At Snail's Pace

Working at a snail's pace — with gaping vacancies on both sides of the aisle — the House had taken up only 16 of 57 pending amendments as the chamber got ready to recess for the weekend after five days of voting.

President Truman has asked for a two-year extension of the present controls law, with greater authority to impose curbs on prices, wages, rents, materials and other economic factors as a weapon against inflation.

The Senate has passed an eight-month extension, but has loaded it down with restrictions on the Administration's powers.

"Hell On Wheels" Armored Division Arrives In Europe

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Advance troops of the "Hell On Wheels" armored division landed here from the United States today "to keep the Russians out of Western Europe."

That's the way Maj. Gen. Williston B. Palmer described the mission of his famed Second Armored Division as 1,100 soldiers walked down the gangplank of the Navy transport General Gallan. Other transports are carrying the rest of the Second's 15,000 men across the Atlantic.

"This division was sent over here to keep the Russians out of Western Europe and we aim to do it," Palmer said.

The armored division follows the Fourth Infantry Division into Germany under the U. S. plan to build American fighting strength in Europe to six divisions.

Two more U. S. divisions—the 28th and 43rd — will follow the Second Armored later this year. Combined with other Allied forces, the West will have more than 14 divisions in Germany before 1952.

Outside on the dock double lines of medium tanks lay on flatcars ready for movement. The equipment preceded the division's vanguard and soon will be battle-fit.

Most of the Second's arriving troops were drafted last December. They average between 20 and 22 years old and seem cheerful.

Communist Position Remains Unchanged

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—The Allies awaited a Red reply today (Saturday) to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand that Communist soldiers get out of Kaesong and the Reds show other proofs of good faith if cease-fire talks are to be resumed.

Since shortly after 1:15 p. m Friday (10:15 p. m. EST Thursday), the next move has been up to the Reds.

At that hour, radios beamed to the Reds a statement by General Ridgway, Allied Supreme Commander, on why there have been no three "primary prerequisites" for getting them started again.

Makes Demands

He accused the Reds of objectionable tactics from the start of the talks Tuesday.

Ridgway's three demands:

1. Clear Kaesong of armed guards and also the five-mile area radiating from its center—or pick another site with such a neutral setting.

2. Permit complete freedom of movement to and from the conference site.

3. Allow each side to send anyone they wished, up to 150 persons, including "representatives of the press," to the conference site.

"If you agree to these proposals," Ridgway said, "the present recess can be terminated and the conference resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

Ridgway told the Reds that "since the first meeting at Kaesong your delegation has placed restrictions on the movement of our delegation." He emphasized that the recess since Wednesday was "solely due to those unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions against which representatives have repeatedly protested."

Remain Unchanged

Some indication that the Communist position remained unchanged came fom a message sent Friday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il head Red delegate, in reply to a message Thursday from Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator.

Nam firmly rejected Admiral Joy's demand that 20 Allied correspondents be allowed to visit Kaesong, although they were not to have attended the conferences.

House Group OK's Billion Dollar Air Force Building Plan

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A secret billion dollar Air Force building project in Europe and areas rimming Russia was approved today by the House Armed Services Committee.

New and expanded American air bases are included in the project.

In other moves to force a mighty global ring of American air bases against any Soviet aggression:

1. The State Department said Saudi Arabia has agreed to let U. S. bomber and fighter planes use strategic Dhahran airfield for the next five years. The big Middle-East base is only about 1,500 miles from Russian territory.

Wants 150 Groups

2. The House Armed Services Committee tentatively approved $357,686,000 in construction at eight bases in the Alaskan area and Puerto Rico and six within the United States.

3. Senator Lodge (R-Mass) proposed that the U. S. speedily build a 150-group Air Force, the mightiest in the world, to avoid the risk of "national disaster."

The Air Force said yesterday it is rushing the construction of a system of North African bases.

The Armed Services Committee action was part of its item-by-item consideration of a $6,561,262,000 world-wide military construction program. The committee approved the spending of $1,071,638,000 for the secret Air Force construction.

To Buy Weapons

The State Department also disclosed it had agreed to let Saudi Arabia buy weapons and defense materials in the United States. It added that training in the use of the equipment would be offered so "Saudi Arabia may maintain its internal security, its legitimate self-defense, or participate in the defense of the area of which it is a part."

Lodge estimated the cost of building the 150-group Air Force at $74,000,000,000 over a three-year period.

Lodge estimated Russia has 9,000 tactical planes it could use in any attack on Western Europe. He expressed belief Russia had increased its armaments build-up even more than the United States since the Korean War began.

Allies Unhappy Over Korean Truce Stalemate

Believe Communists Outsmarted Them

MUNSAN, Korea, July 13 (AP)—Have the Communists outsmarted the Allies at Kaesong?

There are numbers of American officers in and near this "peace" camp who are very unhappy about the way things went at Kaesong.

This was in effect conceded today in Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand that the Reds either move their armed forces away from Kaesong and make it a truly neutral zone, or else start armistice talks all over again in an altogether different place.

Ridgway mentioned that he had first proposed conferences aboard the Danish Hospital ship Jutlandia, where "a completely neutral atmosphere" could be attained. The Communists apparently did not think so.

Danish Contribution

The Jutlandia is Denmark's contribution to the United Nations effort in Korea, and while it is a mercy ship without arms, the Reds certainly regard it as "enemy" territory. They also possibly recalled the Japanese surrender aboard the Battleship Missouri six years ago and figured any shipboard meeting would look bad for the Red side.

So the Reds proposed a meeting at Kaesong. From their point of view they had good reasons, most of them propaganda-connected. Kaesong was the only south Korean town of any size that was within reach of the Red armies.

There was a lot of talk from the Allied side at the time about it being in no-man's-land. This was only partly true. The Allies had sent patrols into it several times, and appeared on the point of occupying it firmly when the Reds suggested it as a cease-fire site.

Still, it was in Red territory at the time. As soon as Ridgway said okay to a Kaesong meeting, the Reds pushed their troops back into the town and set up road blocks to the south.

Taking advantage of the neutral corridor proclaimed by the Allies, they also sent company-sized patrols down to the Imjin River and sent scouts south of the river to spy out Allied military positions.

Several of these have been captured by the Allies in the past few days. All have been in uniform, so they could not be charged with espionage.

Made Kaesong Fortress

The Communists thus have been able both to boast to the world that the U. N. was coming to them to seek an armistice, and also have taken some military advantage of the situation.

They have ushered the U. N. parties in and out under guard as if Kaesong were a Communist fortress and have preempted the right to decide who can enter.

Allied dissatisfaction was brought to a head Thursday when the Reds stopped a party of 20 newsmen that Ridgway had authorized to visit Kaesong, although not to attend the meetings.

As a result, the whole convoy returned and the Allied delegates did not go to Kaesong.

This also brought to a head the tangled question of press coverage. This is a whole subject in itself, but it is now caught up in the main issue of Communist and Allied good faith.

Whatever the final outcome, the Reds have managed things so they are telling the world that the Allies are to blame for breaking off the armistice talks.

Rising Flood

Thirteen persons are known to have lost their lives since the floods started three days ago. There were unconfirmed reports today that three more died in Kansas City, Kas. when a boat capsized.

Many were missing, but no totals were available as many missing persons were located in refugee centers.

All transcontinental rail service through this major rail rub was halted, as was all through highway travel.

Reinstate Reds Congress Bond

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Bowing to a higher court, Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today ordered 15 second string Communist leaders freed on bond.

He reinstated $176,000 bail posted by the Civil Rights Congress.

Ryan revoked the bonds Wednesday and outlawed the Congress as a future bondsman in his court. The 15 were locked up in Federal detention cells.

Appeals Judge Learned Hand reversed Judge Ryan yesterday but the Reds remained in jail overnight to await Judge Ryan's decision.

"Judge Hand has ruled," Ryan said. "I have nothing but the most wholesome respect for Judge Hand and this court will obey his ruling. What he says is the law is, to me, the law. Besides I have a personal affection for Judge Hand."

The decision wrecked any immediate government hopes to dam the seemingly endless flow of bail money from the Civil Rights Congress to the Communist Party.

Yacht Crewman Killed Shark With Knife Before Rescue

PEARL HARBOR, July 13 (AP) — Steel-nerved Ted Sierks told today in a ship-to-ship radio interview how he stabbed to death a shark which nibbled at his feet during the 30 hours he was adrift in a life-ring in Mid-Pacific.

In Good Health

The 40-year-old Avalon, Calif., yachtsman fell off the racing sloop, L'Apache, Wednesday 810 miles northeast of Honolulu. He was plucked from the eight-foot waves Thursday afternoon by the destroyer-escort Douglas A. Munro.

In good health but weary he admittedly had been on the point of despair after several searchers had come close without sighting him.

Today, talking by radio from the rescue vessel, Sierks told about the seven foot shark:

"It was after my bare feet. It kinda nibbled on them. I grabbed it by the tail, turned it over and ripped its belly with my sailor knife. The shark had circled around and kept eyeing me for 15 to 20 minutes before it came in.

"The whole thing was over in 20 minutes.

"Fortunately, I had kept my knife with me. I thought I might have to use it."

Killed Shark Wednesday

He killed the shark in daylight Wednesday, a few hours after he fell overboard from L'Apache, a contestant in the 2,225-mile Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race.

How did the accident happen?

"We were repairing a broken boom tackle," Sierks said.

"There were heavy seas. I leaned out and had to put my weight against the rail.

"The boat heeled over and I went in the water."

Other crew members of the yacht, skippered by Phyllis B. Brunson of Hollywood, tossed Sierks two life-rings.

Doctor Indicted In Spinster Death By Grand Jury

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 13 (AP) —A grand jury today accused Dr. Donald F. Gibson, 49, of manslaughter in the death of the aged, well-to-do Danbury spinster who made him her heir.

The jury charged that the physician caused the death of Miss Elizabeth M. Ayres, 74, last July 26 "by the gross and reckless administration of drugs."

The jury was discharged without taking any action in the case of a second Danbury physician, Dr. Frank T. Genovese, who was implicated with Dr. Gibson in a finding by former coroner Theodore E. Steiber.

Mayor, Police Chief In Fight

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 13 (AP)—The mayor paid a $25 fine today for assaulting his police chief after both gave a judge a blow-by-blow account which agreed on this point only—there was a fight.

Police Chief William J. Collins—age 58, weight 185, height 6 feet one—charged he was punched "four or five times" last Monday in the mayor's office by Mayor Joseph L. Willett—age 45, weight 185, height 6 feet two.

About 200 spectators jammed the courtroom which normally seats 65 when the tall mayor—who pleaded innocent to a charge of assault and battery—said he did not punch the chief.

The mayor is an ex-marine who drives a bus Friday and Saturday nights.

Both the mayor and the chief are spare-time athletes.

The chief gave this version to district Judge Daniel J. Cavan: "The mayor said to me—'I can make you take off your glasses.' x x x I got up and headed for the door. x x x I was hit back of the head. He (the mayor) hit me four or five times and had his hands on my neck."

Two witnesses backed up the chief's story.

The mayor didn't offer any witnesses but when an attorney asked him if he disagreed with the chief's witnesses, the mayor answered:

"Oh, absolutely."

What started the fight?

The chief said the mayor wanted to shake up the police department and he opposed it.

Allies Unhappy Over Korean Truce Stalemate

Allied dissatisfaction was brought to a head Thursday when the Reds stopped a party of 20 newsmen that Ridgway had authorized to visit Kaesong, although not to attend the meetings.

As a result, the whole convoy returned and the Allied delegates did not go to Kaesong.

This also brought to a head the tangled question of press coverage. This is a whole subject in itself, but it is now caught up in the main issue of Communist and Allied good faith.

Whatever the final outcome, the Reds have managed things so they are telling the world that the Allies are to blame for breaking off the armistice talks.

Rising Flood

Thirteen persons are known to have lost their lives since the floods started three days ago. There were unconfirmed reports today that three more died in Kansas City, Kas. when a boat capsized.

Many were missing, but no totals were available as many missing persons were located in refugee centers.

All transcontinental rail service through this major rail rub was halted, as was all through highway travel.

Reinstate Reds Congress Bond

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Bowing to a higher court, Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today ordered 15 second string Communist leaders freed on bond.

He reinstated $176,000 bail posted by the Civil Rights Congress.

Ryan revoked the bonds Wednesday and outlawed the Congress as a future bondsman in his court. The 15 were locked up in Federal detention cells.

Appeals Judge Learned Hand reversed Judge Ryan yesterday but the Reds remained in jail overnight to await Judge Ryan's decision.

"Judge Hand has ruled," Ryan said. "I have nothing but the most wholesome respect for Judge Hand and this court will obey his ruling. What he says is the law is, to me, the law. Besides I have a personal affection for Judge Hand."

The decision wrecked any immediate government hopes to dam the seemingly endless flow of bail money from the Civil Rights Congress to the Communist Party.

Yacht Crewman Killed Shark With Knife Before Rescue

PEARL HARBOR, July 13 (AP)—Steel-nerved Ted Sierks told today in a ship-to-ship radio interview how he stabbed to death a shark which nibbled at his feet during the 30 hours he was adrift in a life-ring in Mid-Pacific.

In Good Health

The 40-year-old Avalon, Calif., yachtsman fell off the racing sloop, L'Apache, Wednesday 810 miles northeast of Honolulu. He was plucked from the eight-foot waves Thursday afternoon by the destroyer-escort Douglas A. Munro.

In good health but weary he admittedly had been on the point of despair after several searchers had come close without sighting him.

Today, talking by radio from the rescue vessel, Sierks told about the seven foot shark:

"It was after my bare feet. It kinda nibbled on them. I grabbed it by the tail, turned it over and ripped its belly with my sailor knife. The shark had circled around and kept eyeing me for 15 to 20 minutes before it came in.

"The whole thing was over in 20 minutes.

"Fortunately, I had kept my knife with me. I thought I might have to use it."

Killed Shark Wednesday

He killed the shark in daylight Wednesday, a few hours after he fell overboard from L'Apache, a contestant in the 2,225-mile Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race.

How did the accident happen?

"We were repairing a broken boom tackle," Sierks said.

"There were heavy seas. I leaned out and had to put my weight against the rail.

"The boat heeled over and I went in the water."

Other crew members of the yacht, skippered by Phyllis B. Brunson of Hollywood, tossed Sierks two liferings.

Doctor Indicted In Spinster Death By Grand Jury

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 13 (AP)—A grand jury today accused Dr. Donald F. Gibson, 49, of manslaughter in the death of the aged, well-to-do Danbury spinster who made him her heir.

The jury charged that the physician caused the death of Miss Elizabeth M. Ayres, 74, last July 26 "by the gross and reckless administration of drugs."

The jury was discharged without taking any action in the case of a second Danbury physician, Dr. Frank T. Genovese, who was implicated with Dr. Gibson in a finding by former coroner Theodore E. Steiber.

Mayor, Police Chief In Fight

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 13 (AP)—The mayor paid a $25 fine today for assaulting his police chief after both gave a judge a blow-by-blow account which agreed on this point only—there was a fight.

Police Chief William J. Collins—age 58, weight 185, height 6 feet one—charged he was punched "four or five times" last Monday in the mayor's office by Mayor Joseph L. Willett—age 45, weight 185, height 6 feet two.

About 200 spectators jammed the courtroom which normally seats 65 when the tall mayor—who pleaded innocent to a charge of assault and battery—said he did not punch the chief.

The mayor is an ex-marine who drives a bus Friday and Saturday nights.

Both the mayor and the chief are spare-time athletes.

The chief gave this version to district Judge Daniel J. Cavan: "The mayor said to me—'I can make you take off your glasses.' x x x I got up and headed for the door. x x x I was hit back of the head. He (the mayor) hit me four or five times and had his hands on my neck."

Two witnesses backed up the chief's story.

The mayor didn't offer any witnesses but when an attorney asked him if he disagreed with the chief's witnesses, the mayor answered:

"Oh, absolutely."

What started the fight?

The chief said the mayor wanted to shake up the police department and he opposed it.

Plan Considered To Store Old County Records

Some Files May Be Destroyed

The Allegany County Court House is bulging at the seams.

So says Albert A. Doub, president of the Allegany County Bar Association and Harry I. Stegmaier, also a member of the bar.

They met with the Board of County Commissioners yesterday morning to discuss the possibility of obtaining several rooms in the basement of the Court House to store old files so space in Circuit Court offices may be used for new records.

Cover Over 100 Years

Doub said deeds, mortgages and other records dating back for at least 100 years are overflowing in the land records office and that it proves difficult for attorneys and court attaches to work with the overcrowded condition.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board, told Doub and Stegmaier, who were accompanied by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden, that Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson have consulted with the board concerning the matter and something will be worked out.

Lemmert also said that records of the tax office, assessors' office, and those of the commissioners are also so numerous that plans must be made for taking care of all the units at the Court House.

To Prepare Petition

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, was instructed to draw up a petition to present to the court under which old records not required to be kept by law would be destroyed. Certain papers such as deeds, records of court cases, mortgages, and other vital papers would not be destroyed.

Doub said the bar association has enough money to purchase a photostat machine which would greatly facilitate handling of court records and cut down on the expense of transcribing by typewriter.

The commissioners were asked to make the necessary repairs and do other work to put the basement rooms in proper shape. It was pointed out several large rooms in the basement would be ideal for storing old records which must be kept and the expense would not be too great.

Old Cancelled Checks

It was mentioned that among surplus papers still stored at the Court House are cancelled checks of over 50 years ago, correspondence from as long ago and various other non-essential documents. Old assessment records and similar papers would also be destroyed under court order.

Plans are to photostat various records and also provision is being provided for land maps and plats which are very necessary in the transaction of business by attorneys and others interested in real estate sales.

The Case Of Tungsten

Two defense agencies have been charged with responsibility for this country's "pitifully small" store of tungsten, that hard and scarce metal essential to the production of arms and civilian goods. They are accused of playing "blind man's buff"—with all the players "blindfolded"—until the communist victory in China closed the best source of supply. And then, it is asserted, stockpiling "merely stepped up from a crawl to a shuffle."

A subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, generally called the Senate's defense "watchdog" committee, has handed up this indictment. The defense agencies involved are the Army and the Munitions Board. And the phrases already quoted are only some of the sharply worded criticisms in the subcommittee's report on the tungsten situation.

One more sentence might sum it up: "This is one of the worst examples of the evil effects of bureaucratic complacency upon the defense program that our subcommittee has uncovered."

It can be said in extenuation of the two agencies that the present stockpile, however inadequate, is larger than the supply in this country at the beginning of World War II. But that is not the question. The question is to what extent the nation's needs were met.

That must be the criterion, and the two agencies concerned can hardly plead not guilty. The subcommittee declares that "the free world stands on the verge of tungsten starvation." It says we are "in a position where we must tighten our belts until it hurts and it is going to hurt plenty." It says there is no possible way now to provide all the tungsten required for essential military and civilian production.

So there has been a failure. It was an inexcusable failure, because there is simply no excuse good enough when what needed to be done went undone.

Never Had It So Good

Norway has put on the American run a new tanker, the Dalfonn. Each of the 50 officers and seamen aboard the 24,500-ton motor ship has a private, air-conditioned cabin, and facilities for crew entertainment include an aluminum swimming pool.

All this luxury will seem incredible to those who have read "Moby Dick," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Twenty Years Before the Mast," or "The Caine Mutiny." Indeed, it will seem incredible to the men aboard most of the ships still afloat, for naval architects have not been noticeably solicitious about the comfort, or even the health, of seamen.

Bad ventilation, criwded sleeping quarters, lack of privacy and boredom have been the traditional lot of ships' crews.

The new dispensation is not wholly a matter of humanitarianism. The discomforts of life at sea, particularly on merchantmen, have lessened the number who are willing to become seamen.

The luxury offered by the Dalfonn is obviously an attempt to meet the problem of recruitment.

Some of the oldest and toughest of sea dogs may look with scorn at the Dalfonn, as an old Regular Army sergeant will snear at even the modest comforts of the modern army camp. But few will share their nostalgia for the Spartan life in the forecastles and barracks of old. Men can be men, good soldiers and good sailors, without living like cattle.

Aid To Korean Schools

The Republic of Korea has been assured by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization that it will be helped in the job of rehabilitating its schools. The Korean minister of education has asked for assistance in mapping out an educational program and for financial aid. He also asked for help in a campaign to increase literacy in his country.

The director general of Unesco, Jaime Torres Bodet, replied that the needed help would be given to Korea and mentioned the particular debt that the United Nations owed to Korea. Had the Republic wished to surrender to the North Koreans it might have spared the destruction of its cities. Instead it elected to fight and it became a symbol of United Nations unity. This is a debt that cannot be taken lightly.

It seems appropriate that one of the ways in which the obligation to Korea will be repaid is through education. In Korea the United Nations can prove to the world that it is interested not only in stopping wars by use of international force but also in preventing them by eliminating the sources of war. Poverty, ignorance and disease have been contributing causes to war since men first took arms against one another. Any move to eliminate or alleviate these evils is a step in the right direction.

Marching With Time

The "March of Time," documentary film series which has presented, analyzed and interpreted trends in the news for over seventeen years, will shortly be seen no more in the nation's movie houses. The films will henceforth be seen over television.

The series began in the midst of the great depression and continued to chronicle and explain the world situation through World War II and the eventful years since. The films maintained a standard of excellence that commanded attention even from people who went to the theater purely for relaxation and entertainment and who would ordinarily have shunned educational productions.

The long series contributed much to the documentary approach to movie making. Perhaps it can have a corresponding effect on the comparatively new field of television. In turning aside from its shrinking movie audiences and stepping into a new field, the film series seems to keep spirit with its dramatic identifying signature line, "Time marches on."

Spare Tires Again

The Defense Production Administration is lifting its ban against spare tires in new automobiles. Manly Fleischmann, the administrator, explained that there have been an improvement in the rubber situation and a reduction in automobile production. Fewer new cars require fewer spare tires. The combined result, he said, makes it possible to lift the ban against the spare.

All this is to the good. We are glad that the rubber situation is better. We are not glad that automobile production is lower, although on Sunday afternoons it is even possible to be glad for that. But we are glad that the new cars in the showrooms will have spare tires again. We think Fleischmann owes his public, however, exact figures on the rubber savings achieved by the spare tire ban, which prevented the manufacturer from installing a spare tire, leaving that job to the nearest service station.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Insect Venom Reactions

Fate plays strange tricks. A 42 year old Texan, in the best of health, decided to trim the hedge alongside his house. H struck a nest of yellow jackets and was stung on the forehead, back of the neck, and probably in the armpit. Within three minutes he turned blue and began to froth at the mouth; in five minutes he was dead. The man was thought at first to have had a heart attack but his physician finally came to the conclusion that sensitivity to the sting of a yellow jacket was responsible. Three weeks prior to his death he had been stung on an arm and the entire limb puffed up like a balloon.

A resident of Santa Monica, Cal., was more fortunate. He was strolling along the beach barefooted and stepped on some half dead bees lying in the sand near the water line. Almost immediately he felt a sharp pain near the base of his left great toe; ten minutes later his palms began to tingle and stiffen and the lips became numb and swollen. Within a half hour he became weak and suffered abdominal cramps. Meanwhile, swelling of the eyelids and other parts of the body, tightness of the chest, hives, and intense itching developed. His physician, who was called immediately, recognized the difficulty and the man was completely relieved after an injection of adrenalin.

Such reactions after insect bites usually are on an allergic basis; the individual is sensitive to the venom. As a rule the area swells and itches intensely; the lesion that arises after a mosquito bite is a typical example. The aftermath is more serious when greater sensitivity exists. In some the eyes become puffy and itching is excruciating; others encounter asthma with sneezing and wheezing. A sense of uneasiness, rapid pulse, and a fall in blood pressure also may occur. The severe reaction encountered by the California man is rare and the experience of the Texan was extremely unusual. Much depends upon the amount of venom injected and the degree of sensitivity.

The ordinary insect bite generally can be disregarded. Household ammonia or a wet pack made with sodium bicarbonate eases itching. Ointments containing one of the antihistaminics are proving to be excellent remedies; they are specific against allergies and frequently offer relief within a few minutes after application. A physician should be consulted for the more violent reactions because emergency care may be required. Persons who are not sensitive to mosquito bites often assert they never are bitten. This is not true; the insects like them as well as anyone else, but when there is no reaction to the sting the person is unaware of having been bitten.

Marked sensitivity to insects may be a hazard to men and women who work out in the open. A rancher or farmer, for example, who is sensitive to bees, wasps, or bettles must be on the lookout at all times. Desensitization may be necessary and stinging insect venoms now are available commercially, but continuous treatment with these extracts may be necessary because protection is shortlived. The antihistaminics also help and many must learn to give themselves emergency adrenalin if a dangerous reaction arises.

HAIR LOSS

Mrs. L. writes: Can a person's mental state affect the hair? Recently I had a nervous breakdown and since then my hair is becoming thinner.

REPLY

Nervousness and illness are listed among the causes of hair loss in women. Anemia and a deficient thyroid secretion are additional possibilities to investigate.

DR. MURPHY

L. C. writes: A group of us were discussing the great Dr. John B. Murphy. What did he do to make his famous?

REPLY

Much of his renown rested on his ability as a surgeon and teacher. He devised several operations and invented the Murphy button which was used in those days to connect separated loops of the intestine after surgery. He also worked with bone grafts and pneumothorax. For those who are interested in reading about Dr. Murphy's career, there is a book on him by Dr. Loyal Davis called "J. B. Murphy; Stormy Petrel of Surgery" (Putnam).

BABY'S HEART DEFECT

Mrs. E. writes: In a blue baby, what part of the heart is involved?

REPLY

The bluish tint of the lips and epidermis occurs in children whose circulation thru the lungs is interfered with, or when venous and arterial blood merge thru a communication between two chambers. The two specific lesions which lend themselves to surgical treatment—patent ductus arteriosus and pulmonary stenosis—are located in the large channels just outside the heart.

SEA BATHING

Mrs. D. writes: Is ocean bathing good for arthritis?

REPLY

Not in itself but a shore vacation often is helpful because it provides rest, relaxation, sun, and salt air.

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Communist Once Worked For Pearson; Young Newsman Was Converted To Party By Author Of "My Sister Eileen"; Fired Four Years Ago.

WASHINGTON.—It's hard to write about a man who is dead and cannot defend himself. However, I should like to write about Andrew Older, listed recently by an FBI undercover agent as a member of the Communist party.

Older worked for me for a brief period after the war and it became my unpleasant duty to fire him. During the course of firing him, I got to know a little bit about what makes a Communist tick.

If we are going to cure Communism in the American body politic, then it's important that we know what turns a man into a Communist and how he can be cured. Here is one case history in point.

Older worked for a group of conservative trade journals—a paint and varnish magazine, a bakery journey, a poultry monthly, together with the film and radio dailies and the Hollywood reporter. During the tail end of the war when manpower was short he also worked parttime for me, in addition to his other chores.

Canadian Spy Ring

Andy was a nice boy, worked hard and I never dreamed at first he had any links with the Communists. But as time passed and I wrote more and more critical stories about Russia I became suspicious. He frequently argued against the columns which criticized Russia.

I recall especially the column I wrote exposing the Russian spy ring in Canada. At that time—1946—a great many Americans still were devoted to the idea that we could and must cooperate with Russia, and the critical mail I received calling me a liar and a warmonger was heavy. Older was among those who deprecated this column.

Later a friend reported that he had seen Older with both a member of the Soviet Tass News Agency and the editor of the Soviet Information Service, which was published by the Russian Embassy. As a result, I went to J. Edgar Hoover, told him of this report and asked whether he had any information regarding Older and a possible affiliation with Communism.

Mr. Hoover reported a week or so later that Older was listed as a member of the Communist party in Washington.

Next day I called Older in, figuring that in conformity with standard Communist practice he would deny membership in the party. But he didn't. He told the truth.

Dazzling Authoress

In a way this made things more difficult. If he had lied, it would have been easy to fire him. But when a man tells the truth you certainly owe it to him to listen to his story.

So we had a long talk, during which Older said he had joined the party early in 1940 largely through the influence of Ruth McKenny, author of "My Sister Eileen," and editor of the New Masses from 1937 to 1946, who later broke with Communism. The counsel for the Senate Internal Security Committee states that Miss McKenny broke with the party at the same time Browder had his difficulties.

Older's father was born in Russian Poland, and Andy had been ardently anxious for peace between the United States and Russia. He said, however, that he had had a few tough policies to swallow which had jarred him—one of them being the party line against preparedness at a time when Stalin and Hitler were allies in 1939, and later the sudden party switch to all-out preparedness.

He said that he had been trying to get away from the party, hadn't attended meetings since 1944 and was fed up with highhanded Communist tactics. However, he said that it was hard to get away when you were once a member because the comrades blackmailed you by threatening to expose your membership.

He said he gradually had come around to my point of view that Russia was the chief disrupter of the peace and that her tactics under the Kremlin were just as imperialistic as under the Czar.

Lippman Had Communist Secretary

At first I thought I could wean Older completely away from Communism and had some talks along this line with J. Edgar Hoover. I figured that if I could get Older to do a Budenz and take a militant stand against the party, he would become a highly useful citizen.

However, I also had heard that the Communists had planted a secretary on Walter Lippmann and that it was standard Communist practice to put men in key spots where they could influence public opinion. So, figuring there was no use making life difficult by sitting on a continual keg of dynamite, I let Older go.

I saw him occasionally after that and have reason to believe he threw his old associates overboard and straightened himself out politically. In fact, he became something of a small-scale capitalist, and in addition to his trade journals, operated a laundry.

And since he cannot be here to defend himself, I would like to say that Andy Older was one of those unfortunate youngsters, who, through the influence of persuasive personalities, got off to a bad start, but who saw things in a far clearer light before he died.

"Stop Eisenhower"

A full scale "Stop Eisenhower" campaign is being cooked up backstage by the Chicago Tribune and backers of Senator Taft.

Taft himself probably doesn't know about it, but a rough smear job to discourage General Eisenhower from going after the GOP nomination for president is being conducted as part of the regular four-year warmup for picking a president.

Initial move was a Chicago Tribune syndicated story of July 7, which inferred that Eisenhower, as president of Columbia University, is friendly with Communists. Similar stories are due to appear later.

Another and more kindly facet of the campaign, credit to Taft's unofficial campaign strategist, Sen. Owen Brewster, is to spread the story among delegates that the general is too busy organizing Europe's defenses to "play politics."

This is now being told Republican grass-roots leaders by Taft organizers.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

"Face"

In the orient, "face" is everything. It is the quality of success, of position, of authority. It determines who is right and who is wrong. Surely, the Far Eastern experts in the State Department and those who practice psychological warfare know all about "face."

Yet, this country has been jockied into the position of suing for peace. Instead of meeting on a hospital ship, the truce conference is in enemy-held territory, in an enemy city, surrounded by an enemy guard. Our representatives came unarmed; the enemy came armed. They were serviced by their press and photographers; our reporters were forbidden access to the meetings.

This was not what the Army intended the American people to know. It was only the courage and daring of American newspapermen who forced these facts into the open in spite of military censorship. The Army was handling this situation as General Eisenhower handled the truce with the Germans at the end of World War II. He tried to suppress the facts of the truce, but Edward Kennedy of the Associated Press refused to be a party to the deceit. Such newspapermen are in the grand tradition of this profession.

The first truce meetings were not even as between equals. The Chinese came as they chose; the Americans came as subordinates. It is astonishing that the Chinese communists did not revert to their ancient custom of requiring foreigners to kow-tow — that is to bow low, striking their foreheads on the ground three times in total abjection. The old Manchu emperors demanded that and were resisted by a braver race.

Who is responsible for this humiliation?

Someone issued the order to reduce the United States to a defeated nation. Or, have we been defeated? Are we suing for peace?

The entire episode is astonishing. The President's message of friendship to the Russian people, hammered over the Voice of America many times during the day, is also a misreading of the oriental as well as the Russian mentality.

Among Orientals one does not speak of friendship unless one feels weak, abject, subordinate. The language of position demands the tone of equality. It is a nuance of words and ideas which the psychological warfare ought to catch, by ear, almost instinctively. Orientals pay strict attention to such shadings of posture and manner.

In a word, both the Russians and the Chinese will sense a feeling of "scare" on the part of the United States. They, of course, know their own strength and weakness, and they can have a good idea of ours. But they must wonder why we are so scared. It must be difficult for people who have never known a free election to realize that the approach of the 1952 campaign has psychological effects upon the Administration that could not exist in their own countries. They shoot down the opposition.

The "loss of face" which the opening of the Kaesong conference has brought to us cannot be measured by specific yardsticks. Among those who must resist Russia in Asia, if they are to remain free and independent — Burma, Siam (Thailand), French Indo-China, Philippines, Pakistan and even India — the disappointment is likely to be very profound.

For even if the leaders in those countries recognize that Americans do not give a tinker's damn about "face," they will continue to wonder, as they have for many years, whether they dare entrust their fate and prospects to a country that so often does not seem to know what it is about.

No sound State Department would have permitted its country to walk into this obvious and cleverly constructed trap. Either the experts were ignored by the man from Independence, Missouri, or we no longer have any experts, or the same old pro-Communist gang, so violently opposed by Senator Joe McCarthy, is still at work. You can have your choice.

There is one other side to all this: Americans tend to be practical. If a truce is to be found, let's find it and get on with it! From that standpoint, what difference does it make whether we "lose face" or not? That side has meaning in the United States; in Asia it cannot be understood at all. Therefore, we might assume from the recklessness of the truce instructions that the State Department is prepared to pull out of Asia altogether and to leave that continent to Soviet Russia by default. In a word, in spite of all that has happened, this country is still functioning on the theories of Yalta.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The great controversy over whether the power to impose economic controls is to be retained by the emergency agencies revolves almost wholly around the need of price and wage regulation to arrest inflation. This is also the main argument for higher and higher taxes. But it now develops that controls can backfire and do such serious damage to the defense program as to make it questionable where the advantages of restrictive action really lie.

Thus, the defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson—who is doing an earnest and impartial job in trying to stabilize the economy — frankly confesses that price controls can sometimes do considerable damage. Accordingly, he has ordered the relaxation of price controls on machine tools and the modification of other emergency restrictions so as to get more metalworking tools produced sooner for the defense program.

To several government agencies now has gone a directive from Mr. Wilson aimed at dissolving the bottleneck in machine tools said to be holding up the rearmament program in key industries, especially in the manufacture of jet aircraft.

First of all, the directive permits higher prices for machine-tool makers as well as providing help in manpower, materials and the financing of contracts.

Encourage Production

Second, Mr. Wilson declares that adjustment of price ceilings is necessary so as to encourage increased production and to grant the industry "more equitable treatment." He states that the "cost of the delay in waiting for machine tools will far exceed the cost of the tools."

Third, the machine-tool industry, which is now operating at the rate of $675,000,000 a year, will have to be stepped up to make $2,900,000,000 of metalworking tools by July 1 of next year.

These considerations are serious enough to make exceptions in the government's price-control program, but the significant fact is that the government agencies are face to face with a reality—the need for encouragement of production.

Defense Effort Hurt

Most of the officials hereabouts have been so busy placating labor-union demands for limitations on corporate income, restrictions on amortization of plant facilities, and price controls that they have allowed the defense program to lag behind.

This is not the only reason, of course, for past delays in the armament program, because there are others—such as failure of the government to get going soon enough, as is evidenced by the revelations before a congressional committee that the famous B-36's have not been produced in quantities needed by the U. S. Air Force.

It is more important now to prevent future delays. The surest way to delay further the armament program is for Congress to listen to "left wing" propaganda that all is lost unless unlimited power is given to impose controls on prices. Even in the matter of the rollback of cattle prices, the issue has been exaggerated. In due time there will be a scarcity of beef because it will be found that the price-control program has discouraged production. The argument that the housewife is being discriminated against and that members of Congress who are questioning the drastic control methods are voting against the interest of the consumer is one that will not be uttered so loudly a year from now if the production of beef to take care of expanding demand is found to be much less than anticipated. The rule works there as it does on machine tools—production must be encouraged.

Unbiased Approach Needed

To manage the economic system of the United States in such a way as to curb runaway inflation and at the same time not to discourage productions requires a nonpolitical, dispassionate approach. Situations in different businesses and industries will vary. Hence a flexible power is more important than a rigid system. There would have been a grant of flexible power if many members of Congress and their constituents had not lost confidence in the handling of the control program. The dramatic defection by organized labor and the consequent approval of the escalator clauses in wage contracts, as demanded by the unions, led other groups to feel they, too, could exert pressure.

What is needed more than ever is a better understanding of incentives to production, and when the price-control officials take due account of the need for preserving incentive—and when Congress also takes this into consideration in the making of tax rates—there will be a better chance to restrain all groups and curb such inflationary trends as present a real danger.

Prices And Politics

By MARK SULLIVAN

The top official in charge of the agencies administering economic controls, Charles E. Wilson, is able and sincere, and of this the country is probably aware. His radio addresses to the country convey earnestness and conviction. And the country is certainly aware that some controls are necessary. Congress was aware of this when it enacted the existing controls in the Defense Production Act last September. And the country probably understands that the need for which the controls were set up will not end with whatever may be the outcome of the "cease fire" negotiations in Korea.

Why then is there unwillingness in Congress to enact controls which Mr. Wilson says are necessary, determination to undo some steps he has taken under the controls as they exist? In the debates there is comparatively little attack upon Mr. Wilson except as he is a symbol; there is no demand that he be replaced by another.

Mr. Wilson, in the earnest appeal he made to the country last Monday, said, "I do not know the political complications in the halls of Congress." Politics there is, though not in an exclusive or even major sense partisan politics. Groups of Democrats and groups of Republicans unite in the opposition to some controls.

Beef Price Roll-Back

Much of the politics is pressure politics, pressure by groups to which Congress reacts. This is illustrated by the strong disposition in Congress to undo what has become the most conspicuous of the steps taken by the Price Control Agency under Mr. Wilson, the "roll-back" in prices of beef. The reaction of Mid-West farmers to that rollback has been described in articles by John W. Ball of "The Washington Post." Writing from Chicago July 1 he reported that "the farmers . . . are angry . . . grass-roots meetings . . . are being held nightly in small farm communities." Meetings, Mr. Ball reported, are sponsored by branches of a national organization of farmers, the American Farm Bureau Federation. "Those present are urged to write their Representatives and Senators in Washington."

The people feel outraged about the price of beef, probably 99 out of 100 regard it as too high. They may or may not give thought to whether a "rollback" is the best way to remedy the condition, but that is the way it is presented to them. In any event their wish is outweighed by pressure from a group. The pressure bears on members of Congress belonging to both parties, both wish to carry the Mid-West farm vote in the Congressional election next year.

While the pressure against the rollback on prices of beef is especially well-oirganized and effective upon members of Congress, there are many others from various sources. The sum and resultant of them acounts for much of what Congress does about controls against which Mobilization Director Wilson complains.

Inherited Trouble

A large portion of Mr. Wilson's truobles are an inheritance. The outbreak in Korea that gave rise to need for controls occurred June 25 last year. President Truman within a short time appealed for authority to set up controls, and Congress enacted controls September 8. There was, however, delay on the part of the Administration in putting some of the controls into effect, the order freezing prices and wages did not come until January 26.

It is little wonder if much of the present criticism of controls in Congress dwels upon this delay. Because of it, Mr. Wilson did not get authority to set up controls until need for them had been made greater by rises in prices and wages that had taken place during the months of delay. Criticism in Congress is not against Mr. Wilson, he felt obliged to deal with condition as he found them when he got authority. Criticism is against President Truman as being responsible for the delay.

The criticism of Mr. Truman, as an incident of criticism of controls, goes farther back. The purport of the controls is to check inflation and rising prices and rising cost of living. But charges in Congress maintain, and are justified in maintaining, that over a period covering the whole of his Presidency beginning in 1945, he and his Administration followed policies and practices which caused the price level to rise, cost of living to go higher and inflation to get increasing momentum.

All this clearly is no responsibility of Mr. Wilson's.

The Case Of Tungsten

Two defense agencies have been charged with responsibility for this country's "pitifully small" store of tungsten, that hard and scarce metal essential to the production of arms and civilian goods. They are accused of playing "blind man's buff"—with all the players "blindfolded"—until the communist victory in China closed the best source of supply. And then, it is asserted, stockpiling "merely stepped up from a crawl to a shuffle."

A subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, generally called the Senate's defense "watchdog" committee, has handed up this indictment. The defense agencies involved are the Army and the Munitions Board. And the phrases already quoted are only some of the sharply worded criticisms in the subcommittee's report on the tungsten situation.

One more sentence might sum it up: "This is one of the worst examples of the evil effects of bureaucratic complacency upon the defense program that our subcommittee has uncovered."

It can be said in extenuation of the two agencies that the present stockpile, however inadequate, is larger than the supply in this country at the beginning of World War II. But that is not the question. The question is to what extent the nation's needs were met.

That must be the criterion, and the two agencies concerned can hardly plead not guilty. The subcommittee declares that "the free world stands on the verge of tungsten starvation." It says we are "in a position where we must tighten our belts until it hurts and it is going to hurt plenty." It says there is no possible way now to provide all the tungsten required for essential military and civilian production.

So there has been a failure. It was an inexcusable failure, because there is simply no excuse good enough when what needed to be done went undone.

Never Had It So Good

Norway has put on the American run a new tanker, the Dalfonn. Each of the 50 officers and seamen aboard the 24,500-ton motor ship has a private, air-conditioned cabin, and facilities for crew entertainment include an aluminum swimming pool.

All this luxury will seem incredible to those who have read "Moby Dick," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Twenty Years Before the Mast," or "The Caine Mutiny." Indeed, it will seem incredible to the men aboard most of the ships still afloat, for naval architects have not been noticeably solicitious about the comfort, or even the health, of seamen.

Bad ventilation, crowded sleeping quarters, lack of privacy and boredom have been the traditional lot of ships' crews.

The new dispensation is not wholly a matter of humanitarianism. The discomforts of life at sea, particularly on merchantmen, have lessened the number who are willing to become seamen.

The luxury offered by the Dalfonn is obviously an attempt to meet the problem of recruitment.

Some of the oldest and toughest of sea dogs may look with scorn at the Dalfonn, as an old Regular Army sergeant will snear at even the modest comforts of the modern army camp. But few will share their nostalgia for the Spartan life in the forecastles and barracks of old. Men can be men, good soldiers and good sailors, without living like cattle.

Aid To Korean Schools

The Republic of Korea has been assured by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization that it will be helped in the job of rehabilitating its schools. The Korean minister of education has asked for assistance in mapping out an educational program and for financial aid. He also asked for help in a campaign to increase literacy in his country.

The director general of Unesco, Jaime Torres Bodet, replied that the needed help would be given to Korea and mentioned the particular debt that the United Nations owed to Korea. Had the Republic wished to surrender to the North Koreans it might have spared the destruction of its cities. Instead it elected to fight and it became a symbol of United Nations unity. This is a debt that cannot be taken lightly.

It seems appropriate that one of the ways in which the obligation to Korea will be repaid is through education. In Korea the United Nations can prove to the world that it is interested not only in stopping wars by use of international force but also in preventing them by eliminating the sources of war. Poverty, ignorance and disease have been contributing causes to war since men first took arms against one another. Any move to eliminate or alleviate these evils is a step in the right direction.

Marching With Time

The "March of Time," documentary film series which has presented, analyzed and interpreted trends in the news for over seventeen years, will shortly be seen no more in the nation's movie houses. The films will henceforth be seen over television.

The series began in the midst of the great depression and continued to chronicle and explain the world situation through World War II and the eventful years since. The films maintained a standard of excellence that commanded attention even from people who went to the theater purely for relaxation and entertainment and who would ordinarily have shunned educational productions.

The long series contributed much to the documentary approach to movie making. Perhaps it can have a corresponding effect on the comparatively new field of television. In turning aside from its shrinking movie audiences and stepping into a new field, the film series seems to keep spirit with its dramatic identifying signature line, "Time marches on."

Spare Tires Again

The Defense Production Administration is lifting its ban against spare tires in new automobiles. Manly Fleischmann, the administrator, explained that there have been an improvement in the rubber situation and a reduction in automobile production. Fewer new cars require fewer spare tires. The combined result, he said, makes it possible to lift the ban against the spare.

All this is to the good. We are glad that the rubber situation is better. We are not glad that automobile production is lower, although on Sunday afternoons it is even possible to be glad for that. But we are glad that the new cars in the showrooms will have spare tires again. We think Fleischmann owes his public, however, exact figures on the rubber savings achieved by the spare tire ban, which prevented the manufacturer from installing a spare tire, leaving that job to the nearest service station.

Insect Venom Reactions

Fate plays strange tricks. A 42 year old Texan, in the best of health, decided to trim the hedge alongside his house. H struck a nest of yellow jackets and was stung on the forehead, back of the neck, and probably in the armpit. Within three minutes he turned blue and began to froth at the mouth; in five minutes he was dead. The man was thought at first to have had a heart attack but his physician finally came to the conclusion that sensitivity to the sting of a yellow jacket was responsible. Three weeks prior to his death he had been stung on an arm and the entire limb puffed up like a balloon.

A resident of Santa Monica, Cal., was more fortunate. He was strolling along the beach barefooted and stepped on some half dead bees lying in the sand near the water line. Almost immediately he felt a sharp pain near the base of his left great toe; ten minutes later his palms began to tingle and stiffen and the lips became numb and swollen. Within a half hour he became weak and suffered abdominal cramps. Meanwhile, swelling of the eyelids and other parts of the body, tightness of the chest, hives, and intense itching developed. His physician, who was called immediately, recognized the difficulty and the man was completely relieved after an injection of adrenalin.

Such reactions after insect bites usually are on an allergic basis; the individual is sensitive to the venom. As a rule the area swells and itches intensely; the lesion that arises after a mosquito bite is a typical example. The aftermath is more serious when greater sensitivity exists. In some the eyes become puffy and itching is excruciating; others encounter asthma with sneezing and wheezing. A sense of uneasiness, rapid pulse, and a fall in blood pressure also may occur. The severe reaction encountered by the California man is rare and the experience of the Texan was extremely unusual. Much depends upon the amount of venom injected and the degree of sensitivity.

The ordinary insect bite generally can be disregarded. Household ammonia or a wet pack made with sodium bicarbonate eases itching. Ointments containing one of the antihistaminics are proving to be excellent remedies; they are specific against allergies and frequently offer relief within a few minutes after application. A physician should be consulted for the more violent reactions because emergency care may be required. Persons who are not sensitive to mosquito bites often assert they never are bitten. This is not true; the insects like them as well as anyone else, but when there is no reaction to the sting the person is unaware of having been bitten.

Marked sensitivity to insects may be a hazard to men and women who work out in the open. A rancher or farmer, for example, who is sensitive to bees, wasps, or bettles must be on the lookout at all times. Desensitization may be necessary and stinging insect venoms now are available commercially, but continuous treatment with these extracts may be necessary because protection is shortlived. The antihistaminics also help and many must learn to give themselves emergency adrenalin if a dangerous reaction arises.

Next day I called Older in, figuring that in conformity with standard Communist practice he would deny membership in the party. But he didn't. He told the truth.

Dazzling Authoress

In a way this made things more difficult. If he had lied, it would have been easy to fire him. But when a man tells the truth you certainly owe it to him to listen to his story.

So we had a long talk, during which Older said he had joined the party early in 1940 largely through the influence of Ruth McKenny, author of "My Sister Eileen," and editor of the New Masses from 1937 to 1946, who later broke with Communism. The counsel for the Senate Internal Security Committee states that Miss McKenny broke with the party at the same time Browder had his difficulties.

Older's father was born in Russian Poland, and Andy had been ardently anxious for peace between the United States and Russia. He said, however, that he had had a few tough policies to swallow which had jarred him—one of them being the party line against preparedness at a time when Stalin and Hitler were allies in 1939, and later the sudden party switch to all-out preparedness.

He said that he had been trying to get away from the party, hadn't attended meetings since 1944 and was fed up with highhanded Communist tactics. However, he said that it was hard to get away when you were once a member because the comrades blackmailed you by threatening to expose your membership.

He said he gradually had come around to my point of view that Russia was the chief disrupter of the peace and that her tactics under the Kremlin were just as imperialistic as under the Czar.

Lippman Had Communist Secretary

At first I thought I could wean Older completely away from Communism and had some talks along this line with J. Edgar Hoover. I figured that if I could get Older to do a Budenz and take a militant stand against the party, he would become a highly useful citizen.

However, I also had heard that the Communists had planted a secretary on Walter Lippmann and that it was standard Communist practice to put men in key spots where they could influence public opinion. So, figuring there was no use making life difficult by sitting on a continual keg of dynamite, I let Older go.

I saw him occasionally after that and have reason to believe he threw his old associates overboard and straightened himself out politically. In fact, he became something of a small-scale capitalist, and in addition to his trade journals, operated a laundry.

And since he cannot be here to defend himself, I would like to say that Andy Older was one of those unfortunate youngsters, who, through the influence of persuasive personalities, got off to a bad start, but who saw things in a far clearer light before he died.

"Stop Eisenhower"

A full scale "Stop Eisenhower" campaign is being cooked up backstage by the Chicago Tribune and backers of Senator Taft.

Taft himself probably doesn't know about it, but a rough smear job to discourage General Eisenhower from going after the GOP nomination for president is being conducted as part of the regular four-year warmup for picking a president.

Initial move was a Chicago Tribune syndicated story of July 7, which inferred that Eisenhower, as president of Columbia University, is friendly with Communists. Similar stories are due to appear later.

Another and more kindly facet of the campaign, credit to Taft's unofficial campaign strategist, Sen. Owen Brewster, is to spread the story among delegates that the general is too busy organizing Europe's defenses to "play politics."

This is now being told Republican grass-roots leaders by Taft organizers.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

"Face"

In the orient, "face" is everything. It is the quality of success, of position, of authority. It determines who is right and who is wrong. Surely, the Far Eastern experts in the State Department and those who practice psychological warfare know all about "face."

Yet, this country has been jockied into the position of suing for peace. Instead of meeting on a hospital ship, the truce conference is in enemy-held territory, in an enemy city, surrounded by an enemy guard. Our representatives came unarmed; the enemy came armed. They were serviced by their press and photographers; our reporters were forbidden access to the meetings.

This was not what the Army intended the American people to know. It was only the courage and daring of American newspapermen who forced these facts into the open in spite of military censorship. The Army was handling this situation as General Eisenhower handled the truce with the Germans at the end of World War II. He tried to suppress the facts of the truce, but Edward Kennedy of the Associated Press refused to be a party to the deceit. Such newspapermen are in the grand tradition of this profession.

The first truce meetings were not even as between equals. The Chinese came as they chose; the Americans came as subordinates. It is astonishing that the Chinese communists did not revert to their ancient custom of requiring foreigners to kow-tow — that is to bow low, striking their foreheads on the ground three times in total abjection. The old Manchu emperors demanded that and were resisted by a braver race.

Who is responsible for this humiliation?

Someone issued the order to reduce the United States to a defeated nation. Or, have we been defeated? Are we suing for peace?

The entire episode is astonishing. The President's message of friendship to the Russian people, hammered over the Voice of America many times during the day, is also a misreading of the oriental as well as the Russian mentality.

Among Orientals one does not speak of friendship unless one feels weak, abject, subordinate. The language of position demands the tone of equality. It is a nuance of words and ideas which the psychological warfare ought to catch, by ear, almost instinctively. Orientals pay strict attention to such shadings of posture and manner.

In a word, both the Russians and the Chinese will sense a feeling of "scare" on the part of the United States. They, of course, know their own strength and weakness, and they can have a good idea of ours. But they must wonder why we are so scared. It must be difficult for people who have never known a free election to realize that the approach of the 1952 campaign has psychological effects upon the Administration that could not exist in their own countries. They shoot down the opposition.

The "loss of face" which the opening of the Kaesong conference has brought to us cannot be measured by specific yardsticks. Among those who must resist Russia in Asia, if they are to remain free and independent — Burma, Siam (Thailand), French Indo-China, Philippines, Pakistan and even India — the disappointment is likely to be very profound.

For even if the leaders in those countries recognize that Americans do not give a tinker's damn about "face," they will continue to wonder, as they have for many years, whether they dare entrust their fate and prospects to a country that so often does not seem to know what it is about.

No sound State Department would have permitted its country to walk into this obvious and cleverly constructed trap. Either the experts were ignored by the man from Independence, Missouri, or we no longer have any experts, or the same old pro-Communist gang, so violently opposed by Senator Joe McCarthy, is still at work. You can have your choice.

There is one other side to all this: Americans tend to be practical. If a truce is to be found, let's find it and get on with it! From that standpoint, what difference does it make whether we "lose face" or not? That side has meaning in the United States; in Asia it cannot be understood at all. Therefore, we might assume from the recklessness of the truce instructions that the State Department is prepared to pull out of Asia altogether and to leave that continent to Soviet Russia by default. In a word, in spite of all that has happened, this country is still functioning on the theories of Yalta.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The great controversy over whether the power to impose economic controls is to be retained by the emergency agencies revolves almost wholly around the need of price and wage regulation to arrest inflation. This is also the main argument for higher and higher taxes. But it now develops that controls can backfire and do such serious damage to the defense program as to make it questionable where the advantages of restrictive action really lie.

Thus, the defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson—who is doing an earnest and impartial job in trying to stabilize the economy — frankly confesses that price controls can sometimes do considerable damage. Accordingly, he has ordered the relaxation of price controls on machine tools and the modification of other emergency restrictions so as to get more metalworking tools produced sooner for the defense program.

To several government agencies now has gone a directive from Mr. Wilson aimed at dissolving the bottleneck in machine tools said to be holding up the rearmament program in key industries, especially in the manufacture of jet aircraft.

First of all, the directive permits higher prices for machine-tool makers as well as providing help in manpower, materials and the financing of contracts.

Encourage Production

Second, Mr. Wilson declares that adjustment of price ceilings is necessary so as to encourage increased production and to grant the industry "more equitable treatment." He states that the "cost of the delay in waiting for machine tools will far exceed the cost of the tools."

Third, the machine-tool industry, which is now operating at the rate of $675,000,000 a year, will have to be stepped up to make $2,900,000,000 of metalworking tools by July 1 of next year.

These considerations are serious enough to make exceptions in the government's price-control program, but the significant fact is that the government agencies are face to face with a reality—the need for encouragement of production.

Defense Effort Hurt

Most of the officials hereabouts have been so busy placating labor-union demands for limitations on corporate income, restrictions on amortization of plant facilities, and price controls that they have allowed the defense program to lag behind.

This is not the only reason, of course, for past delays in the armament program, because there are others—such as failure of the government to get going soon enough, as is evidenced by the revelations before a congressional committee that the famous B-36's have not been produced in quantities needed by the U. S. Air Force.

It is more important now to prevent future delays. The surest way to delay further the armament program is for Congress to listen to "left wing" propaganda that all is lost unless unlimited power is given to impose controls on prices. Even in the matter of the rollback of cattle prices, the issue has been exaggerated. In due time there will be a scarcity of beef because it will be found that the price-control program has discouraged production. The argument that the housewife is being discriminated against and that members of Congress who are questioning the drastic control methods are voting against the interest of the consumer is one that will not be uttered so loudly a year from now if the production of beef to take care of expanding demand is found to be much less than anticipated. The rule works there as it does on machine tools—production must be encouraged.

Unbiased Approach Needed

To manage the economic system of the United States in such a way as to curb runaway inflation and at the same time not to discourage productions requires a nonpolitical, dispassionate approach. Situations in different businesses and industries will vary. Hence a flexible power is more important than a rigid system. There would have been a grant of flexible power if many members of Congress and their constituents had not lost confidence in the handling of the control program. The dramatic defection by organized labor and the consequent approval of the escalator clauses in wage contracts, as demanded by the unions, led other groups to feel they, too, could exert pressure.

What is needed more than ever is a better understanding of incentives to production, and when the price-control officials take due account of the need for preserving incentive—and when Congress also takes this into consideration in the making of tax rates—there will be a better chance to restrain all groups and curb such inflationary trends as present a real danger.

Prices And Politics

By MARK SULLIVAN

The top official in charge of the agencies administering economic controls, Charles E. Wilson, is able and sincere, and of this the country is probably aware. His radio addresses to the country convey earnestness and conviction. And the country is certainly aware that some controls are necessary. Congress was aware of this when it enacted the existing controls in the Defense Production Act last September. And the country probably understands that the need for which the controls were set up will not end with whatever may be the outcome of the "cease fire" negotiations in Korea.

Why then is there unwillingness in Congress to enact controls which Mr. Wilson says are necessary, determination to undo some steps he has taken under the controls as they exist? In the debates there is comparatively little attack upon Mr. Wilson except as he is a symbol; there is no demand that he be replaced by another.

Mr. Wilson, in the earnest appeal he made to the country last Monday, said, "I do not know the political complications in the halls of Congress." Politics there is, though not in an exclusive or even major sense partisan politics. Groups of Democrats and groups of Republicans unite in the opposition to some controls.

Beef Price Roll-Back

Much of the politics is pressure politics, pressure by groups to which Congress reacts. This is illustrated by the strong disposition in Congress to undo what has become the most conspicuous of the steps taken by the Price Control Agency under Mr. Wilson, the "roll-back" in prices of beef. The reaction of Mid-West farmers to that rollback has been described in articles by John W. Ball of "The Washington Post." Writing from Chicago July 1 he reported that "the farmers . . . are angry . . . grass-roots meetings . . . are being held nightly in small farm communities." Meetings, Mr. Ball reported, are sponsored by branches of a national organization of farmers, the American Farm Bureau Federation. "Those present are urged to write their Representatives and Senators in Washington."

The people feel outraged about the price of beef, probably 99 out of 100 regard it as too high. They may or may not give thought to whether a "rollback" is the best way to remedy the condition, but that is the way it is presented to them. In any event their wish is outweighed by pressure from a group. The pressure bears on members of Congress belonging to both parties, both wish to carry the Mid-West farm vote in the Congressional election next year.

While the pressure against the rollback on prices of beef is especially well-oirganized and effective upon members of Congress, there are many others from various sources. The sum and resultant of them acounts for much of what Congress does about controls against which Mobilization Director Wilson complains.

Inherited Trouble

A large portion of Mr. Wilson's truobles are an inheritance. The outbreak in Korea that gave rise to need for controls occurred June 25 last year. President Truman within a short time appealed for authority to set up controls, and Congress enacted controls September 8. There was, however, delay on the part of the Administration in putting some of the controls into effect, the order freezing prices and wages did not come until January 26.

It is little wonder if much of the present criticism of controls in Congress dwels upon this delay. Because of it, Mr. Wilson did not get authority to set up controls until need for them had been made greater by rises in prices and wages that had taken place during the months of delay. Criticism in Congress is not against Mr. Wilson, he felt obliged to deal with condition as he found them when he got authority. Criticism is against President Truman as being responsible for the delay.

The criticism of Mr. Truman, as an incident of criticism of controls, goes farther back. The purport of the controls is to check inflation and rising prices and rising cost of living. But charges in Congress maintain, and are justified in maintaining, that over a period covering the whole of his Presidency beginning in 1945, he and his Administration followed policies and practices which caused the price level to rise, cost of living to go higher and inflation to get increasing momentum.

All this clearly is no responsibility of Mr. Wilson's.

Prince Becomes Benedictine Monk

DEGGENDORF, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Prince Friedrich Von Sachsenmeiningen, brother-in-law of Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the defunct Austro-Hungarian crown, has become a benedictine monk, it was disclosed here today.

The Prince took the Bendictine vow Wednesday.

It was learned the prince had joined the Catholic clergy last year. He became a priest at Passau, Germany, under the name of Vincenz Maria Marck.

know today that the amount of solids deposited from a flue-gas stream will not be in proportion to the loading of the flue-gas stream. In fact, a lightly loaded flue-gas stream such as is present at the local P. E. River Plant may under some conditions deposit a greater weights close to the stack area than a plant having a much higher dust concentration.

"This problem of setting a dustfall limitation has become quite involved and very controversial.

History Outlined

"At first and prior to 1938, the limitation was on a simple nuisance basis. However, all plant operators objected that such a limitation was unreasonably indefinite. Then in 1938 the City of New York set the limitation of 400 'grains' of cinders per 1000 cubic feet of flue-gas, but failed to and did omit the gas temperature and so restricted the standard to be useless.

"Then in 1940 St. Louis set the figure of 0.75 grains per cubic foot of flue-gas at a stack temperature of 500 degrees F—this was workable for big and little plant operators. It was adopted by Pittsburgh and used by them to clean-up their city. It has done a good job for them and is doing a good job for us—should we ask for a correction under the circumstances?

"The Smoke Prevention Association of America, Inc., authorized a sub committee to work on this problem in the spring of 1947 and after three years of work and study they made certain recommendations on May 25, 1950, to adopt as a standard a complete new set of rules. To the best of my knowledge, no city has had courage to take this step. I do not recommend to your body any such legislation that has to be proven—even though I believe the sub-committee will someday obtain this as a national standard.

"Their standard of emission value is not given as a value that expresses a scientific dividing-line between nuisance and a nonnuisance and as you all know the mental conception of what constitutes a nuisance varies with different individuals and with the same individual at different times and ages. In the net result an economic compromise on all dust limitation value is more likely to be required. Our present law does not demand of any plant operator a criterion that he can not accept and accomplish. It will and has, as reflected in this year's steady improvement in dustfall readings for our city, brought about a cleaner condition.

S[illegible] Not Fix Fuel

"In my considered opinion and with[illegible] writing endless pages in support of our ordinance, I honestly believe the Ordinance No. 1815 will need no changes for the next five years. No ordinance should dictate even the type of fuel to be used, say in a diesel locomotive which is smoking, or in order to eliminate the SO2 or CO2 from industry, or in the firing of fuel in a blast furnace or in an incinerator. In fact, it would be inconsistent to change over to some other fuel in a plant that was smoking while burning refuse, garbage, or process fumes because, and I have stated it many times, fuel is not the cause of smoke or fly ash. Why then restrict it's use? And in view of our local economical structure, I must strongly advise against any restriction on coal.

"The aforegoing statement will indicate to you that I believe the present smoke ordinance is adequate. As to its enforcement, Mayor Thomas S. Post, as executive head of the city, directed me to proceed upon the enforcement of our ordinance with one basic principle in mind and that was to co-operate with our industry in an educational program, and to prosecute only those who failed to show the right spirit of co-operation.

"In adopting this principle, it took more time on the part of the Smoke Abatement Department. Its wisdom and results are a source of gratification, for the relationship between our transportation systems and the industries of our community have never before stood on such a co-operative plane."

S[illegible] Not Fix Fuel

"In my considered opinion and wi[illegible] writing endless pages in support of our ordinance, I honestly believe the Ordinance No. 1815 will need no changes for the next five years. No ordinance should dictate even the type of fuel to be used, say in a diesel locomotive which is smoking, or in order to eliminate the SO2 or CO2 from industry, or in the firing of fuel in a blast furnace or in an incinerator. In fact, it would be inconsistent to change over to some other fuel in a plant that was smoking while burning refuse, garbage, or process fumes because, and I have stated it many times, fuel is not the cause of smoke or fly ash. Why then restrict it's use? And in view of our local economical structure, I must strongly advise against any restriction on coal.

"The aforegoing statement will indicate to you that I believe the present smoke ordinance is adequate. As to its enforcement, Mayor Thomas S. Post, as executive head of the city, directed me to proceed upon the enforcement of our ordinance with one basic principle in mind and that was to co-operate with our industry in an educational program, and to prosecute only those who failed to show the right spirit of co-operation.

"In adopting this principle, it took more time on the part of the Smoke Abatement Department. Its wisdom and results are a source of gratification, for the relationship between our transportation systems and the industries of our community have never before stood on such a co-operative plane."

Progress Noted In County Life Study Project

A project of the Maryland State Department of Education to obtain a comprehensive picture of life in each of the state's counties is making progress here.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools for the county Board of Education, reported that for a year and a half information has been accumulated by the various committees appointed to carry out the different phases of the program.

The overall plan is to have each county board of education supply the detailed material necessary to tell of the county, its people, industries and geography.

All these facts will be accumulated and a plan coordinated by Dr. James E. Spitznas, formerly of here, director of education for the State Department of Education, the bulletins will be exchanged.

Thus, for the first time, the schools will have usable, concrete information on life in the state to base their Maryland studies.

For the researchers a separate committee prepared a bulletin on "Handbook of Instructions for Preparing a Bulletin."

With this guide the work has progressed on these phases of the culture in Allegany county; Historical aspects of Allegany county; geographical aspects; ethnic background of the people, industrial development and social life.

The committees, which have been augmented since the beginning of the project, all teachers and members of the Board of Education staff, are:

History—Gertrude Williams and Martha Donaldson, with Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of county junior high schools as consultant.

Geography — Alma G. Logsdon, chairman, Msr. Roberta C. Andrews and Frederick H. Seeley, with Miss Nellie S. Willison as consultant.

Background of residents — Mrs. Evelyn Poland, chairman, Miss Kathleen McDermott, co-chairman; Ina Spitznas, Marie D. Ingles, Helen M. Allee, Catherine Manley, Nellie Thomas Isaacs, Emogene Caudill and Esther Holzshu with Miss Winifred Greene, elementary school supervisor, as consultant.

Industrial development — Robert C. Morris, chairman; Margaret K. Ringler, Nellie Kooken and Paul Footen, with Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools as consultant.

Social life — Ruth E. Franklin, chairman, Orpha Clark, Martha Shaner and Miss Jane Botsford, elementary school supervisor, as consultant.

Editing committee—Nellie Willison and Jean Bowen.

135 August Draftees Will Be Marines

BALTIMORE —(AP)— One out of every five Marylanders inducted into the military service next month will go into the Marine Corps, it was learned here.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director of Selective Service, said about 135 draftees will be assigned to the Marines.

A defense department order Tuesday raised the nation's draft sights for August from 22,000 to 35,000. Of these, 6,000 are headed for the Marine Corps. Maryland's share will be about 135, Stanwood said, and the state's overall draft quota is 688.

Those slated for Marine Corps service will be picked at induction centers. A new Defense Department order provides examining stations which will process inductees for all branches of the military service.

The August draft will take men ranging from 18½ through 25. They will be subject to 24 months' service.

IF, to paraphrase Kipling's poem, a woman could be friendly with Capital officials and celebrities everywhere, yet speak the language of Every man. . . IF she had common sense, but wasn't common. . . IF she were bright, but never brittle. . . IF she could be mother of two grown sons yet keep a girlish figure. . . IF she could be a fascinating lady, beautifully dressed, yet never seem frivolous or self-centered. . . IF she could go to luncheon with Vice President and Mrs. Barkley, yet often choose to dine alone with a book on economy. . . IF she could, as a Washington correspondent, write a rattlingly good column for several large newspapers—IF she could do all these things, and be all these things, then she'd surely be Florence Mahoney.—AUSTINE

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Come what may in Korea, it's going to cost you a lot of money in the next few years—whether those years bring peace or war.

We have become punchy with digits followed by a procession of ciphers, and no longer really comprehend them—if we ever did.

Our current defense program, which has little or nothing to do with Korea, will cost us $150 billion, at the very least. Sixty billion of it is asked for 1952, for our own needs alone, plus $8 billion for real or imagined allies.

That's a lot more money than this government spent in the first century and more of its 175 years of existence. From a human factor, as a matter of fact, we have lost more men in the Korean "police action" than we did in two wars with England, one with Mexico and one with Spain.

Booklet Clarifies Problem

We'll be paying for Korea and the present rearmament program beyond the year 2,000 A. D. A new booklet issued by the Public Affairs Committee attempts to clarify the overwhelming problem. I quote:

"We often hear it said that when a nation borrows money for war or national defense, it is taking the burden off the present generations and placing it on future generations.

"This is misleading. There is no way by which the costs of defense, or of war, can be postponed. They must be paid out of income as we go along.

"Borrowing merely involves the promise of a reward in the future for those who bear the burden at the time. Let us see how it works.

"If the government borrows $50 billion for defense, the money advanced by individuals is used to build airplanes and battleships and to pay our soldiers and sailors. The persons who lend the money have less to spend for their personal needs. In return for their doing without certain things at this time, the government promises that they will be repaid out of taxes levied on future income.

"But the future generations do not pay the cost of defense; they merely repay the persons, or their descendants, who advanced the money for defense costs during the emergency.

"Why this is so can be seen by looking at what actually happens when a country strengthens its defenses. The steel which goes into tanks, battleships and bombs, the food and uniforms provided to the men in our armed forces, must be real.

Someone Must Sacrifice

"We cannot use today the things we make tomorrow. The supplies used in defense come from the work done today, and reduce by so much the supplies available for today's living. Someone must sacrifice, let us say, a new house or a new radio, if all the needed materials and skilled labor are to be available for defense.

"The question is, who will be called upon to make the sacrifice and on what terms?

"This does not mean that you and I will have less money in our pay envelopes from now on. Perhaps some of us will. But many of us will have more, through longer hours and overtime work. Taking the country as a whole, rearmament has put a great deal of extra money in people's pockets.

"Unless the extra money is drained off in taxes or some other way, prices are bound to rise. Price ceilings, at best, can serve only as a stopgap. If people have extra money left over, they are likely to look around for a place to spend it. If they buy bonds, well and good.

"But if they don't buy bonds, they are bound to bid up prices of unregulated scarce articles. It is this process that leads to inflation."

Be nice if UN worked, wouldn't it?

Local Service Record Set By All-American

By carrying 1,057 passengers Sunday, All-American Airways reportedly is the first "local service" air carrier in the nation to carry over 1,000 passengers for any one day in scheduled service.

A spokesman for the airline pointed out that this new record resulted in a "load factor" of over 65 per cent for the day. In airline language, it was explained, load factor is defined as the percentage of seats filled based on the available seats and miles flown for a particular period of time.

New Drive-In Theatre Being Considered

A Petersburg, W. Va., man inquired by letter yesterday concerning the location of a drive-in theatre at the "Y" intersection of McMullen Highway and the road between McCoole and Westernport.

He wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners pertaining to the drive-in theater and asked if an application were needed to establish such an enterprise.

Two requests were also received for road repair work.

Harry Hughes asked that the Short Day Road off Cash Valley Road in Dressman's Addition be widened and repaired. It was referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

Mrs. Paul Paugh asked that Prospect Drive in Potomac Park be repaired. She cited it is used by many Celanese workers of the neighborhood and by school buses.

The board also accepted the bid of the Eiler Chevrolet Company, to furnish a pickup truck for use of the County Roads Department. The local firm was low bidder on its offer of $650 for a trade in on an old truck owned by the county and $1,554.75 for the new truck making a net bid of $905.75. Other bids were received from Collins GMC Company, this city, and Heiskell Ford Motor Company, of Frostburg.

The bid of the John C. Lewis Company, of Baltimore, to furnish a loader for use of the County Roads Department was also accepted. The firm bid $6,950 on the loader. There were several other higher bidders.

Further tabulation was termed necessary before the bid on a grader for use of the Roads Department will be awarded. There are three firms among the low bidders, but certain technical checking must be made before one is selected.

A spilled perfume bottle can do a lot of damage in your luggage! Easy precautions will prevent such a mishap.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Like the little boy who brought the butter home under his hat on a hot day, the charmer who doesn't pack her perfumes and liquid toiletries safely will find that at the end of her trip they have all wasted away.

The leaking of perfumes and other liquids in vacation luggage is one of life's little tragedies that needs never occur — and won't if you follow the suggestions of the Fragrance Foundation, whose experts have tackled the problem scientifically.

Expert Safeguards

A perfume bottle that is to go traveling should never be more than three-quarters full. The empty space allows for the expansion of heat or high altitudes.

If the bottle has a ground glass stopper, twist it into the neck of the bottle. When it's so tight that it will not open with the turn of your hand, rest secure—it's secure! Never use nail polish for sealing because the alcohol in the perfume will eventually dissolve it. Use paraffin instead. You can also depend on pharmaceutical corks, which are abtainable at low cost from your druggist. Another suggestion is a leak-proof atomizer; it's slightly more costly but also more permanent.

At your destination, hot water will remove the paraffin. To loosen a tightly packed stopper just tap it with another piece of glass.

Colognes and toilet water usually come in bottles with screw caps, which are excellent travelers if you just observe the precaution of making sure that the bottle is no more than three-quarters full and if you double check the tightness of the cap.

Bath Liquids And Powders

The safest way to comport your liquid bath toiletries (like oil or bubbles) is to transfer them to one of the new, unbreakable, plastic bottles. Bath powder and talcums packaged in shaker-type containers are no problem at all.

If you prefer the luxury of a puff and box of dusting powder, pack them this way: Place a cleansing tissue over the powder so that the edges fall over the sides of the box all around; place the puff on top of this tissue; squeeze the cover on over the wedges of tissue; and then, wrap the whole thing in tissue and ribbon.

With the above know-how you can always safely take your glamor aids with you.

Monday: Bosses tell why some business girls can't get ahead.

Mirror Of Your Mind

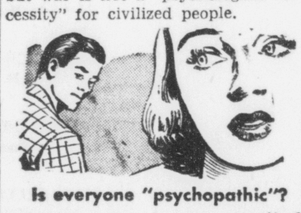
By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are all of us born "aggressive"?

Answer: This remains the most debated question that I know of in psychiatry. Dr. D. W. Harding's rather satisfying answer in the British Journal of Medical Psychology is that the capacity for aggressive behavior (that is, for fighting for what you want) is inborn, but the wish to exercise it depends upon circumstances— above all, the amount of frustration you experience as a child. What he calls a "socially developed person" will not be able to fight without feeling regret if not "anguish of mind." Aggression is sometimes inevitable, but war is not a "psychological necessity" for civilized people.

Is childishness a form of mental illness?

Answer: Not inherently, says Dr. Bengt J. Lindberg in the Copenhagen "Acta Psychiatrica." Psychoinfantilism is an attitude or mental weakness rather than a disease, and shows a wide range of differences. People who are psycho-infantile are characterized by helplessness, uncertainty and a desire for guidance and authority. They are easily influenced and may break down under the strain of being forced to make decisions. But while an emotionally childish person who has never had to "face reality" may not be neurotic—and may even be quite happy — psycho-infantilism is at the root of most mental illness.



Is everyone "psychopathic"?

Answer: Not in any practical sense. Nearly everyone has trends which are characteristic of some form of mental illness and so could be classified as "psychopathic," but the type of people the psychiatrists call "psychopaths" are happily comparatively rare. Most of us, for example, sometimes do things which we are ashamed of but our consciences (or common sense) prevent our doing such things most of the time. A true psychopath has neither any directly effective conscience not any ability to foresee the consequences of his actions. He will lie or cheat to his own long-range disadvantage.

Whitworth Urges Closer Control On State's Entire Budget System

Would Eliminate Special Fund Idea

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., of Westernport, yesterday made six specific recommendations to the Commission on State Governmental Reorganization at its session in Hagerstown. His talk before the group was on "Better Budget Procedure in Maryland."

His recommendations follow:

"1. Present a factual budget to the people of Maryland and the General Assembly by the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental appropriations into one statement that would disclose the total spending proposal for each department and purpose.

"2. Make each department live within its appropriations by fixing a ceiling on their expenditures.

"3. Reduce and eliminate if possible budget amendments to prevent the shifting and transferring of funds from one department to another.

Would Cut Special Funds

"4. Make a thorough study of the Baltimore City budget procedure.

"5. Reduce the number of special funds and eliminate the "special fund clause" in the budget bill itself.

"6. Stop surplus financing by a closer and more realistic estimate of revenues."

Part of his statement follows:

"From my past and present experience as a member of the General Assembly of Maryland from Allegany county, and having served on the Ways and Means Committee of the House for the past five years I have found myself and the majority of the other members of the General Assembly limited in knowledge and in the ability to obtain the true financial picture of state finances and therefore I have fought for certain changes in budget procedure, that in my opinion, are the only means of obtaining for the people of Maryland a more efficient and economic administration of the taxpayers money that is in many cases, shamefully being wasted by the various state agencies."

"I might say that I am not alone in my opinions, and that my thoughts are shared by various organizations, such as the Baltimore Association of Commerce, the Commission on Governmental Economy and Efficiency and many business people throughout the state who are interested in good government.

More Control Needed

"In my opinion the commission should direct its attention especially to the special fund system that has grown by leaps and bounds in our financial system to the extent that at the present time 45 percent of our total budget is made up of special funds that the Legislature no longer has control over by reason of the special clause placed in the budget bill itself at the end of each department's appropriations that has special funds.

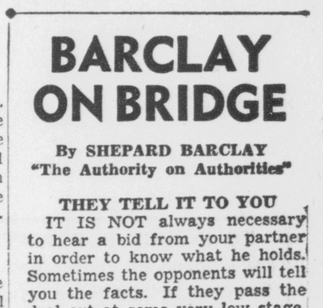
"This system started some years ago in the Health Department Mattress Fund which was for the purpose of policing the mattress business in Maryland, and is being used by other Departments, such as the University of Maryland, which has more than $8,000,000 in special funds alone which come from the people of Maryland and their representatives in the assembly have no voice in."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

THEY TELL IT TO YOU

IT IS NOT always necessary to hear a bid from your partner in order to know what he holds. Sometimes the opponents will tell you the facts. If they pass the deal out at some very low stage, such as 1-No Trump or two of a suit, and your own hand is of just about average strength, you can feel pretty sure your partner has a holding roughly equal to your own, perhaps a bit better. You can therefore consider reopening the bidding with some kind of action. If there is no clear-cut declaration for you to bid, your best action in such a spot is usually a double. That gives your partner a chance to bid his best denomination or make a business pass.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	Pass	Dbl

West's pass of the 2-Hearts told North practically as much about his partner's total strength as would a bid by him. South was sure to have practically an average hand, or very close to it, possibly slightly better than average. Since North had a bit of support for either of the unbid suits, and was equipped with pretty close to a stopper in each of the opponents' suits, if South preferred to try No Trumps, he made the sound move of reopening the bidding with a double.

This gave South the widest possible range of choices. He soundly chose the most profitable, a business pass of the double, in view of the position of his high cards in hearts. With his own indifferent hand, opposite a partner who could not bid voluntarily on the first round, he felt sure his side could not make a game in anything. He also appreciated the truism that beating the opponents' doubled contract at all pays better in the long run than making any less than game contract.

His pass paid out, as the defenders scored three tricks in trumps, three in clubs and one in diamonds, beating the 2-Hearts two tricks for 500 points, whereas the best contract for his side would have been only 3-Diamonds or 2-No Trumps, worth much less.

Progress Noted In County Life Study Project

A project of the Maryland State Department of Education to obtain a comprehensive picture of life in each of the state's counties is making progress here.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools for the county Board of Education, reported that for a year and a half information has been accumulated by the various committees appointed to carry out the different phases of the program.

The overall plan is to have each county board of education supply the detailed material necessary to tell of the county, its people, industries and geography.

All these facts will be accumulated and a plan coordinated by Dr. James E. Spitznas, formerly of here, director of education for the State Department of Education, the bulletins will be exchanged.

Thus, for the first time, the schools will have usable, concrete information on life in the state to base their Maryland studies.

For the researchers a separate committee prepared a bulletin on "Handbook of Instructions for Preparing a Bulletin."

With this guide the work has progressed on these phases of the culture in Allegany county; Historical aspects of Allegany county; geographical aspects; ethnic background of the people, industrial development and social life.

The committees, which have been augmented since the beginning of the project, all teachers and members of the Board of Education staff, are:

History—Gertrude Williams and Martha Donaldson, with Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of county junior high schools as consultant.

Geography — Alma G. Logsdon, chairman, Msr. Roberta C. Andrews and Frederick H. Seeley, with Miss Nellie S. Willison as consultant.

Background of residents — Mrs. Evelyn Poland, chairman, Miss Kathleen McDermott, co-chairman; Ina Spitznas, Marie D. Ingles, Helen M. Allee, Catherine Manley, Nellie Thomas Isaacs, Emogene Caudill and Esther Holzshu with Miss Winifred Greene, elementary school supervisor, as consultant.

Industrial development — Robert C. Morris, chairman; Margaret K. Ringler, Nellie Kooken and Paul Footen, with Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools as consultant.

Social life — Ruth E. Franklin, chairman, Orpha Clark, Martha Shaner and Miss Jane Botsford, elementary school supervisor, as consultant.

Editing committee—Nellie Willison and Jean Bowen.

135 August Draftees Will Be Marines

BALTIMORE—(AP)—One out of every five Marylanders inducted into the military service next month will go into the Marine Corps, it was learned here.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director of Selective Service, said about 135 draftees will be assigned to the Marines.

A defense department order Tuesday raised the nation's draft sights for August from 22,000 to 35,000. Of these, 6,000 are headed for the Marine Corps. Maryland's share will be about 135, Stanwood said, and the state's overall draft quota is 688.

Those slated for Marine Corps service will be picked at induction centers. A new Defense Department order provides examining stations which will process inductees for all branches of the military service.

The August draft will take men ranging from 18½ through 25. They will be subject to 24 months' service.

Washington Whirl

IF, to paraphrase Kipling's poem, a woman could be friendly with Capital officials and celebrities everywhere, yet speak the language of Every man. . . IF she had common sense, but wasn't common. . . IF she were bright, but never brittle. . . IF she could be mother of two grown sons yet keep a girlish figure. . . IF she could be a fascinating lady, beautifully dressed, yet never seem frivolous or self-centered. . . IF she could go to luncheon with Vice President and Mrs. Barkley, yet often choose to dine alone with a book on economy. . . ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Come what may in Korea, it's going to cost you a lot of money in the next few years—whether those years bring peace or war.

We have become punchy with digits followed by a procession of ciphers, and no longer really comprehend them—if we ever did.

Our current defense program, which has little or nothing to do with Korea, will cost us $150 billion at the very least. Sixty billion of it is asked for 1952, for our own needs alone, plus $8 billion for real or imagined allies.

That's a lot more money than this government spent in the first century and more of its 175 years of existence. From a human factor, as a matter of fact, we have lost more men in the Korean "police action" than we did in two wars with England, one with Mexico and one with Spain.

Booklet Clarifies Problem

We'll be paying for Korea and the present rearmament program beyond the year 2,000 A. D. A new booklet issued by the Public Affairs Committee attempts to clarify the overwhelming problem. I quote:

"We often hear it said that when a nation borrows money for war or national defense, it is taking the burden off the present generations and placing it on future generations.

"This is misleading. There is no way by which the costs of defense, or of war, can be postponed. They must be paid out of income as we go along.

"Borrowing merely involves the promise of a reward in the future for those who bear the burden at the time. Let us see how it works.

"If the government borrows $50 billion for defense, the money advanced by individuals is used to build airplanes and battleships and to pay our soldiers and sailors. The persons who lend the money have less to spend for their personal needs. In return for their doing without certain things at this time, the government promises that they will be repaid out of taxes levied on future income.

"But the future generations do not pay the cost of defense; they merely repay the persons, or their descendants, who advanced the money for defense costs during the emergency.

"Why this is so can be seen by looking at what actually happens when a country strengthens its defenses. The steel which goes into tanks, battleships and bombs, the food and uniforms provided to the men in our armed forces, must be real.

Someone Must Sacrifice

"We cannot use today the things we make tomorrow. The supplies used in defense come from the work done today, and reduce by so much the supplies available for today's living. Someone must sacrifice, let us say, a new house or a new radio, if all the needed materials and skilled labor are to be available for defense.

"The question is, who will be called upon to make the sacrifice and on what terms?

"This does not mean that you and I will have less money in our pay envelopes from now on. Perhaps some of us will. But many of us will have more, through longer hours and overtime work. Taking the country as a whole, rearmament has put a great deal of extra money in people's pockets.

"Unless the extra money is drained off in taxes or some other way, prices are bound to rise. Price ceilings, at best, can serve only as a stopgap. If people have extra money left over, they are likely to look around for a place to spend it. If they buy bonds, well and good.

"But if they don't buy bonds, they are bound to bid up prices of unregulated scarce articles. It is this process that leads to inflation."

Be nice if UN worked, wouldn't it?

The bid of the John C. Lewis Company, of Baltimore, to furnish a loader for use of the County Roads Department was also accepted. The firm bid $6,950 on the loader. There were several other higher bidders.

A spilled perfume bottle can do a lot of damage in your luggage! Easy precautions will prevent such a mishap.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Like the little boy who brought the butter home under his hat on a hot day, the charmer who doesn't pack her perfumes and liquid toiletries safely will find that at the end of her trip they have all wasted away.

The leaking of perfumes and other liquids in vacation luggage is one of life's little tragedies that needs never occur — and won't if you follow the suggestions of the Fragrance Foundation, whose experts have tackled the problem scientifically.

Expert Safeguards

A perfume bottle that is to go traveling should never be more than three-quarters full. The empty space allows for the expansion of heat or high altitudes.

If the bottle has a ground glass stopper, twist it into the neck of the bottle. When it's so tight that it will not open with the turn of your hand, rest secure—it's secure! Never use nail polish for sealing because the alcohol in the perfume will eventually dissolve it. Use paraffin instead. You can also depend on pharmaceutical corks, which are abtainable at low cost from your druggist. Another suggestion is a leak-proof atomizer; it's slightly more costly but also more permanent.

At your destination, hot water will remove the paraffin. To loosen a tightly packed stopper just tap it with another piece of glass.

Colognes and toilet water usually come in bottles with screw caps, which are excellent travelers if you just observe the precaution of making sure that the bottle is no more than three-quarters full and if you double check the tightness of the cap.

Bath Liquids And Powders

The safest way to comport your liquid bath toiletries (like oil or bubbles) is to transfer them to one of the new, unbreakable, plastic bottles. Bath powder and talcums packaged in shaker-type containers are no problem at all.

If you prefer the luxury of a puff and box of dusting powder, pack them this way: Place a cleansing tissue over the powder so that the edges fall over the sides of the box all around; place the puff on top of this tissue; squeeze the cover on over the wedges of tissue; and then, wrap the whole thing in tissue and ribbon.

With the above know-how you can always safely take your glamor aids with you.

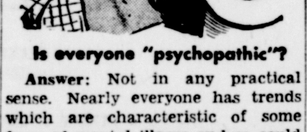
Monday: Bosses tell why some business girls can't get ahead.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are all of us born "aggressive"?

Answer: This remains the most debated question that I know of in psychiatry. Dr. D. W. Harding's rather satisfying answer in the British Journal of Medical Psychology is that the capacity for aggressive behavior (that is, for fighting for what you want) is inborn, but the wish to exercise it depends upon circumstances— above all, the amount of frustration you experience as a child. What he calls a "socially developed person" will not be able to fight without feeling regret if not "anguish of mind." Aggression is sometimes inevitable, but war is not a "psychological necessity" for civilized people.



Is everyone "psychopathic"?

Answer: Not in any practical sense. Nearly everyone has trends which are characteristic of some form of mental illness and so could be classified as "psychopathic," but the type of people the psychiatrists call "psychopaths" are happily comparatively rare. Most of us, for example, sometimes do things which we are ashamed of but our consciences (or common sense) prevent our doing such things most of the time. A true psychopath has neither any directly effective conscience not any ability to foresee the consequences of his actions. He will lie or cheat to his own long-range disadvantage.

Is childishness a form of mental illness?

Answer: Not inherently, says Dr. Bengt J. Lindberg in the Copenhagen "Acta Psychiatrica." Psycho-infantilism is an attitude or mental weakness rather than a disease, and shows a wide range of differences. People who are psycho-infantile are characterized by helplessness, uncertainty and a desire for guidance and authority. They are easily influenced and may break down under the strain of being forced to make decisions. But while an emotionally childish person who has never had to "face reality" may not be neurotic—and may even be quite happy — psycho-infantilism is at the root of most mental illness.

Whitworth Urges Closer Control On State's Entire Budget System

Would Eliminate Special Fund Idea

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., of Westernport, yesterday made six specific recommendations to the Commission on State Governmental Reorganization at its session in Hagerstown. His talk before the group was on "Better Budget Procedure in Maryland."

His recommendations follow:

"1. Present a factual budget to the people of Maryland and the General Assembly by the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental appropriations into one statement that would disclose the total spending proposal for each department and purpose.

"2. Make each department live within its appropriations by fixing a ceiling on their expenditures.

"3. Reduce and eliminate if possible budget amendments to prevent the shifting and transferring of funds from one department to another.

Would Cut Special Funds

"4. Make a thorough study of the Baltimore City budget procedure.

"5. Reduce the number of special funds and eliminate the "special fund clause" in the budget bill itself.

"6. Stop surplus financing by a closer and more realistic estimate of revenues."

Part of his statement follows:

"From my past and present experience as a member of the General Assembly of Maryland from Allegany county, and having served on the Ways and Means Committee of the House for the past five years I have found myself and the majority of the other members of the General Assembly limited in knowledge and in the ability to obtain the true financial picture of state finances and therefore I have fought for certain changes in budget procedure, that in my opinion, are the only means of obtaining for the people of Maryland a more efficient and economic administration of the taxpayers money that is in many cases, shamefully being wasted by the various state agencies."

"I might say that I am not alone in my opinions, and that my thoughts are shared by various organizations, such as the Baltimore Association of Commerce, the Commission on Governmental Economy and Efficiency and many business people throughout the state who are interested in good government.

More Control Needed

"In my opinion the commission should direct its attention especially to the special fund system that has grown by leaps and bounds in our financial system to the extent that at the present time 45 percent of our total budget is made up of special funds that the Legislature no longer has control over by reason of the special clause placed in the budget bill itself at the end of each department's appropriations that has special funds.

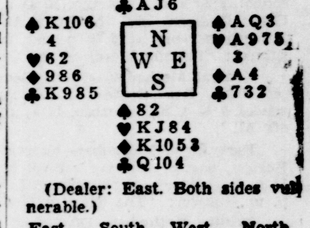
"This system started some years ago in the Health Department Mattress Fund which was for the purpose of policing the mattress business in Maryland, and is being used by other Departments, such as the University of Maryland, which has more than $8,000,000 in special funds alone which come from the people of Maryland and their representatives in the assembly have no voice in."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

THEY TELL IT TO YOU

IT IS NOT always necessary to hear a bid from your partner in order to know what he holds. Sometimes the opponents will tell you the facts. If they pass the deal out at some very low stage, such as 1-No Trump or two of a suit, and your own hand is of just about average strength, you can feel pretty sure your partner has a holding roughly equal to your own, perhaps a bit better. You can therefore consider reopening the bidding with some kind of action. If there is no clear-cut declaration for you to bid, your best action in such a spot is usually a double. That gives your partner a chance to bid his best denomination or make a business pass.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl

West's pass of the 2-Hearts told North practically as much about his partner's total strength as would a bid by him. South was sure to have practically an average hand, or very close to it, possibly slightly better than average. Since North had a bit of support for either of the unbid suits, and was equipped with pretty close to a stopper in each of the opponents' suits, if South preferred to try No Trumps, he made the sound move of reopening the bidding with a double.

This gave South the widest possible range of choices. He soundly chose the most profitable, a business pass of the double, in view of the position of his high cards in hearts. With his own indifferent hand, opposite a partner who could not bid voluntarily on the first round, he felt sure his side could not make a game in anything. He also appreciated the truism that beating the opponents' doubled contract at all pays better in the long run than making any less than game contract.

His pass paid out, as the defenders scored three tricks in trumps, three in clubs and one in diamonds, beating the 2-Hearts two tricks for 500 points, whereas the best contract for his side would have been only 3-Diamonds or 2-No Trumps, worth much less.

Your Weekend Question

Do you understand the meaning of the term "negative logic," whereby you infer the location of some key card from what a particular player or his partner did not do? Can you give an example of its use?

It is estimated that the Woolworth building in New York City weighs 206 million pounds.

Could you play baseball without rules? No, in any game there are rules that must be followed.

And it's because of these rules that the game is orderly and interesting. Without them a ball game would result in complete confusion, and neither the players nor the spectators would enjoy it at all.

So it is with society. Through the ages the greatest civilizations have been those with the best rules and laws. Our own United States Constitution, a masterpiece in law, has proved that good government produces a great nation.

Life must also have rules if we are to live happily. And to guide us toward this end God has given us a set of rules, which is known the world over as the Ten Commandments.

Open your Bible and learn them today—and tomorrow and always you'll be a better, happier person.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

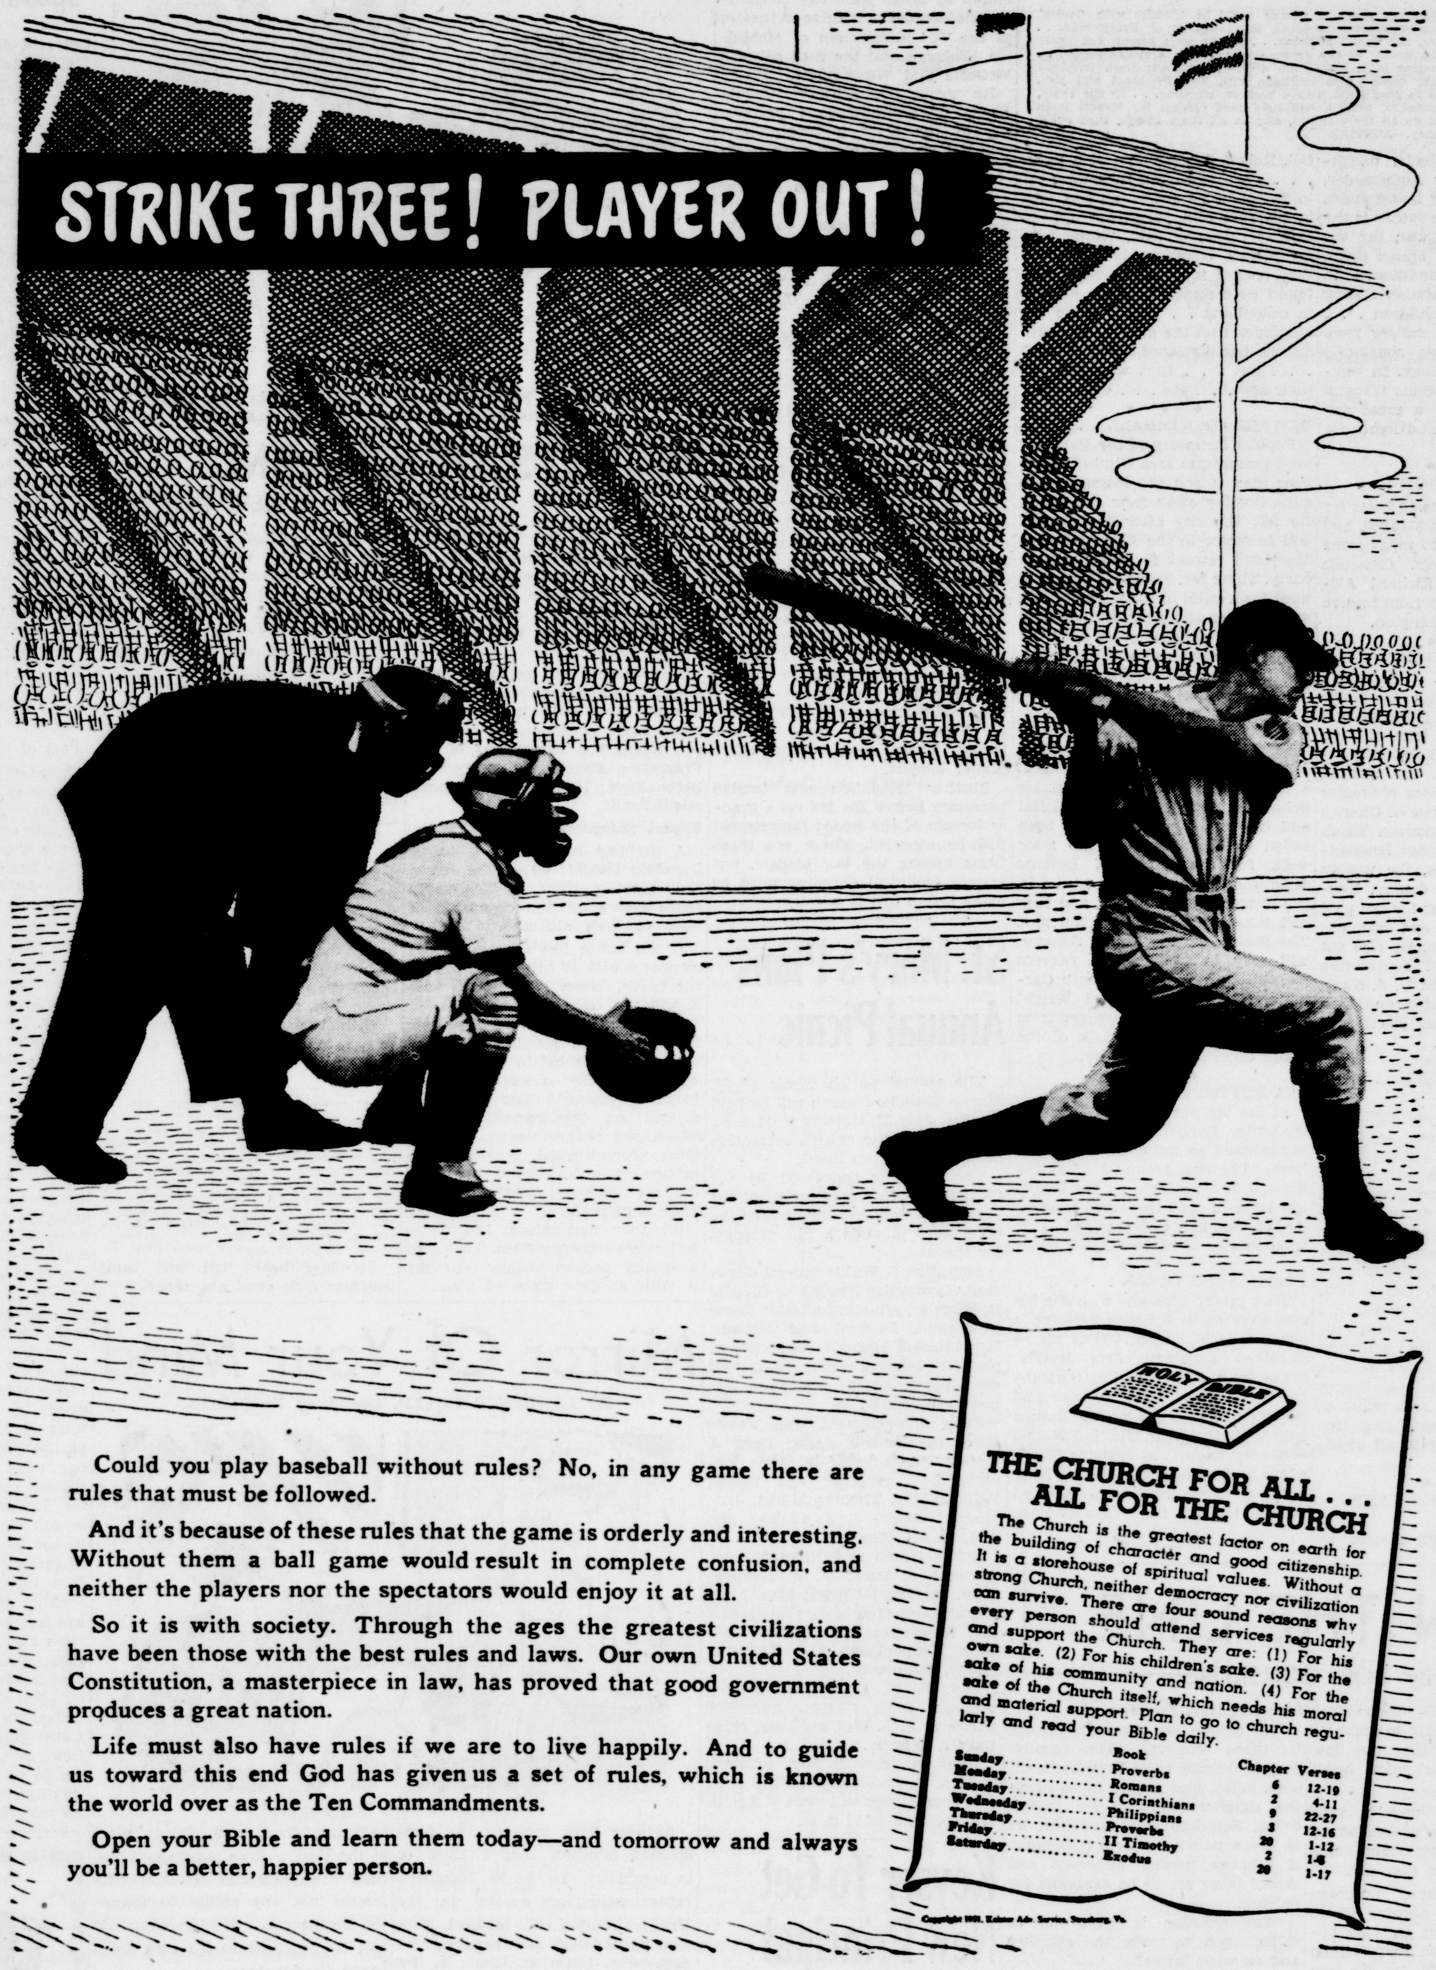
Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.



Could you play baseball without rules? No, in any game there are rules that must be followed.

And it's because of these rules that the game is orderly and interesting. Without them a ball game would result in complete confusion, and neither the players nor the spectators would enjoy it at all.

So it is with society. Through the ages the greatest civilizations have been those with the best rules and laws. Our own United States Constitution, a masterpiece in law, has proved that good government produces a great nation.

Life must also have rules if we are to live happily. And to guide us toward this end God has given us a set of rules, which is known the world over as the Ten Commandments.

Open your Bible and learn them today—and tomorrow and always you'll be a better, happier person.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

In the contest here, Bobby Raines, Westernport ace, had a no-run, no-hit game in his grasp until the final inning when Kirtley and McGregor rapped singles. Raines struck out 10 in gaining the nod over Ed Dickel in a neat mound duel.

Dickel yielded seven hits and fanned five.

George Fazio Retains Lead

Holds Stroke Edge In Western Open

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 13 (AP) — George Fazo, the slight professional from the Pine Valley, N. J., club, scrambled to a 72 today to hold a precarious one stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole Western Open Golf Tournament.

The 36-year-old easterner, who opened with a tournament record 63 yesterday, slipped two over par in his second round over the 6,416-yard Davenport Country Club course. His 135 total for 36 holes was still good, however, for the front position.

Only a stroke behind the leader were Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y. and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill. Each had two 68's on the board.

Sam Snead, the Old Master seeking his third straight Western title, thrilled the late-day gallery with a 67, three under par, for the best second round score.

Snead, seven strokes behind Fazio with an opening 70, closed the margin to only two strokes with his 137. Sam dropped a downhill 18-foot putt on the 18th green to get his 67 for a round that included eight birdies.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., joined Snead at 137.

Only three strokes shy of the pacesetter at 138 were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., (67-71); Chuck Klein, San Antonio, (69-69), and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., (36-35).

Chick Harbert of Detroit had one of the most remarkable rounds of the second session. He went four over par on the first three holes, then settled down for a 69, blistering the back nine in 30, a course record. Harbert's 69 brought him at 139 where he was tied with Roberto Devincenzo, the foreing threat from the Argentine.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., was the second round casualty. The former national open champ had a first round 66 but faded to a 75 today and a 141 total.

Thef ield was trimmed to 58 professionals and four amateurs for the final 36, holes tomorrow and Sunday. It took a 151 or better to qualify.

Charley Dressen Says 1951 Dodgers Are Best

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—Manager Charlie Dressen today called his current Dodger team the greatest in Brooklyn history.

"I can tell you this much," he continued. "This is a better club than the 1941 team. I was the third base coach then. Today, I'm the manager.

Manager Charley Hornbrook's scrappy Athletics knocked off the front-running Senators for the second time yesterday in a Little League game at Stitcher Field. The score was 3-2.

Spotting the league leaders two runs in the third, the A's won an uphill battle by registering three times in the 5th by coupling hits by Bobby Page, Charles Smith and Richard Hedrick with a stolen base and walks to Gerald Farrell and Mike McCullough. Hedrick's hit climaxed the rally and drove in the winning tally.

Ed McKinney and Charles "Deacon" Smith yielded four hits each. Smith wiffed 11 in six frames and McKinney struck out eight in five innings.

Win Sixth Straight

It was the A's 6th consecutive victory and put them only two full games out of first place.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it nine wins in 10 starts by taking the measure of the Braves at Fort Hill, 6-5.

A single by Hillegas, Bruce's double and an error netted two runs and the ball game in the 4th frame. Wolford poled a homer for the Braves. Ronnie Bruce of the Dodgers and Billy Beck and Jimmy Beck of the Braves had two hits each.

Gene Cave, Dodgers' pitcher, chalked up 11 strikeouts.

Connelly's single in the 6th inning robbed Jesse Markley of a no-hitter as the Cardinals downed the Giants at Campobello, 10-0. Markley had two hits and batted in four of the Cardinals' runs.

Indians Scalp Tigers

"Whip" Kreitzburg's Indians scalped the Tigers at Penn Avenue Field in a night game, 10-2. Bob Paye and Jimmy Davis held the Bengals to two hits. Paye was also the leading hitter with two singles and a double to his credit. Billy Brode and Robert Judy collected two hits each. The scores:

'Sonny' Started Here

Fairgo's Top Jockeys

Owen May Go To Ohio

Bettors Are Careless

By C. V. BURNS

Did you know that Raymond (Sonny) Workman, of Washington, D. C., who became one of the country's top riders, got his start at the Cumberland Fair Association's track at Fairgo in 1926?

That was the year only win and place money was paid at the local half mile oval, the meets were limited to five days, the top purses were $500 and seven races were held daily.

Workman led the riders at that meeting with five wins, five seconds and five thirds.

On the second day of the 1926 session, "Sonny" rode into the money in all seven races. He won with Lally, came in second on Delriada, Sunny Hill and Carmen Pantages and showed with Gus R., The Peruvian and Starbright.

"Sonny" is now in the real estate business in Washington and is reported doing well.

Here's the way he rates the race riders of the past quarter of a century:

Carson Kirk, one of five brothers who rode on Maryland tracks; "Bobby" Edens, the Virginian, and Eddie Smith of Washington, D. C., in that order was the winningest jockeys at Fairgo's half mile oval since 10-day racing meets were inaugurated there in 1935.

Kirk who later starred on the major tracks had 22 winners here in 1943. Edens had a leg up on 21 in 1945 and Smith piloted 19 first place horses in 1935. Both Kirk and Sammy Palumbo have been "in the money" 43 times at a single meeting.

Here are the leading winning jockeys:

Mrs. Glick Cops Title 6th Time

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — This Friday the 13th brought no luck to Mrs. J. P. Touchaud of Washington, who had hoped it might prove a jinx to Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, perennial Maryland women's golf champion.

And so Mrs. Glick kept her crown for another year.

She disposed of her challenger, four and three, in the finale of the women's state tournament over the short, east Indian Spring Country Club links.

Mrs. Glick, the top feminine player of Baltimore's Woodholme Club, now has won the Maryland woman's title in six of the last eight years. That's still one short of tying the record set by Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, also of Baltimore, who gained the championship in 1924 and repeated six times after that, winning for the seventh time in 1933.

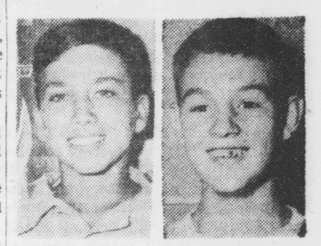
Two Crack-Ups Mark Test Runs On Derby's Eve

Robert Stanley's Car Is Damaged; Program Today Starts At 1 P. M.

Two crack-ups marred the test runs held yesterday for the fourth annual Cumberland Soap Box Derby scheduled for today at 1 p. m., on a 1,000 foot course on Pennsylvania Avenue.



Robert Stanley — Danny Nightengale

Robert Stanley, 13, Keyser, W. Va., suffered brush burns and bruises about the hands and forehead when the brakes failed on his heavy oak racer which hit a curb and overturned.

Stanley was unable to stop his car after crossing the Pennsylvania Avenue finish line at the intersection of Fourth street and the gravity coaster continued down the hill out of control. A auxiliary policeman and several volunteer workers at the finish line pursued it but were unable to catch up. The little racer hit a curb on Laing Avenue, throwing Bobby clear.

Car Badly Damaged

Both axles and all four wheels were damaged beyond repair. Last night, Bobby and his brothers began working on the wrecked car in an effort to get it back into racing condition.

In the other mishap, Danny Nightengale, Lonaconing, ran against a curb half-way down the course when his steering mechanism failed. He was not hurt and repairs to his car were completed several hours later.

Today's program in the fourth annual derby here is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. A field of 34 will compete, seven in Class B and the others in Class A.

Champion Goes To Akron

Winners of the two classes will compete in the final race of the day for the championship and the right to represent Cumberland in the All-

George Fazio Retains Lead

Holds Stroke Edge In Western Open

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 13 (AP) — George Fazo, the slight professional from the Pine Valley, N. J., club, scrambled to a 72 today to hold a precarious one stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole Western Open Golf Tournament.

The 36-year-old easterner, who opened with a tournament record 63 yesterday, slipped two over par in his second round over the 6,416-yard Davenport Country Club course. His 135 total for 36 holes was still good, however, for the front position.

Only a stroke behind the leader were Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y. and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill. Each had two 68's on the board.

Sam Snead, the Old Master seeking his third straight Western title, thrilled the late-day gallery with a 67, three under par, for the best second round score.

Snead, seven strokes behind Fazio with an opening 70, closed the margin to only two strokes with his 137. Sam dropped a downhill 18-foot putt on the 18th green to get his 67 for a round that included eight birdies.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., joined Snead at 137.

Only three strokes shy of the pacesetter at 138 were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., (67-71); Chuck Klein, San Antonio, (69-69), and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., (36-35).

Chick Harbert of Detroit had one of the most remarkable rounds of the second session. He went four over par on the first three holes, then settled down for a 69, blistering the back nine in 30, a course record. Harbert's 69 brought him at 139 where he was tied with Roberto Devincenzo, the foreing threat from the Argentine.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., was the second round casualty. The former national open champ had a first round 66 but faded to a 75 today and a 141 total.

Thef ield was trimmed to 58 professionals and four amateurs for the final 36, holes tomorrow and Sunday. It took a 151 or better to qualify.

Manager Charley Hornbrook's scrappy Athletics knocked off the front-running Senators for the second time yesterday in a Little League game at Stitcher Field. The score was 3-2.

Spotting the league leaders two runs in the third, the A's won an uphill battle by registering three times in the 5th by coupling hits by Bobby Page, Charles Smith and Richard Hedrick with a stolen base and walks to Gerald Farrell and Mike McCullough. Hedrick's hit climaxed the rally and drove in the winning tally.

Ed McKinney and Charles "Deacon" Smith yielded four hits each. Smith wiffed 11 in six frames and McKinney struck out eight in five innings.

Win Sixth Straight

It was the A's 6th consecutive victory and put them only two full games out of first place.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it nine wins in 10 starts by taking the measure of the Braves at Fort Hill, 6-5.

A single by Hillegas, Bruce's double and an error netted two runs and the ball game in the 4th frame. Wolford poled a homer for the Braves. Ronnie Bruce of the Dodgers and Billy Beck and Jimmy Beck of the Braves had two hits each.

Gene Cave, Dodgers' pitcher, chalked up 11 strikeouts.

Connelly's single in the 6th inning robbed Jesse Markley of a no-hitter as the Cardinals downed the Giants at Campobello, 10-0. Markley had two hits and batted in four of the Cardinals' runs.

Indians Scalp Tigers

"Whip" Kreitzburg's Indians scalped the Tigers at Penn Avenue Field in a night game, 10-2. Bob Paye and Jimmy Davis held the Bengals to two hits. Paye was also the leading hitter with two singles and a double to his credit. Billy Brode and Robert Judy collected two hits each. The scores:

Did you know that Raymond (Sonny) Workman, of Washington, D. C., who became one of the country's top riders, got his start at the Cumberland Fair Association's track at Fairgo in 1926?

That was the year only win and place money was paid at the local half mile oval, the meets were limited to five days, the top purses were $500 and seven races were held daily.

Workman led the riders at that meeting with five wins, five seconds and five thirds.

On the second day of the 1926 session, "Sonny" rode into the money in all seven races. He won with Lally, came in second on Delriada, Sunny Hill and Carmen Pantages and showed with Gus R., The Peruvian and Starbright.

"Sonny" is now in the real estate business in Washington and is reported doing well.

Here's the way he rates the race riders of the past quarter of a century:

Carson Kirk, one of five brothers who rode on Maryland tracks; "Bobby" Edens, the Virginian, and Eddie Smith of Washington, D. C., in that order was the winningest jockeys at Fairgo's half mile oval since 10-day racing meets were inaugurated there in 1935.

Kirk who later starred on the major tracks had 22 winners here in 1943. Edens had a leg up on 21 in 1945 and Smith piloted 19 first place horses in 1935. Both Kirk and Sammy Palumbo have been "in the money" 43 times at a single meeting.

Here are the leading winning jockeys:

Mrs. Glick Cops Title 6th Time

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — This Friday the 13th brought no luck to Mrs. J. P. Touchaud of Washington, who had hoped it might prove a jinx to Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, perennial Maryland women's golf champion.

And so Mrs. Glick kept her crown for another year.

She disposed of her challenger, four and three, in the finale of the women's state tournament over the short, east Indian Spring Country Club links.

Mrs. Glick, the top feminine player of Baltimore's Woodholme Club, now has won the Maryland woman's title in six of the last eight years. That's still one short of tying the record set by Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, also of Baltimore, who gained the championship in 1924 and repeated six times after that, winning for the seventh time in 1933.

Two Crack-Ups Mark Test Runs On Derby's Eve

Robert Stanley's Car Is Damaged; Program Today Starts At 1 P. M.

Two crack-ups marred the test runs held yesterday for the fourth annual Cumberland Soap Box Derby scheduled for today at 1 p. m., on a 1,000 foot course on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Robert Stanley Danny Nightengale

Robert Stanley, 13, Keyser, W. Va., suffered brush burns and bruises about the hands and forehead when the brakes failed on his heavy oak racer which hit a curb and overturned.

Stanley was unable to stop his car after crossing the Pennsylvania Avenue finish line at the intersection of Fourth street and the gravity coaster continued down the hill out of control. A auxiliary policeman and several volunteer workers at the finish line pursued it but were unable to catch up. The little racer hit a curb on Laing Avenue, throwing Bobby clear.

Car Badly Damaged

Both axles and all four wheels were damaged beyond repair. Last night, Bobby and his brothers began working on the wrecked car in an effort to get it back into racing condition.

In the other mishap, Danny Nightengale, Lonaconing, ran against a curb half-way down the course when his steering mechanism failed. He was not hurt and repairs to his car were completed several hours later.

Today's program in the fourth annual derby here is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. A field of 34 will compete, seven in Class B and the others in Class A.

Champion Goes To Akron

Winners of the two classes will compete in the final race of the day for the championship and the right to represent Cumberland in the All-

Doubles by Jamison and Twigg were among Hyndman's six safeties.

Good Hit and Field

MAN OF DISTINCTION is Ned Garver, the baby-faced pitcher of the St. Louis Browns. Despite the lowly perch of his club, which has won but 22 games, Ned is one of the leading pitchers in the loop. He already has copped 11 games, half of the Brownie total. His pitching in the All-Star game was one of the highlights of the annual event. (International)

Citation Runs At Hollywood

May Become First Horse Millionaire

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 13 (AP) — Ten candidates were named today to run in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, which means that seven horses will be shooting at the star of the cast — Citation — and his bid to become the first horse millionaire in turf history.

Citation will go to the post with his two crack running mates of the Calumet Farm Stable, the champion mare Bewitch, and a four-year-old colt, All Blue.

Naturally the Calumets are pointing Citation for the winner's circle, a feat that will send his present all-time unprecedented earnings of $985,760 soaring well over the $1,000,000 mark.

Even second place, with its $20,000 prize, will put Citation in the lavish bracket. But the Calumet people, including Trainer Jimmy Jones, want to win in true champion style, as well as collect the guaranteed net $100,000.

Opposing the powerful threesome, barring scratches before tomorrow in the mile and one quarter event, will be:

T. G. Benson's Lotowhite, 117 pounds; Andrew Crevolin's Be Fleet, 122; Mr. and Mrs. F. Norman Phelps' Sturdy One, 109; Clifford Mooers' Sudan, 107; The Breel Stable's Alderman, 103; the Sevan Stable's Akimbo, 103, and the Silver Creek ranch's Tantamount, 100.

Citation, assigned his impost June 6 when his current campaign was none too promising, gets in at 120 pounds; Bewitch at 108, and All Blue, 111.

From Fairmont, W. Va., comes the report that Isiah "Ike" Owen, is tabbed for a coaching job near Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Racing fans are careless with their earnings according to a report of the West Virginia Racing Commission which shows that in 1950 tickets valued at $17,767 were never presented for payment at the combined Wheeling and Charles Town meetings. Unredeemed tickets at Wheeling amounted to $7,501.90.

Bettors have two years in which to claim this money, provided they present the tickets.

When Clifton W. White was president and general manager at Fairgo he told us that unredeemed tickets amounted to approximately $2,000 annually.

The redemption law in Maryland is similar to that in West Virginia.

His latest win was over Joey Klein of New York in a six-rounder at Newark, N. J., on Monday night.

Many stories are told about Hugh Casey, the former major league pitcher, who took his life last week.

Mickey Owen who caught Casey when they led Brooklyn to the 1941 pennant says Hugh had a heart as big as a baseball diamond and a terrific sense of humor.

Owen recalls the time Casey said the Dodgers had too many kids on the bench and not enough veterans.

Hughie explained:

"We have too many kids eating candy bars during a game instead of men chewing tobacco."

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

HOW WRONG can a guy be?

That Turpin. What he did to us!

Ouch!

It seems that only a few days ago we wrote that Sugar Ray Robinson would not only make Randy Turpin look like the famous Ben Turpin but Sugar Ray would wind up with the light heavyweight crown and perhaps the heavyweight title if he decided to go after it.

Simply we said that Sugar Ray was just "too good."

Well, now what are we going to do about explaining it?

Oh, what you said!

• • • •

REPORTS from London indicate that Turpin not only won Sugar Ray's title but he trimmed the great Sugar good.

Along boxing's big bailiwicks the explanation, as feeble as it may be, is that Sugar Ray's "gay living" was the reason for the reversal, referred to as the greatest upset since Gene Tunney outpointed Jack Dempsey.

It doesn't seem just right to grab that one from the grapevine and save face. Ray did enough boxing in Europe before that Turpin turnover to keep him sharp enough despite any non-training sortees, if such were the case.

And if we go for that one, how do you explain what Sugar Ray's wife said after the fight?

"Too much boxing and training on the continent was the cause of his downfall," Mrs. Sugar was quoted as saying.

No, we'll have to find some other out.

Robbie, perhaps, might help. What did he say?

"You were real good," he said to Turpin, "just like they said you were. I have no alibis. I was beaten by a better man."

Come on, Johns, be honest. No alibis. Admit it was just another one of your bum picks.

Okay, we surrender.

• • • •

NEEDLESS to say when Sugar Ray and Randy meet in New York next September, which is said to be the next move, we'll be picking the Sugar man again.

Too long we've been filled with the thought that Sugar Ray is the best ringman in the world, pound for pound. His bouts against any and all comers have proved it. His record speaks for itself.

But what we are overlooking, perhaps, is time.

We never could make ourselves believe that Joe Louis was losing his stuff and even as late as last year we picked Mr. Joe to beat Ezzard Charles.

It's that old MacArthur take-off, perhaps, that champions never die, and they never fade away.

• • • •

SUGAR RAY losing his stuff?

It can't be. We don't believe it. When he fights Turpin in the fall Sugar will knock him out. And we'll bet on it.

Man O'War, Citation, Dempsey, Notre Dame, the Yankees—all great champions which COULDN'T LOSE.

As we said at the start, how wrong can a guy be?

Dodgers Top Chicago, 8-6

Cubs Hit Five Homers But Lose 8th In Row

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—Brooklyn's blistering Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the first two innings, then withstood a late home run barrage to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 6, today for their eighth straight victory.

It was Chicago's eighth straight loss. But the Windy City lads clubbed five home runs—two by Randy Jackson—to cause some anxious moments for the Ladies' Day crowd of 28,822.

Big Don Newcombe sought his 13th victory for the runaway league-leaders. His mates staked him to five runs in the first inning and three in the second, but the big righthander developed stiffness in his right shoulder and had to leave the game in the fourth frame.

His successor, Clyde Kin, served up three home run balls but managed to register his eighth triumph against four setbacks. Box:

Hot Stove League Booster Twin Bill Set For 1:45 Sunday At Penn Avenue

Funds Sought To Send 4 Teams To Pittsburgh

Penn Avenue Field will be the scene of the only league baseball games in Cumberland tomorrow.

With the Cumberland Merchants at Westvaco and the Moose and Black Sox players in the Interstate League All-Star game at Moorefield, Hot Stove League teams will share the spotlight in a booster doubleheader starting at 1:45 o'clock.

In the opener, Manager Earl Nonnemann's Optimists Club will oppose the Rotary Club while the nightcap B'nai B'rith will angle with the Kiwanis Club.

The Rotarians, managed by Lonnie Jackson, are the only team to hold a decision over the Optimists.

Funds realized from this game will be used to send the players of the four clubs to witness one of the Pirates' home games.

Branca Is Injured

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP) —Dr. Harold E. Wendler, Brooklyn Dodgers trainer, said today Ralph Branca probably would do no pitching for a week because of a pulled muscle in his right arm.

Branca was forced to quit last night with a 2-0 lead over the Chicago Cubs, after Bruce Edwards hit a double off him.

Good Hit and Field

MAN OF DISTINCTION is Ned Garver, the baby-faced pitcher of the St. Louis Browns. Despite the lowly perch of his club, which has won but 22 games, Ned is one of the leading pitchers in the loop. He already has copped 11 games, half of the Brownie total. His pitching in the All-Star game was one of the highlights of the annual event. (International)

Citation Runs At Hollywood

May Become First Horse Millionaire

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 13 (AP)—Ten candidates were named today to run in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, which means that seven horses will be shooting at the star of the cast — Citation — and his bid to become the first horse millionaire in turf history.

Citation will go to the post with his two crack running mates of the Calumet Farm Stable, the champion mare Bewitch, and a four-year-old colt, All Blue.

Naturally the Calumets are pointing Citation for the winner's circle, a feat that will send his present all-time unprecedented earnings of $985,760 soaring well over the $1,000,000 mark.

Even second place, with its $20,000 prize, will put Citation in the lavish bracket. But the Calumet people, including Trainer Jimmy Jones, want to win in true champion style, as well as collect the guaranteed net $100,000.

Opposing the powerful threesome, barring scratches before tomorrow in the mile and one quarter event, will be:

T. G. Benson's Lotowhite, 117 pounds; Andrew Crevolin's Be Fleet, 122; Mr. and Mrs. F. Norman Phelps' Sturdy One, 109; Clifford Mooers' Sudan, 107; The Breel Stable's Alderman, 103; the Sevan Stable's Akimbo, 103, and the Silver Creek ranch's Tantamount, 100.

Citation, assigned his impost June 6 when his current campaign was none too promising, gets in at 120 pounds; Bewitch at 108, and All Blue, 111.

This is the most critical season at the gate in modern years for the International League, with six clubs under 100,000 attendance after July 4 and Rochester barely over that figure.

From Fairmont, W. Va., comes the report that Isiah "Ike" Owen, is tabbed for a coaching job near Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Owen coached basketball at Bayard High School in Grant county, W. Va., last winter and played several games with the Cumberland Spas early in the season. He's currently enrolled at West Virginia University working on his master's degree.

The Jack Thomas who "knocked the kiver" off the ball for Terra Alta, W. Va., first half champions of the Mountain Top League, is the same fellow who made many friends here when he starred for the Dukes, All-American Basketball League champions, during the 1949-50 season.

Racing fans are careless with their earnings according to a report of the West Virginia Racing Commission which shows that in 1950 tickets valued at $17,767 were never presented for payment at the combined Wheeling and Charles Town meetings. Unredeemed tickets at Wheeling amounted to $7,501.90.

Bettors have two years in which to claim this money, provided they present the tickets.

When Clifton W. White was president and general manager at Fairgo he told us that unredeemed tickets amounted to approximately $2,000 annually.

The redemption law in Maryland is similar to that in West Virginia.

Arnold Currry, the Uniontown, Pa., junior welterweight, who whipped Eddie Marsh in one of Bobby Greene's amateur fistic shows here, has won 11, lost two and fought a draw since turning pro. Curry is getting a lot of work in New Jersey and New York clubs.

His latest win was over Joey Klein of New York in a six-rounder at Newark, N. J., on Monday night.

Many stories are told about Hugh Casey, the former major league pitcher, who took his life last week.

Mickey Owen who caught Casey when they led Brooklyn to the 1941 pennant says Hugh had a heart as big as a baseball diamond and a terrific sense of humor.

Owen recalls the time Casey said the Dodgers had too many kids on the bench and not enough veterans.

Hughie explained:

"We have too many kids eating candy bars during a game instead of men chewing tobacco."

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

HOW WRONG can a guy be?

That Turpin. What he did to us!

Ouch!

It seems that only a few days ago we wrote that Sugar Ray Robinson would not only make Randy Turpin look like the famous Ben Turpin but Sugar Ray would wind up with the light heavyweight crown and perhaps the heavyweight title if he decided to go after it.

Simply we said that Sugar Ray was just "too good."

Well, now what are we going to do about explaining it?

Oh, what you said!

● ● ● ●

REPORTS from London indicate that Turpin not only won Sugar Ray's title but he trimmed the great Sugar good.

Along boxing's big bailiwicks the explanation, as feeble as it may be, is that Sugar Ray's "gay living" was the reason for the reversal, referred to as the greatest upset since Gene Tunney outpointed Jack Dempsey.

It doesn't seem just right to grab that one from the grapevine and save face. Ray did enough boxing in Europe before that Turpin turnover to keep him sharp enough despite any non-training sortees, if such were the case.

And if we go for that one, how do you explain what Sugar Ray's wife said after the fight?

"Too much boxing and training on the continent was the cause of his downfall," Mrs. Sugar was quoted as saying.

No, we'll have to find some other out.

Robbie, perhaps, might help. What did he say?

"You were real good," he said to Turpin, "just like they said you were. I have no alibis. I was beaten by a better man."

Come on, Johns, be honest. No alibis. Admit it was just another one of your bum picks.

Okay, we surrender.

● ● ● ●

NEEDLESS to say when Sugar Ray and Randy meet in New York next September, which is said to be the next move, we'll be picking the Sugar man again.

Too long we've been filled with the thought that Sugar Ray is the best ringman in the world, pound for pound. His bouts against any and all comers have proved it. His record speaks for itself.

But what we are overlooking, perhaps, is time.

We never could make ourselves believe that Joe Louis was losing his stuff and even as late as last year we picked Mr. Joe to beat Ezzard Charles.

It's that old MacArthur take-off, perhaps, that champions never die, and they never fade away.

● ● ● ●

SUGAR RAY losing his stuff?

It can't be. We don't believe it. When he fights Turpin in the fall Sugar will knock him out. And we'll bet on it.

Man O'War, Citation, Dempsey, Notre Dame, the Yankees—all great champions which COULDN'T LOSE.

As we said at the start, how wrong can a guy be?

Dodgers Top Chicago, 8-6

Cubs Hit Five Homers But Lose 8th In Row

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—Brooklyn's blistering Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the first two innings, then withstood a late home run barrage to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 6, today for their eighth straight victory.

It was Chicago's eighth straight loss. But the Windy City lads clubbed five home runs—two by Randy Jackson—to cause some anxious moments for the Ladies' Day crowd of 28,822.

Big Don Newcombe sought his 13th victory for the runaway league-leaders. His mates staked him to five runs in the first inning and three in the second, but the big righthander developed stiffness in his right shoulder and had to leave the game in the fourth frame.

His successor, Clyde Kin, served up three home run balls but managed to register his eighth triumph against four setbacks. Box:

Hot Stove League Booster Twin Bill Set For 1:45 Sunday At Penn Avenue

Funds Sought To Send 4 Teams To Pittsburgh

Penn Avenue Field will be the scene of the only league baseball games in Cumberland tomorrow.

With the Cumberland Merchants at Westvaco and the Moose and Black Sox players in the Interstate League All-Star game at Moorefield, Hot Stove League teams will share the spotlight in a booster doubleheader starting at 1:45 o'clock.

In the opener, Manager Earl Nonnemann's Optimists Club will oppose the Rotary Club while the nightcap B'nai B'rith will angle with the Kiwanis Club.

The Rotarians, managed by Lonnie Jackson, are the only team to hold a decision over the Optimists.

Funds realized from this game will be used to send the players of the four clubs to witness one of the Pirates' home games.

Umpires who have donated their services are Kenneth "Sooky" Grimes and "Buck" Frantz.

KEYSER, W. Va.—The City of Keyser left a balance at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, of $937.22, as shown by the annual report issued by A. A. Jordan, city clerk.

The report shows that disbursements for the past fiscal year amounted to $12,002.79, balancing the receipts for the new fire station, closing that account.

The city recreation fund balance at the opening of the last fiscal year amounted to $8,829.50. Disbursements during the year amounting to $2,001.55, left a balance of $6,827.95 at the close of the year.

The sum of $10,254.32 was paid on the 1923 bond sinking fund, clearing off that account, and $2,796.74, was paid into the sinking fund covering the 1947 bond issue.

At the close of the fiscal year, the water works bonded debt of $66,000 was reduced by $8,000 to $58,000 which is payable at five percent. The bond issue runs through April 1, 1957, with payments to be made semi-annually at five percent. The total issue at the time it was made amounted to $175,000. In the coming year the city will pay off another $8,500; in 1953 and 1954, $9,000 will be paid each year. In 1955, the amount will be $9,500; in 1956, the amount will be $10,000, and 12,000, due April 1, 1957, will be the final payment.

The city has on deposit with the State Sinking Fund Commission, at Charleston, as of June 30, 1951, a balance of $19,189.72 on the 1941 bond issue for a swimming pool for Keyser, and $2,796.74 was paid during the year into the 1947 bond sinking fund.

The 1949 bond sinking fund for the final work on the new fire hall received a payment of $12,500 on the issue of $38,000, leaving a balance of $25,500 at two percent. Two more payments are to be made on this three-year issue, with $12,500 by June 1, 1952, and $13,000 by June 1, 1953.

B & O Coal Train Jumps Track

ROWLESBURG, W. Va. — (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's main line to St. Louis was blocked temporarily yesterday by the derailment of a coal train a mile and a half west of this mountain railroad town.

Railroad officials said 12 cars in the middle of the coal train jumped the track. There were no injuries to crewmen. Cause of the accident was not determined immediately.

A spokesman for the carrier in Baltimore said he believed the track would be open within "a couple of hours." Traffic was detoured on a spur line around the scene of the accident.

The derailment occurred about 4:10 a.m. (EDT). The eastbound National Limited and the westbound No. 23 to Parkersburg, W. Va. were among passenger trains held up by the accident.

Monday will find your girl and mine, Louella Parsons, back on the column giving you the news as only Hollywood's greatest reporter can do it. From the thousands of letters which have come in asking about her, I know how happy you will be to have her back. There's nobody like her. God bless her.

At the Captains' Table for a late supper were Dan Dailey and Diane Garrett — the ex-Mrs. Madman Muntz.

It's a "mighty" happy Irving Rapper planing in tomorrow after three months making the Bette Davis-Gary Merrill movie in London. He says it's another Oscar performance for Bette—but there's no place like home to a Hollywooder.

Monday will find your girl and mine, Louella Parsons, back on the column giving you the news as only Hollywood's greatest reporter can do it. From the thousands of letters which have come in asking about her, I know how happy you will be to have her back. There's nobody like her. God bless her.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Mildly Vicious Circle

Once, during the rehearsal of "The Big Show," the producer was trying, over Tallulah Bankhead's strenuous objections, to cut a few of her lines just as a matter of timing. It was an epic battle, I'm told, but the producer finally won though he didn't escape entirely unscathed. Groucho Marx, who was within earshot, took the cigar out of his mouth just long enough to mutter: "The Timing of the Shrew."

I don't know why I'm telling you all this except that too many people are reading "The Vicious Circle" and quoting too much of it to me. Said Noel Coward to the highly tailored lady: "You look almost like a man." Retorted the highly tailored lady to Noel Coward: "So do you." The art of insult, especially that one, is still around in different form, though perhaps not so succintly expressed. Said Tallulah to Bob Hope: "Hope, leave this stage until I call for you." Said Hope to Tallulah: "Don't lower your voice to me. I knew you when you were Louis Calhern."

• — • — •

The art of insult which I inspect annually along with dumb women jokes, political jokes, and tax jokes, has declined a little in the past year. But there have been a few —all of them, I expect, modifications of Max Beerbohm's or Oscar Wilde's but still, I think, at least as quotable as those in "The Vicious Circle." There was that one on "This Is Show Business," for instance.

BERT LAHR: I told this same joke recently at the Capital theater and you could hear them laugh across the street.

CLIFTON FADIMAN: What was playing over there?

Then, there was Ronald Colman on the Jack Benny program.

COLMAN: I never told you this, Jack, but I heard the first radio program you ever did.

BENNY: Gee, Ronnie, I didn't know that. The very first program?

COLMAN: Yes. How have they been since?

Well, after all, there were some pretty old jokes in "The Vicious Circle," too, but they were on the whole more visious. People just don't insult one another with the zest they once used, so we'll have to turn elsewhere. (If Bennett Cerf can get away with this, I can try, too.) I rather like Groucho Marx's brief patriotic oration which ran: "We owe a great deal to the government. The question is, how are we ever going to get the money to pay for it?"

• — • — •

That last is known as the tax joke which in sheer numbers is far out in front of my joke file. Radio and television actors and writers make much more money than is good for them; the government takes it away from them for their own protection and this solicitude preys on their minds. Pretty soon they write jokes about it. Or if they get real mad, they vent their spleen on the politicians. "My boy friend is out making stump speeches to draft Eisenhower. He wants to draft Eisenhower before Eisenhower drafts him." (Gene Autry show).

Or if they get too depressed to write jokes about either taxes or politics, they can always fall back on the woman driver joke. "Well, I signaled for a left turn and then changed my mind and signaled for a right turn. Then I decided to take a short cut down the sidewalk because there were too many man drivers cluttering up the street. Well, this weasel was hogging the sidewalk and I was late getting to the beauty parlor so in order to avoid an accident I just ran over him." (Red Skelton show).

It's been a good year, all around, for women jokes. Gracie Allen returned the eight day clock George bought her because the eight days were up and at least one girl bought "Little Women" for a friend because he was marrying a midget and Dave Garroway broke the news about the perfume that was driving women mad—it smelled like money—and my friend Irma . . . well, let's not get into my friend Irma or we'll be here all day.

• — • — •

We started with Groucho and we'll finish with Groucho:

GROUCHO: If you like the sea, why aren't you a sailor instead of a landlubber.

CONTESTANT: That's not a very good way to raise a family.

GROUCHO: The fish manage pretty well.

I plan to collect them all in a book some day but not until the winter after the Christmas jokes are in. "Second Story Jackson is in jail again."—"What's he in for this time."—"He was doing his Christmas shopping early."—"Early?" — "Before the store opened." (Duffy's Tavern.)

The Mildly Vicious Circle

Once, during the rehearsal of "The Big Show," the producer was trying, over Tallulah Bankhead's strenuous objections, to cut a few of her lines just as a matter of timing. It was an epic battle, I'm told, but the producer finally won though he didn't escape entirely unscathed. Groucho Marx, who was within earshot, took the cigar out of his mouth just long enough to mutter: "The Timing of the Shrew."

I don't know why I'm telling you all this except that too many people are reading "The Vicious Circle" and quoting too much of it to me. Said Noel Coward to the highly tailored lady: "You look almost like a man." Retorted the highly tailored lady to Noel Coward: "So do you." The art of insult, especially that one, is still around in different form, though perhaps not so succintly expressed. Said Tallulah to Bob Hope: "Hope, leave this stage until I call for you." Said Hope to Tallulah: "Don't lower your voice to me. I knew you when you were Louis Calhern."

• — • — •

The art of insult which I inspect annually along with dumb women jokes, political jokes, and tax jokes, has declined a little in the past year. But there have been a few —all of them, I expect, modifications of Max Beerbohm's or Oscar Wilde's but still, I think, at least as quotable as those in "The Vicious Circle." There was that one on "This Is Show Business," for instance.

BERT LAHR: I told this same joke recently at the Capital theater and you could hear them laugh across the street.

CLIFTON FADIMAN: What was playing over there?

Then, there was Ronald Colman on the Jack Benny program.

COLMAN: I never told you this, Jack, but I heard the first radio program you ever did.

BENNY: Gee, Ronnie, I didn't know that. The very first program?

COLMAN: Yes. How have they been since?

Well, after all, there were some pretty old jokes in "The Vicious Circle," too, but they were on the whole more visious. People just don't insult one another with the zest they once used, so we'll have to turn elsewhere. (If Bennett Cerf can get away with this, I can try, too.) I rather like Groucho Marx's brief patriotic oration which ran: "We owe a great deal to the government. The question is, how are we ever going to get the money to pay for it?"

• — • — •

That last is known as the tax joke which in sheer numbers is far out in front of my joke file. Radio and television actors and writers make much more money than is good for them; the government takes it away from them for their own protection and this solicitude preys on their minds. Pretty soon they write jokes about it. Or if they get real mad, they vent their spleen on the politicians. "My boy friend is out making stump speeches to draft Eisenhower. He wants to draft Eisenhower before Eisenhower drafts him." (Gene Autry show).

Or if they get too depressed to write jokes about either taxes or politics, they can always fall back on the woman driver joke. "Well, I signaled for a left turn and then changed my mind and signaled for a right turn. Then I decided to take a short cut down the sidewalk because there were too many man drivers cluttering up the street. Well, this weasel was hogging the sidewalk and I was late getting to the beauty parlor so in order to avoid an accident I just ran over him." (Red Skelton show).

It's been a good year, all around, for women jokes. Gracie Allen returned the eight day clock George bought her because the eight days were up and at least one girl bought "Little Women" for a friend because he was marrying a midget and Dave Garroway broke the news about the perfume that was driving women mad—it smelled like money—and my friend Irma . . . well, let's not get into my friend Irma or we'll be here all day.

• — • — •

We started with Groucho and we'll finish with Groucho:

GROUCHO: If you like the sea, why aren't you a sailor instead of a landlubber.

CONTESTANT: That's not a very good way to raise a family.

GROUCHO: The fish manage pretty well.

I plan to collect them all in a book some day but not until the winter after the Christmas jokes are in. "Second Story Jackson is in jail again."—"What's he in for this time."—"He was doing his Christmas shopping early."—"Early?" — "Before the store opened." (Duffy's Tavern.)

9-Year-Old Girl Held In Theft Of Pocketbook, $55

A hearing for a West Side nine-year-old girl is scheduled for this morning in Juvenile Court in connection with a pocketbook theft Thursday evening.

A purse belonging to Mrs. Kaplon Jackson, 300 North Waverly Terrace, was taken from a Greene Street beauty parlor while she was having her hair done by an attendant. The purse contained a wallet with $55 in bills, and $200 in bonds.

Detective E. M. Powell found the young girl, thought to have taken the pocketbook, shortly after 5 p. m. Powell said the girl admitted taking the purse and states that she threw the brown billfold containing the $55 in the Potomac River near Blue Bridge after taking $2 from it. According to Powell, the girl said she placed the purse under the bridge, on the ground. The youngster had spent the $2 Thursday night.

Anyone finding the purse is requested by police to turn it over to the police department. Powell described the purse as a large, white lady's purse containing $200 in bonds.

Margaret Likes American Men

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Margaret Truman, one of the nation's most eligible girls, came home from her first European tour today, fancy-free and singing the praises of American men.

Give me American men," said President Truman's only child. "Continental men are very charming, but there is nothing like the gentlemen at home."

Then, just so newsmen wouldn't misunderstand, Margaret grinned and added:

"Gentlemen—that's plural."

"I'm a good sailor," she explained as she ended her seven-weeks tour. "But nothing looks as wonderful as land."

Nam's statement of refusal was handed to an Allied officer more than two hours before Ridgway's demand went on the air. But unexplainably, Allied sources delayed 12 hours in making Nam's answer public.

Allied Patrols Meet Resistance

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP) — Allied patrol advances up to five miles secured a ridgeline southeast of Kumsong on the Korean East-Central front Friday against stubborn Red resistance. Fighting continued until 9 p. m.

This limited-objective attack was the only significant action on the Korean front.

Platoon-sized patrols with mortars and small arms opposed some Allied troops elsewhere.

There were continuing reports, however, that the Reds were strengthening their main lines during the current lull.

One Allied officer on the Western front said there was nothing to indicate the Communists were ready to launch an offensive in the near future but "their capabilities are increasing."

Latest available estimates place the total Red strength, all along the line and in close reserve, at 350,000 men. An Eighth Army spokesman said there was nothing to indicate concentrations in any one area.

"Under this expanded offer, the general increases proposed for approximately 2,800 plant employes ranged from $3 to $10 per week. The offer provided for 70 per cent of all plant department employes to receive a 10 per cent wage increase based on their current basis rate (rounded off to the nearest 50 cents) and all employes in the bargaining unit whose present rates are $65 or more would have received a 10 per cent increase."

Stock Market Makes Best Performance Of The Week

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—In a sparkling advance that gained power as it progressed, the Stock Market today turned in its best performance of the week.

Especial strength was displayed by railroads, and the aircrafts contributed materially to the expansion of buying interest in the final stages of trading.

Interest was not by any means confined to those two divisions. Steels, oils chemicals, rubbers, and some utilities, motion pictures and building material issues all gave generous help in the advance.

Bullishness in today's market was encouraged by the fact that prices backed down only one day this week. As prices moved forward and absorbed all bearish attempts to force them down, traders became less cautious and started buying more briskly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents, the best since July 5, and stood at $92.20. Both the industrial and the railroad components were up 80 cents, and utilities advanced 20 cents.

With prices rising, the volume of business also mounted to 1,320,000 shares, also the best since July 5. Previously this week the volume had been unusually low. Yesterday's total was only 1,050,000 shares.

Radio Corp. with 33,400 shares traded was the day's most active issue. It held unchanged at 21½. It was followed by Northern Pacific up 3 at 41, Columbia Gas up ¼ at 14, American Radiator up ⅛ at 15¼, National Distillers up ⅜ at 33, and Benguet Mining unchanged at 1⅜.

Flood Control Work Speedup Snarls Traffic

Steel Beam Driving Blocks Centre Street

A speed up of flood control work yesterday designed to clear streets for the coming racing season caused an unprecedented traffic snarl in the business section.

The flow of traffic was back to normal about 3:30 p. m. when North Centre Street, which was closed early yesterday morning so steel H beams could be driven across the Frederick Street intersection, was reopened.

Free Flow Cited

The situation, according to John I. Coleman, of the Small-Paye Engineering Company, liaison engineer for flood work, resulted from the recognition of the necessity for the free flow of traffic during the racing season.

The contractors, he said, are endeavoring to get the work to the place where it will not interfere with the heavy traffic due here next week.

Coleman explained it was necessary, several days ago, to close Williams Street between South Mechanic Street and South Centre Street, to install a syphon and complete work to a point where a bridge could be built over the excavation to facilitate turning one-way traffic to the normal route. The bridge was installed last night.

Two Shifts Working

George and Lynch, he noted has been working two shifts on that portion of the porject and are slated to complete the work there by next Thursday or Friday.

North Centre Street, he said, had to be closed yesterday for approximately seven hours to drive the "H" beams which are necessary for the shoring of the trench which crosses Centre Street The contractor has agreed to work a night shift when it is being excavated, thereby facilitating the flow of traffic during the heavy traffic hours, and a bridge will be installed as soon as the excavation is completed.

No traffic will be held up, with the exception of a few hours occasionally while this work is being completed across Centre Street.

The reason the traffic was necessarily closed from Centre Street yesterday was the danger in the closeness of the traffic to the work in swinging steel "H" beams over the heads of pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

Cumberland Contracting Company crews began resurfacing of Green Sreet yesterday and expect to complete the macadam surface by noon today.

Permanent paving of Green Street, and other areas torn up by the flood work, will be completed after all of the work in an area is finished, utility lines replaced and the ground settled.

9-Year-Old Girl Held In Theft Of Pocketbook, $55

A hearing for a West Side nine-year-old girl is scheduled for this morning in Juvenile Court in connection with a pocketbook theft Thursday evening.

A purse belonging to Mrs. Kaplon Jackson, 300 North Waverly Terrace, was taken from a Greene Street beauty parlor while she was having her hair done by an attendant. The purse contained a wallet with $55 in bills, and $200 in bonds.

Detective E. M. Powell found the young girl, thought to have taken the pocketbook, shortly after 5 p. m. Powell said the girl admitted taking the purse and states that she threw the brown billfold containing the $55 in the Potomac River near Blue Bridge after taking $2 from it. According to Powell, the girl said she placed the purse under the bridge, on the ground. The youngster had spent the $2 Thursday night.

Anyone finding the purse is requested by police to turn it over to the police department. Powell described the purse as a large, white lady's purse containing $200 in bonds.

Margaret Likes American Men

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Margaret Truman, one of the nation's most eligible girls, came home from her first European tour today, fancy-free and singing the praises of American men.

Give me American men," said President Truman's only child. "Continental men are very charming, but there is nothing like the gentlemen at home."

Then, just so newsmen wouldn't misunderstand, Margaret grinned and added:

"Gentlemen—that's plural."

"I'm a good sailor," she explained as she ended her seven-weeks tour. "But nothing looks as wonderful as land."

The initial meetings were reported only through brief Allied communiques, secondhand "briefings" and Communist broadcasts.

Nam's statement of refusal was handed to an Allied officer more than two hours before Ridgway's demand went on the air. But unexplainably, Allied sources delayed 12 hours in making Nam's answer public.

Allied Patrols Meet Resistance

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP) — Allied patrol advances up to five miles secured a ridgeline southeast of Kumsong on the Korean East-Central front Friday against stubborn Red resistance. Fighting continued until 9 p. m.

This limited-objective attack was the only significant action on the Korean front.

Platoon-sized patrols with mortars and small arms opposed some Allied troops elsewhere.

There were continuing reports, however, that the Reds were strengthening their main lines during the current lull.

One Allied officer on the Western front said there was nothing to indicate the Communists were ready to launch an offensive in the near future but "their capabilities are increasing."

Latest available estimates place the total Red strength, all along the line and in close reserve, at 350,000 men. An Eighth Army spokesman said there was nothing to indicate concentrations in any one area.

Stock Market Makes Best Performance Of The Week

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—In a sparkling advance that gained power as it progressed, the Stock Market today turned in its best performance of the week.

Especial strength was displayed by railroads, and the aircrafts contributed materially to the expansion of buying interest in the final stages of trading.

Interest was not by any means confined to those two divisions. Steels, oils chemicals, rubbers, and some utilities, motion pictures and building material issues all gave generous help in the advance.

Bullishness in today's market was encouraged by the fact that prices backed down only one day this week. As prices moved forward and absorbed all bearish attempts to force them down, traders became less cautious and started buying more briskly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents, the best since July 5, and stood at $92.20. Both the industrial and the railroad components were up 80 cents, and utilities advanced 20 cents.

With prices rising, the volume of business also mounted to 1,320,000 shares, also the best since July 5. Previously this week the volume had been unusually low. Yesterday's total was only 1,050,000 shares.

Radio Corp. with 33,400 shares traded was the day's most active issue. It held unchanged at 21½. It was followed by Northern Pacific up 3 at 41, Columbia Gas up ¼ at 14, American Radiator up ⅛ at 15¼, National Distillers up ⅜ at 33, and Benguet Mining unchanged at 1⅜.

Walkout And Cable Break Plague Telephone Company

1,200 Homes Hit By Mishap Here

Telephone service to about 1,200 homes and business places was cut off early yesterday afternoon when an H beam being driven into North Centre Street struck a large telephone cable.

The beam, being hammered into the ground to support piling needed for the installation of a flood control conduit, almost sheared apart the cable containing 400 pairs of telephone wires.

Telephone officials said shortly before midnight that they hoped to have service restored to virtually all of the lines by this afternoon.

The cable was sheered about 1:50 p. m., cutting off all service on Bedford, Lincoln, Hill and Independence Streets and affecting part of the lines on Frederick and Columbia Streets.

Alert crews immediately began restoring vital telephone service to Police Headquarters and East Side Fire Station by stringing temporary lines from nearby areas not affected by the broken cable.

Officials said two line crews and two splicing crews, along with additional workers at the central office, began work at once when the emergency arose.

The men will work non stop until the service is restored to all subscribers.

Early last night, a new length of cable was installed and splicing crews expected to begin joining the wires together shortly before midnight.

They then began the slow job of testing and matching each of the broken wires and finally splicing them together after they were identified.

The terrific task was similar to that which occurred January 23 when a cable was broken during the construction of a building on North Centre Street near the scene of the North Centre Street explosion.

Fear Strike Area May Be Widened

The possibility that walkouts which hit three Washington suburban exchanges of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company yesterday may spread was expressed last night by CWA-CIO sources.

Spread of the action was voiced last night by a union official here after he was contacted concerning the Washington walkouts.

The union official declined to elaborate or to guess the next spot to be hit.

The Associated Press at Baltimore said pickets patroled in front of the Hyattsville, Silver Spring and Bethesda exchanges yesterday in a wage dispute that has been under negotiation since last May. The contract between the company and some employes represented by the Communications Workers of America (CIO) expired June 30.

Two similar job departures were staged by Baltimore clerical and maintenance employes during the past two weeks.

Service Is Maintained

Yesterday's walkout removed about 200 of the approximately 350 plant employes in the three units, according to the company.

The company reported that about 40 per cent of its operators and 70 per cent of its commercial employes crossed picket lines and reported for work.

The operators and commercial employes in the three exchanges are under the jurisdiction of the Washington union headquarters, and plant employes are with the Maryland union jurisdiction which is bargaining with the company.

The dispute is over the 10 per cent wage increase which the company has offered. The union feels that the $5 increase in starting rates in Maryland suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight boost of 10 per cent on the current basic rate with additional money going to employes receiving less than $65 per week wherever such distribution is possible under law.

The company takes the position that the $5 increase in beginning pay for some job classifications will bring its starting pay more in line with community wage levels, making it possible to attract and retain the required number of employes.

A union source yesterday added that a seniority clause was also at issue.

Talks May Resume

Negotiations were recessed Wednesday night, but may be resumed at any time at the behest of either party, a company spokesman said.

He added that the company feels

REPAIR CABLE BREAK—Telephone Company crews are seen working frantically last night in an effort to restore telephone service to some 1,200 homes of this city. The top picture shows the scene of the break which occurred when a H beam being driven into the street for flood control work struck a telephone cable containing 400 pairs of lines. In the lower photo, Walter Orndorff is working in a manhole, installing a new cable so that splicing work can begin. Officials said service should be restored to most subscribers by late this afternoon.

Governor Names B & O Official To Safety Group

Williams To Serve On State Commission

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has been appointed to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin announced yesterday.

Although the appointment was made last week, announcement was delayed.

The commission, which consists of 18 members, is appointed by the Governor for six-year terms. One-third of the terms expire every two years. The commission was organized in 1941.

Chief objective of this 18-member group is the promotion of traffic safety on the streets and highways of Maryland. The commission seeks to coordinate activities of public and private agencies interested in, or affected by, the problems of traffice safety, assisting such agencies to augment their programs by study, education and information. The commission has enlisted the aid of business associations, civic groups and newspapers in the promotion of traffic safety.

A veteran railroad man, Williams came to Cumberland in his present capacity last October. He lives at 217 Washington Street. Before coming here, he was superintendent of the Pittsburgh Division of the B & O.

Maryland School System Needs Investigation, Senator Charges

Sobeloff Commission Hears Suggestions

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 13 (AP) — "The whole Maryland school system would bear investigation—and plenty of it," the Sobeloff Commission was told here today.

The commission met here to listen to suggestions for improving the state governmental system.

Construction Costs

The blast against the school system came from Senator McLaughlin, Washington County Republican. He charged that the state forces the counties to construct buildings which are too elaborate and costly.

He cited Washington as a county which manages to get along without bonds and with the $1.50 tax rate because "we build plain commonsense schools."

He also charged, without specifying localities, that in some schools the high school graduates are not taught some of the necessary subjects which qualify them for colleges and universities.

Governor McKeldin added to the Washington County Senator's remarks briefly. He said that someone will eventually have to decide just how far the state should go in helping counties finance their schools.

Too Many Boards

Then branching into other fields of the state governmental setup, the Governor said that under the present system there are too many boards and commissions to enable him to keep up with what is going on in the state.

He said he would like to see a cabinet system of authority replace the 65 boards and commissions he must contact for reports on state doings.

The commission also heard a number of recommendations on the state budget system from Delegate Whitworth (R-Allegany). Among other suggestions, Whitworth asked for the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental budget into one statement to present a "factual budget to the people of Maryland."

He also suggested that department heads who spend over their budget allocations be fired.

Kimble Takes Issue

Senator Kimble (R-Allegany) took issue with his colleague on the point of firing department heads. He said if legislators would work to get the facts behind the budget, there would be no need for changes in the budget system.

He indicated that in his opinion legislative cuts of department askings are sometimes too drastic to allow a department to function.

Kimble also called for a single Department of Labor in the state governmental setup to take care of labor issues which he said are currently resolved in various departments of the state government.

Today's meetings was attended by delegates from Washington, Garrett, Frederick and Allegany Counties.

Similar meetings have been held in Ocean City, Annapolis and Baltimore.

The two-week training period ended today. First units of the blue and gray division left this sprawling Southside Virginia reservation this afternoon for the long trip to West Virginia by bus.

Division artillery started on the first leg of the journey back to Maryland today. The truck convoy of artillerymen will spend the night in bivouac at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation, and then proceed to Pikesville, Westminister and Laurel areas of the Free State.

Troop trains carrying the 175th Infantry Regiment and most of the 115th Infantry leave tomorrow morning for the Baltimore area.

Aviation elements of division headquarters and artillery units will fly to Richmond, Norfolk and Baltimore.

Business Property Sold For $56,500

A deed was recorded in the land records office at the Court House yesterday morning listing sale of property on North Centre Street near the Baltimore Street intersection for approximately $56,500.

The property was sold by Goldie K. Selly, 350 Central Park West, New York City, to Frater Realty Corporation, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

The property was described as being that deeded to the New York woman by the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Baltimore City, trustees for the estate of Dr. Frank M. Wilson, on November 20, 1950.

The property was said to be that built recently on the site of the explosion almost 10 years ago and is occupied by several business firms.

Hitchcock Says City Smoke Law Is Adequate For Next Five Years

Engineer Sends Report To Council

Cumberland's Smoke Control Law, known as Ordinance No. 1815, is adequate, according to George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

In a report, ordered by the Mayor and City Council, released yesterday, Hitchcock says the ordinance will need no changes in the next five years.

Copies of the mimeographed report were distributed yesterday morning by Miss Mary Clay, secretary to Mayor Thomas S. Post at a closed meeting of the Council. Hitchcock was not present.

Mayor Post said after the meeting that the report would be taken under study.

The full report follows:

"Report to Mayor and City Council as ordered on May 21, 1951—Report to Council as to whether or not the Smoke Control Ordinance No. 1815 is sufficiently adequate to take care of the conditions in this community; and, if not, what should be done to enforce the ordinance.

"On the council floor the evening that this motion was so ordered, I did reply and answered in the affirmative. To qualify my statement I said that the records and proof for the statement were public property and in my office.

"Since that time we have had the benefit of two public hearings; the first meeting held on June 7, 1951 when the industrialists along with their engineers were present. Our smoke control ordinance was wholeheartedly attested to as being sufficient. The real value of the program was testified to by those men certainly in a concrete position to know. They must carry his burden and they do so in a good neighborly spirit of co-operation.

"But since there was no voice raised in favor of backing a more stringent ordinance, it may have left a question in the minds of some council members as to whether our ordinance is adequate. Therefore, I shall attempt to clarify the one point in question based on fly ash emission value.

Fly Ash Emission Value

"To begin with, of the 200 cities in the United States that have smoke control ordinances in operation, 62 per cent have modeled their ordinances on St. Louis and Pittsburgh, and so did we here in Cumberland. In other words, we operate under a standard for stack discharge that is known as a high value—of 0.75 grains per cubic foot of flue-gas adjusted to 12 per cent carbon dioxide at 500° F. The low value being held as ideal by the A.S.M.E. Code of 0.85 lbs. per 1,000 lbs. of gases adjusted to 50 per cent excess air.

"Between these two limits some cities specify 0.40 grains and some 0.30 grains per cubic foot and all based on the quantity of flue-gas leaving the stack. And contrary to what has been said before the City Council, the City of Pittsburgh has had in mind to lower their standard to 0.30 grains for the past eight years and they have failed to this date to do so.

"From a nuisance viewpoint, the above outlined standards have no basis or foundation in fact. We

Union Shop Ruling Affects Several Area Industries

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP) — About 40 Maryland industries will feel the effects of a National Labor Relations Board ruling outlawing certain Union Shop clauses in wage contracts.

The ruling, based on a recent Supreme Court action, held that Union Shop elections held before top AFL and CIO officers signed non-Communists affidavits with the board were invalid.

Regional Director John A. Penello of the NLRB said about 40 wage contracts between the CIO and large and small Maryland industries had Union Shop clauses based on elections now held invalid.

Among them, he said, were the Celanese Corporation of America in Cumberland; the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke; the Fairchild Aviation Division, the Pangborn Company, the Hagerstown Shoe Company and Victor Products Company, at Hagerstown; the Mt. Vernon Woodbury Mills, the Associated Brewers, and the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Co. of Baltimore.

Cresaptown To Vote Monday On Light Issue

422 Eligible To Express Opinion

Residents of Cresaptown will have an opportunity Monday to ballot on a proposal to install street lights throughout the community.

Polls will be open in the Water Office, Craddock Drive, from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m., to give all the 422 registered voters a chance to vote for or against the referendum question.

The plan calls for establishment of 113 street lights. Cost of the plan will amount to an assessment of between 15 and 20 cents on each $100 of assessable property. On an average $3,000 assessment, street lights will amount to about 50 cents per month, observers point out.

The proposal is a part of the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association's development and comes under provisions of the measure establishing the Cresaptown Special Taxing Area.

The community has already adopted a water system and installation of mains and equipment is proceeding steadily. Project No. 2 of the system is underway. This includes a water main to the top of the hill on Brant Road, leading from a point at Calvary Baptist Church.

Two pumps are to be installed to supply a 100,000 gallon pressure tank, and provide the area with adequate water and pressure. Officers said yesterday when this phase is completed, a survey of fire insurance rates can be made and a reduction is anticipated on all property within 600 feet of any fire hydrant.

Officers of the association are urging every Cresaptown resident, qualified to vote on the street light question, do so, and that voters go to the polls early to avoid a last minute rush.

Christian Skidmore is association president; Philip Bowman, is vice president; Joseph Wenrich, water commissioner; Charles Bird, treasurer, and Frank Ferrone, secretary.

Unemployment In Area Shows Increase July 1

According to figures released by Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the State Department of Employment Security, there are 168 more persons unemployed in the area as of July 1 than on the June 1 report.

During June there were 3,046 persons on file at the unemployment office as compared to 3,214 persons seeking jobs July 1. Carroll explained that the increase was primarily due to high school and college graduates seeking jobs.

A total of 408 new applications was filed in June, and there are still 675 veterans seeking jobs.

Carroll said there are some job openings in other areas. There are job openings in Baltimore and Hagerstown for skilled mechanics. There are no openings for persons without skilled training.

Carroll stated the unemployment figures were stabilized and have not changed for about two and a half years. He believes that figures will stay about the same until some new industries move into the area.

Some of the slack has been taken up by various construction work, the flood control project, building of Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools, and repair work on McMullen Highway and Vale Summite Road, Carroll said.

All-American Petitions To Cancel Plane Service At Cumberland Airport

Facilities Inadequate; Location, Weather And Visibility Hamper Service, Report Says

Terrain hazards, poor visibility, inadequate approaches and lack of facilities are offered as reasons for cancelling air passenger service to the Cumberlnd arport.

All-American Airways, Inc., filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday asking to suspend plane service to Cumberland, Connelsville-Uniontown, Pa., and Fredonia-Dunkirk, N. Y.

All-American said it wanted to stop the Cumberland service solely on the basis of the airport condition here, although it believes the area has a good traffic potential if the airport could be used at night and in all kinds of weather.

Condition Termed Hopeless

An All-American official termed the Cumberland Municipal Airport "hopeless" from the standpoint of being able to handle the kind of service All-American would like to provide here.

He said the firm's planes could be operated into the airport only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

During the long summer months, he added, fairly adequate service can be provided in Cumberland, but that in the winter months it is a "different story".

Flights must be made in the late morning, the AA official said, to avoid early morning fogs, and no night flights are possible.

Mountains in the area, he added, are always a hazard in using the Cumberland field.

Primary reason advanced in the request to stop the Connelsville-Uniontown and Fredonia-Dunkirk service was that they had provided "extremely poor traffic" for the line, the airline official said.

12 Per Cent Overflights

In its petition, All-American declares it was forced to overfly Cumberland due to weather on 12 per cent of its actual trips during May, 1951 and that the overflight average is 9.5 per cent during October, 1950, to May, 1951 period.

Weather conditions here, however, were apparently not so bad as at the Connellsville - Uniontown port, where 11 per cent of flights were overflown.

The firm said it is regrettable that service to Cumberland is proposed to be discontinued but said there appears no practical manner in which the airport facility can be improved except at extreme cost.

The airport at Cumberland, All-American said, is in a valley completely encircled by mountains, and while operable, is otherwise marginal, and can be used only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

It quoted from the summary of the Maryland State Aviation Commission that:

"Terrain hazards, limited approaches and site restrictions preclude a safe instrument and night operation of aircraft."

The state group, the brief said, recommends a series of conferences be held to ascertain methods of eliminating hazards or developing a new airport.

All-American said if facilities at Cumberland are improved, it will gladly seek to develop the potential of Cumberland.

Term Request Imperative

The combination of the airport factor and the marginal traffic aspects at Cumberland, make the request imperative, the firm said.

Mileage to be saved by a suspension of the service at Uniontown-Connellsville and Cumberland, All-American said, could be utilized over one of the firm's more heavily traveled and profitable route segments.

The request called for temporary suspension of service at the above named points until January 11, 1952, or until further notice from the board.

Cumberland is by far the greatest revenue producer of the three points mentioned.

Passenger Load High

During 11 months of 1949, All-American handled 1,258 passengers at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Last year, the passenger load rose slightly to 1,433, and 535 passengers were handled during the first five months of 1951, for a total passenger load of 3,236 since service was instituted.

The Dunkirk - Fredonia field handled 328 in the same period in 1949; 711 in 1950 and 309 during 1951.

The Connellsville-Uniontown port had 1,111 passengers in 1949, but only 806 last year and 279 during the first five months of this year.

The Cumberland Municipal Airport, located at Wiley Ford, W. Va., about three and one-half miles from the heart of the city, has three runways, one 5,950 feet, one, 3,150 feet, and a third 3,900 feet.

Operating cost to the city is almost $11,000 a year.

Recreation Department Gets Croquet Balls

Box hockey practice on city playgrounds got under way promptly this week when a local hardware store provided hard-to-get croquet balls.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreation director, issued an appeal for old croquet balls to be used in the game, explaining he was unable to secure them without buying complete croquet sets.

When the Wilson Hardware Company read of the difficulty, it dug into its shelves and came up with a box containing a dozen balls and donated them to the playgrounds.

APPOINTED—Chester A. Fisher, LaVale, was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission for a six-year term, this week, by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. Fisher, an accountant at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, succeeds William B. Ludman who completed his term as a commission member.

The youths will leave here Sunday for the week's camping trip provided by donations of members of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, BPO Elks.

1,200 Homes Hit By Mishap Here

Telephone service to about 1,200 homes and business places was cut off early yesterday afternoon when an H beam being driven into North Centre Street struck a large telephone cable.

The beam, being hammered into the ground to support piling needed for the installation of a flood control conduit, almost sheared apart the cable containing 400 pairs of telephone wires.

Telephone officials said shortly before midnight that they hoped to have service restored to virtually all of the lines by this afternoon.

The cable was sheered about 1:50 p. m., cutting off all service on Bedford, Lincoln, Hill and Independence Streets and affecting part of the lines on Frederick and Columbia Streets.

Alert crews immediately began restoring vital telephone service to Police Headquarters and East Side Fire Station by stringing temporary lines from nearby areas not affected by the broken cable.

Officials said two line crews and two splicing crews, along with additional workers at the central office, began work at once when the emergency arose.

The men will work non stop until the service is restored to all subscribers.

Early last night, a new length of cable was installed and splicing crews expected to begin joining the wires together shortly before midnight.

They then began the slow job of testing and matching each of the broken wires and finally splicing them together after they were identified.

The terrific task was similar to that which occurred January 23 when a cable was broken during the construction of a building on North Centre Street near the scene of the North Centre Street explosion.

Fear Strike Area May Be Widened

The possibility that walkouts which hit three Washington suburban exchanges of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company yesterday may spread was expressed last night by CWA-CIO sources.

Spread of the action was voiced last night by a union official here after he was contacted concerning the Washington walkouts.

The union official declined to elaborate or to guess the next spot to be hit.

The Associated Press at Baltimore said pickets patroled in front of the Hyattsville, Silver Spring and Bethesda exchanges yesterday in a wage dispute that has been under negotiation since last May. The contract between the company and some employes represented by the Communications Workers of America (CIO) expired June 30.

Two similar job departures were staged by Baltimore clerical and maintenance employes during the past two weeks.

Service Is Maintained

Yesterday's walkout removed about 200 of the approximately 350 plant employes in the three units, according to the company.

The company reported that about 40 per cent of its operators and 70 per cent of its commercial employes crossed picket lines and reported for work.

The operators and commercial employes in the three exchanges are under the jurisdiction of the Washington union headquarters, and plant employes are with the Maryland union jurisdiction which is bargaining with the company.

The dispute is over the 10 per cent wage increase which the company has offered. The union feels that the $5 increase in starting rates in Maryland suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight boost of 10 per cent on the current basic rate with additional money going to employes receiving less than $65 per week wherever such distribution is possible under law.

The company takes the position that the $5 increase in beginning pay for some job classifications will bring its starting pay more in line with community wage levels, making it possible to attract and retain the required number of employes.

A union source yesterday added that a seniority clause was also at issue.

Talks May Resume

Negotiations were recessed Wednesday night, but may be resumed at any time at the behest of either party, a company spokesman said.

He added that the company feels

REPAIR CABLE BREAK—Telephone Company crews are seen working frantically last night in an effort to restore telephone service to some 1,200 homes of this city. The top picture shows the scene of the break which occurred when a H beam being driven into the street for flood control work struck a telephone cable containing 400 pairs of lines. In the lower photo, Walter Orndorff is working in a manhole, installing a new cable so that splicing work can begin. Officials said service should be restored to most subscribers by late this afternoon.

Governor Names B & O Official To Safety Group

Williams To Serve On State Commission

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has been appointed to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin announced yesterday.

Although the appointment was made last week, announcement was delayed.

The commission, which consists of 18 members, is appointed by the Governor for six-year terms. One-third of the terms expire every two years. The commission was organized in 1941.

Chief objective of this 18-member group is the promotion of traffic safety on the streets and highways of Maryland. The commission seeks to coordinate activities of public and private agencies interested in, or affected by, the problems of traffice safety, assisting such agencies to augment their programs by study, education and information. The commission has enlisted the aid of business associations, civic groups and newspapers in the promotion of traffic safety.

A veteran railroad man, Williams came to Cumberland in his present capacity last October. He lives at 217 Washington Street. Before coming here, he was superintendent of the Pittsburgh Division of the B & O.

Business Property Sold For $56,500

A deed was recorded in the land records office at the Court House yesterday morning listing sale of property on North Centre Street near the Baltimore Street intersection for approximately $56,500.

The property was sold by Goldie K. Selly, 350 Central Park West, New York City, to Frater Realty Corporation, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

The property was described as being that deeded to the New York woman by the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Baltimore City, trustees for the estate of Dr. Frank M. Wilson, on November 20, 1950.

The property was said to be that built recently on the site of the explosion almost 10 years ago and is occupied by several business firms.

Hitchcock Says City Smoke Law Is Adequate For Next Five Years

Engineer Sends Report To Council

Cumberland's Smoke Control Law, known as Ordinance No. 1815, is adequate, according to George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

In a report, ordered by the Mayor and City Council, released yesterday, Hitchcock says the ordinance will need no changes in the next five years.

Copies of the mimeographed report were distributed yesterday morning by Miss Mary Clay, secretary to Mayor Thomas S. Post at a closed meeting of the Council. Hitchcock was not present.

Mayor Post said after the meeting that the report would be taken under study.

The full report follows:

"Report to Mayor and City Council as ordered on May 21, 1951—Report to Council as to whether or not the Smoke Control Ordinance No. 1815 is sufficiently adequate to take care of the conditions in this community; and, if not, what should be done to enforce the ordinance.

"On the council floor the evening that this motion was so ordered, I did reply and answered in the affirmative. To qualify my statement I said that the records and proof for the statement were public property and in my office.

"Since that time we have had the benefit of two public hearings; the first meeting held on June 7, 1951 when the industrialists along with their engineers were present. Our smoke control ordinance was wholeheartedly attested to as being sufficient. The real value of the program was testified to by those men certainly in a concrete position to know. They must carry his burden and they do so in a good neighborly spirit of co-operation.

"But since there was no voice raised in favor of backing a more stringent ordinance, it may have left a question in the minds of some council members as to whether our ordinance is adequate. Therefore, I shall attempt to clarify the one point in question based on fly ash emission value.

Fly Ash Emission Value

"To begin with, of the 200 cities in the United States that have smoke control ordinances in operation, 62 per cent have modeled their ordinances on St. Louis and Pittsburgh, and so did we here in Cumberland. In other words, we operate under a standard for stack discharge that is known as a high value—of 0.75 grains per cubic foot of flue-gas adjusted to 12 per cent carbon dioxide at 500° F. The low value being held as ideal by the A.S.M.E. Code of 0.95 lbs. per 1,000 lbs. of gases adjusted to 50 per cent excess air.

"Between these two limits some cities specify 0.40 grains and some 0.30 grains per cubic foot and all based on the quantity of flue-gas leaving the stack. And contrary to what has been said before the City Council, the City of Pittsburgh has had in mind to lower their standard to 0.30 grains for the past eight years and they have failed to this date to do so.

"From a nuisance viewpoint, the above outlined standards have no basis or foundation in fact. We

Union Shop Ruling Affects Several Area Industries

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP) — About 40 Maryland industries will feel the effects of a National Labor Relations Board ruling outlawing certain Union Shop clauses in wage contracts.

The ruling, based on a recent Supreme Court action, held that Union Shop elections held before top AFL and CIO officers signed non-Communists affidavits with the board were invalid.

Regional Director John A. Penello of the NLRB said about 40 wage contracts between the CIO and large and small Maryland industries had Union Shop clauses based on elections now held invalid.

Among them, he said, were the Celanese Corporation of America in Cumberland; the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke; the Fairchild Aviation Division, the Pangborn Company, the Hagerstown Shoe Company and Victor Products Company, at Hagerstown; the Mt. Vernon Woodbury Mills, the Associated Brewers, and the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Co. of Baltimore.

Maryland School System Needs Investigation, Senator Charges

Sobeloff Commission Hears Suggestions

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 13 (AP) — "The whole Maryland school system would bear investigation—and plenty of it," the Sobeloff Commission was told here today.

The commission met here to listen to suggestions for improving the state governmental system.

Construction Costs

The blast against the school system came from Senator McLaughlin, Washington County Republican. He charged that the state forces the counties to construct buildings which are too elaborate and costly.

He cited Washington as a county which manages to get along without bonds and with the $1.50 tax rate because "we build plain commonsense schools."

He also charged, without specifying localities, that in some schools the high school graduates are not taught some of the necessary subjects which qualify them for colleges and universities.

Governor McKeldin added to the Washington County Senator's remarks briefly. He said that someone will eventually have to decide just how far the state should go in helping counties finance their schools.

Too Many Boards

Then branching into other fields of the state governmental setup, the Governor said that under the present system there are too many boards and commissions to enable him to keep up with what is going on in the state.

He said he would like to see a cabinet system of authority replace the 65 boards and commissions he must contact for reports on state doings.

The commission also heard a number of recommendations on the state budget system from Delegate Whitworth (R-Allegany). Among other suggestions, Whitworth asked for the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental budget into one statement to present a "factual budget to the people of Maryland."

He also suggested that department heads who spend over their budget allocations be fired.

Kimble Takes Issue

Senator Kimble (R-Allegany) took issue with his colleague on the point of firing department heads. He said if legislators would work to get the facts behind the budget, there would be no need for changes in the budget system.

He indicated that in his opinion legislative cuts of department askings are sometimes too drastic to allow a department to function.

Kimble also called for a single Department of Labor in the state governmental setup to take care of labor issues which he said are currently resolved in various departments of the state government.

Today's meetings was attended by delegates from Washington, Garrett, Frederick and Allegany Counties.

Similar meetings have been held in Ocean City, Annapolis and Baltimore.

Cresaptown To Vote Monday On Light Issue

422 Eligible To Express Opinion

Residents of Cresaptown will have an opportunity Monday to ballot on a proposal to install street lights throughout the community.

Polls will be open in the Water Office, Craddock Drive, from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m., to give all the 422 registered voters a chance to vote for or against the referendum question.

The plan calls for establishment of 113 street lights. Cost of the plan will amount to an assessment of between 15 and 20 cents on each $100 of assessable property. On an average $3,000 assessment, street lights will amount to about 50 cents per month, observers point out.

The proposal is a part of the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association's development and comes under provisions of the measure establishing the Cresaptown Special Taxing Area.

The community has already adopted a water system and installation of mains and equipment is proceeding steadily. Project No. 2 of the system is underway. This includes a water main to the top of the hill on Brant Road, leading from a point at Calvary Baptist Church.

Two pumps are to be installed to supply a 100,000 gallon pressure tank, and provide the area with adequate water and pressure. Officers said yesterday when this phase is completed, a survey of fire insurance rates can be made and a reduction is anticipated on all property within 600 feet of any fire hydrant.

Officers of the association are urging every Cresaptown resident, qualified to vote on the street light question, do so, and that voters go to the polls early to avoid a last minute rush.

Christian Skidmore is association president; Philip Bowman, is vice president; Joseph Wenrich, water commissioner; Charles Bird, treasurer, and Frank Ferrone, secretary.

Columbia Street Teen Age Club Is Organized

Delbert Payton has been elected president of the Teen Age Club of Columbia Street Playground.

Other officers of the club which was organized at the play center Thursday afternoon are:

The first activity of the club will be held Monday at 7 p. m. at Constitution Park, when a swimming party and wiener roast are scheduled. Following the outing, the club will hold a business session.

All 'teen agers of the Columbia Street area are invited to attend and to become members of the club.

Slated at the playground Tuesday at 7 p. m. will be an "On Wheels" parade. Sue Cunningham, playground leader, will be in charge.

Unemployment In Area Shows Increase July 1

According to figures released by Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the State Department of Employment Security, there are 168 more persons unemployed in the area as of July 1 than on the June 1 report.

During June there were 3,046 persons on file at the unemployment office as compared to 3,214 persons seeking jobs July 1. Carroll explained that the increase was primarily due to high school and college graduates seeking jobs.

A total of 408 new applications was filed in June, and there are still 675 veterans seeking jobs.

Carroll said there are some job openings in other areas. There are job openings in Baltimore and Hagerstown for skilled mechanics. There are no openings for persons without skilled training.

Carroll stated the unemployment figures were stabilized and have not changed for about two and a half years. He believes that figures will stay about the same until some new industries move into the area.

Some of the slack has been taken up by various construction work, the flood control project, building of Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools, and repair work on McMullen Highway and Vale Summite Road, Carroll said.

St. John's College Promotes Local Man

William Albert Darkey, Jr., of Cumberland, has been appointed director of admissions of St. John's College, Annapolis, President Richard D. Weigle announced yesterday.

Darkey was a 1942 honor graduate of St. John's and instructor at the college from 1942 to 1946. After a year in the Army, he attended Columbia University where he received his master's degree. In 1949 he returned to the faculty staff of St. John's.

The new admissions director is the son of William A. Darkey, 619 Lynn Street.

All-American Petitions To Cancel Plane Service At Cumberland Airport

Facilities Inadequate; Location, Weather And Visibility Hamper Service, Report Says

Terrain hazards, poor visibility, inadequate approaches and lack of facilities are offered as reasons for cancelling air passenger service to the Cumberlnd arport.

All-American Airways, Inc., filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday asking to suspend plane service to Cumberland, Connelsville-Uniontown, Pa., and Fredonia-Dunkirk, N. Y.

All-American said it wanted to stop the Cumberland service solely on the basis of the airport condition here, although it believes the area has a good traffic potential if the airport could be used at night and in all kinds of weather.

Condition Termed Hopeless

An All-American official termed the Cumberland Municipal Airport "hopeless" from the standpoint of being able to handle the kind of service All-American would like to provide here.

He said the firm's planes could be operated into the airport only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

During the long summer months, he added, fairly adequate service can be provided in Cumberland, but that in the winter months it is a "different story".

Flights must be made in the late morning, the AA official said, to avoid early morning fogs, and no night flights are possible.

Mountains in the area, he added, are always a hazard in using the Cumberland field.

Primary reason advanced in the request to stop the Connelsville-Uniontown and Fredonia-Dunkirk service was that they had provided "extremely poor traffic" for the line, the airline official said.

12 Per Cent Overflights

In its petition, All-American declares it was forced to overfly Cumberland due to weather on 12 per cent of its actual trips during May, 1951 and that the overflight average is 9.5 per cent during October, 1950, to May, 1951 period.

Weather conditions here, however, were apparently not so bad as at the Connellsville - Uniontown port, where 11 per cent of flights were overflown.

The firm said it is regrettable that service to Cumberland is proposed to be discontinued but said there appears no practical manner in which the airport facility can be improved except at extreme cost.

The airport at Cumberland, All-American said, is in a valley completely encircled by mountains, and while operable, is otherwise marginal, and can be used only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

It quoted from the summary of the Maryland State Aviation Commission that:

"Terrain hazards, limited approaches and site restrictions preclude a safe instrument and night operation of aircraft."

The state group, the brief said, recommends a series of conferences be held to ascertain methods of eliminating hazards or developing a new airport.

All-American said if facilities at Cumberland are improved, it will gladly seek to develop the potential of Cumberland.

Term Request Imperative

The combination of the airport factor and the marginal traffic aspects at Cumberland, make the request imperative, the firm said.

Mileage to be saved by a suspension of the service at Uniontown-Connellsville and Cumberland, All-American said, could be utilized over one of the firm's more heavily traveled and profitable route segments.

The request called for temporary suspension of service at the above named points until January 11, 1952, or until further notice from the board.

Cumberland is by far the greatest revenue producer of the three points mentioned.

Passenger Load High

During 11 months of 1949, All-American handled 1,258 passengers at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Last year, the passenger load rose slightly to 1,433, and 535 passengers were handled during the first five months of 1951, for a total passenger load of 3,236 since service was instituted.

The Dunkirk - Fredonia field handled 328 in the same period in 1949; 711 in 1950 and 309 during 1951.

The Connellsville-Uniontown port had 1,111 passengers in 1949, but only 806 last year and 279 during the first five months of this year.

The Cumberland Municipal Airport, located at Wiley Ford, W. Va., about three and one-half miles from the heart of the city, has three runways, one 5,950 feet, one, 3,150 feet, and a third 3,900 feet.

Operating cost to the city is almost $11,000 a year.

Recreation Department Gets Croquet Balls

Box hockey practice on city playgrounds got under way promptly this week when a local hardware store provided hard-to-get croquet balls.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreation director, issued an appeal for old croquet balls to be used in the game, explaining he was unable to secure them without buying complete croquet sets.

When the Wilson Hardware Company read of the difficulty, it dug into its shelves and came up with a box containing a dozen balls and donated them to the playgrounds.

APPOINTED—Chester A. Fisher, LaVale, was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission for a six-year term, this week, by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. Fisher, an accountant at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, succeeds William B. Ludman who completed his term as a commission member.

KOREAN TALKS STILL STALEMATED

Rising Flood Waters Surge Into Twin Cities Of Kansas

Emergency Declared; Explosions Rock Town

KANSAS CITY, July 13 (AP) — The worst flood in local history surged into the Twin Cities of Kansas City, Mo. and Kansas City, Kas. today bringing near paralysis to this metropolitan area of 900,000 population.

With three major industrial districts under water and fire burning in an oil storage tank area of two square blocks, the city council proclaimed a state of emergency.

Mayor William E. Keop and City Manager L. P. Cookingham earlier had requested that all non-essential businesses close in Kansas City.

Residents were asked to remain in their homes unless on essential business.

Water Supply Limited

The water supply in Kansas City, Mo. and suburbs supplied by that city's water plant were reduced sharply by the flooding of Turkey Creek pumping station.

Army engineers recommended evacuation of North Kansas City, an industrial area north of the Missouri River from the Kansas City Mo. business district.

They also advised the Municipal Airport to move all of its equipment to higher ground. The airport is adjacent to North Kansas City, although within the corporate limits of Kansas City.

The evacuation was ordered after the weather bureau predicted a flood crest half a foot higher than the 1903 top—greatest flood on record heretofore. This would pour the water over the dikes.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is bringing 500 men and 1500 trucks with equipment into the flood area from surrounding states in an effort to keep transcontinental phone lines open.

Kemp and Cookingham, in their proclamation, asked all businesses to close except these:

Restaurants, drug stores, essential food stores, hotels, newspapers, radio stations, medical offices and clinics, public utilities and related businesses.

Explosions Rip Tanks

Even as the mayor and city manager made their request, fire swept a two-block oil tank storage area at Roanoke Parkway and Southwest Boulevard in the flood zone.

Explosions ripping through a dozen gasoline storage tanks started the blaze. Firemen worked in waist-deep water to fight the blaze and confine it.

Earlier another gasoline tank fire threatened the Argentine Industrial district in the flooded portion of Kansas City, Kas. The fire was extinguished after it gutted a residence and a warehouse.

Maj. Gen. Lewis Pick, Chief of the Army Engineers, told reporters in Washington that damage from the flood, which devastated much of Eastern Kansas before pouring into Kansas City, could reach $1,000,000,000.

Acheson Admits More Officials Were Suspended

Lattimore Summoned For Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson disclosed today that a number of State Department employes have been suspended in the last month or so.

There are in addition to the two officials whose suspension—in connection with security charges against them—was announced last night.

These are in addition to the two officials whose suspension—in connection with security charges against them—was announced last night.

Acheson refused to say how many more have been suspended or give any new names. He told a questioner he did not think public disclosure was the best way to handle the situation.

Was Generally Known

It had became generally known among State Department reporters that John P. Davies and Oliver Edmund Clubb, high ranking officials specializing in Chinese affairs, had been suspended before the department formally announced it last night.

Reporters brought up their cases at Acheson's news conference today and asked the Secretary whether there were any more.

He replied there were only the two, but later, after talking with an aide he revised this to say more have been suspended.

Acheson told questioners the suspensions were under a statute which he understood was only about a month of six weeks old.

He said that officials or other employes who have to face hearings on loyalty or security charges since the application of the law became effective must be automatically suspended pending hearings.

Those involved in earlier hearings on procedures, he said, have not had to be suspended.

Applauds Move

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), Acheson's severest critic, applauded the two suspensions but told a reporter he regarded the secretary's ban against giving out information on others as "typical of Acheson, who never wants to admit there is anything wrong with the State Department."

Meanwhile, Owen Lattimore, summoned back to Washington for another Congressional investigation, said on Capitol Hill that the Institute of Pacific Relations was never run by the Reds.

"It never has been Communist-dominated and it never has been a Communist front," Lattimore told reporters. He had just emerged from a two-hour session with members of the Senate Internal Security Committee, behind closed doors.

Enemy Casualties Listed At 1,202,928

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — Enemy casualties in the Korean war have now risen to 1,202,928, the Army estimated today.

The figure covers the fighting through July 4, before the cease-fire negotiations brought a lull in the conflict.

Enemy battle casualties were set at 872,737—an increase of 8,788 since the last estimate nine days ago—with the Chinese suffering 500,107 of that number and the North Koreans 372,630.

Tito Doubts Russia Motives

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 13 (AP) — Premier Marshall Tito said today he doubts Russia's sincerity in seeking an end of the Korean War.

Here, on the fringe of the Iron Curtain with his country under constant pressure from its Soviet satellite neighbors, Tito expressed the belief that Russia's cease-fire move "is only a maneuver — to calm things down in Korea in order to open fire in another place."

He did not mention the other place by name. Yet it was obvious he was referring to his homeland, which has been engaged for three years now in a bitter feud with the Soviet-dominated Cominform.

Tito's remarks were made in his first major address this year. He spoke before a crowd officially estimated at 40,000 in war-devastated Tito-Grad, new capital of Montenegro.

It marked the first time that Tito — once one of Stalin's most ardent admirers and faithful disciples in the cause of Communism — has made sharp attacks on Russia's chief of state personally and publicly.

Office Worker's Eyes To Help Blind Mother See

DETROIT, July 13 (AP)—The eyes of a young office worker, who died with a brain tumor, may help a near-blind mother of six to see again.

But Lawrence G. Shannon, 32, who died early today, did not know that he was going to help Mrs. Lena Campbell. He was unconscious in his last hours.

The permission for the transplanting of the corneas from Shannon's eyes was given by his mother, Mrs. May Shannon, and his six brothers and sisters.

Rift Between President And Douglas Widens

Senator Is Potential White House Candidate

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — President Truman today rebuffed Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill) by naming only one of three men sponsored by Douglas to fill vacancies in Illinois Federal Courts.

The White House announcement rekindled political rumors of coolness between Mr. Truman and Douglas, and set the stage for a possible serious rift in Democratic Party ranks.

A permanent breach might even have national repercussions in the 1951 elections since Douglas has followers who are boosting his stock as a potential candidate for the White House.

Douglas was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Whether he would fight the nominations in the Senate remains to be seen. He could probably block them if he chose, because the Senate does not usually approve nominees if their home state Senator declares them objectionable to him.

In line with Senate tradition, Douglas sent his recommendations to Mr. Truman several months ago, urging the appointment of Joseph Samuel Perry, William H. King and Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

Of the three, Mr. Truman nominated only Perry, who also had the support of former Senate Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois. While Douglas recommended Perry he was reported to have been primarily interested in seeing King and Epstein nominated.

In addition to Perry, the president named Joseph Jerome Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington as U. S. District Court Judges in Chicago.

Drucker is a nephew of the veteran Rep. Sabth (D-Ill), chairman of the powerful house rules committee and an ardent "fair deal" supporter. Drucker is now a Municipal Court Judge in Chicago.

Truman Wants Strong Illegal Border Entry Law

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — President Truman said today that "phenomenal numbers" of illegal immigrants are streaming into the United States from Mexico — at least half a million last year. He asked Congress to "lose no time" in passing strong laws to halt the illegal border crossings and punish offenders.

The President also asked Congress to improve the Labor Department's machinery for placing domestic workers in farm jobs. He said the fullest opportunity must be given "to those of our citizens who seek employment on the farm."

Nine Children Hurt In Crash

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP) — Nine of the 45 children on a special camping bus were slightly injured today when the bus, unable to stop, plowed into a car halted for a red-light.

The nine were treated for cuts and bruises at Maryland General Hospital.

Acheson Backs UN Stand In Korea Talks

Wants Neutral Zone To Resume Meetings

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The United States is seeking a Korean armistice agreement which would establish a buffer zone along the present battle line—mostly north of the 38th parallel.

This was indicated at Secretary of State Acheson's news conference today. Acheson also endorsed fully Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand on the Communists that Korean truce talks must be resumed in a completely neutral zone with free access for negotiating teams of both sides.

Hope To Resume

In discussing the present disruption of the talks—which officials here hope may be resumed shortly—Acheson declined to go beyond what Ridgway, the U. N. commander, has already said about the conduct of the Communists.

Specifically he declined to comment or re-state in his own words a charge by the Voice of America that the Communists had shown "bad faith" before the talks were interrupted and that this in fact caused the interruption.

Acheson did say, however, that performance is the test of the Reds' attitude and that the world will be able to judge by their performance what they intend to do.

The 38th parallel issue came into the news conference discussion when Acheson was reminded that the Communists had published their requirements for an armistice agreement, including establishment of a buffer zone along the 38th parallel boundary between North and South Korea.

Doesn't Favor Withdrawal

A reporter recalled that during the MacArthur hearings Acheson had said he would consider a settlement of the war along the 38th parallel as a victory for the United Nations forces in that it would mean the Red conquest of South Korea had been prevented. He was asked wether he was talking in this connection about a settlement precisely on the parallel or in the area of the parallel.

He replied that he was not talking about the line in an exact surveyor's sense but meant the general area. Pressed as to wether he would favor withdrawal of United Nations forces from their present positions north of the parallel, he declined to define his views exactly but stated emphatically that he has not said anything that would indicate that he favored withdrawal south of the parallel.

Bradley Fears Korean Truce

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—General Omar N. Bradley said today he is convinced that Communism is out to rule the world. He warned that if the Reds are repulsed in Korea, they will probe for another soft spot somewhere else.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the Administration's proposed new $8,500,000,000 military-economic foreign aid plan.

Rep. Judd (R-Minn) asked Bradley if he would be more—or less—apprehensive of a Communist strike elsewhere if a workable Korean armistice is reached.

"I think it would increase my apprehension," Bradley replied. He did not specify where any new outbreak might come but noted that up to now large Communist forces have been "fully occupied." Any Korean armistice, he suggested, might release Communist power for other strikes.

A few minutes later, however, Bradley modified this somewhat. He said that since the Communists "got their fingers burnt as much as they did" in Korea, they might be hesitant to start something elsewhere.

Discuss Truce Problem

Supreme Commander Matthew B. Ridgway (right) discusses the present stalemate between the United Nations forces and the Communists in Korea with Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior UN negotiator. The Allies are awaiting a Red reply to Ridgway's demand that armed forces be removed from Kaesong where the peace talks have been negotiated. Ridgway also stipulated that if an agreement on the present deadlock couldn't be reached that the peace site be changed and talks renewed there.

Guardsmen Stretch Barbed Wire To Block Mob Violence In Cicero, Ill., Race Riot

CICERO, Ill., July 13 (AP)—National Guardsmen stretched up barbed wire barricades today to block any new mob attempt to storm an apartment building in which a Negro family has rented a flat.

Riots broke out in this Chicago suburb of 70,000 after the Negro bus driver moved his furniture into the apartment Tuesday.

The string of barbed wire, forming a fence five strands deep, barricaded all street and alley entrances in the square block around the building. Some 350 steel helmeted guardsmen armed with rifles and tear gas grenades manned the barricade.

The outer perimetera — four blocks square area—was patrolled by police and sheriff's deputies.

May Replace Guard

Only 100 persons were in the area early in the evening.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson told a news conference in Springfield that he was considering replacing the Guardsmen now on duty with Chicago Guardsmen, if the situation does not improve. The Chicago Guardsmen are in summer training at Camp Grayling, Mich., but will return this week end. The Guardsmen on duty now are from nearby cities.

The height of disorder occurred Thursday night and early Friday when 450 guard troops moved in to help some 200 Cicero and Cook County sheriff's policemen. In the melee, an undetermined number of demonstrators were injured. Seventeen were hospitalized, five of them for slight bayonet wounds. The others, including police officers and soldiers, were hit by flying brickbats.

Mob Included Minors

Police said the mob included a large number of minors. Estimates of the number ranged from 4,000 to 8,000. It was the first time since the 1933 mine war in Southern Illinois that state troops were called out to quell a civil disturbance.

Seventy two persons seized at the disorder scene early today were released, 60 of them under bonds of $50 each, after they were booked on various charges.

A crowd gathered in front of the apartment building Tuesday when the furniture of Harvey E. Clark, Jr., a Negro veteran of World War Two, was moved into the $60-a-month flat.

Former Slave, 107, Succumbs In Michigan

DEARBORN, Mich., July 13 (AP)—The last of Michigan's once proud band of "Boys In Blue" died today.

He was 107-year-old Joseph (Uncle Joe) Clovese, a runaway slave who played the drums for the Union Army in the Civil War.

Clovese, who died at Dearborn Veterans Hospital, also was the last surviving negro of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Hospital doctors said Clovese died of hardening of the arteries and other complications of old age.

Airplane Crash Delays Harriman

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP)—Averell Harriman took off on his Presidential mission to oil-troubled Iran, after a 20-minute delay caused by a Friday the thirteenth accident at National Airport.

The military plane carrying President Truman's foreign affairs adviser to Iran, for talks intended to help solve the British-Iranian oil dispute, was not directly involved.

It had just made its turn preparatory to heading for the take-off runway when a private plane piloted by Leonard Cecil of Washington made a forced landing from about 200 to 300 feet in the air, blew out a tire and went into a groundspin.

Harriman's pilot stopped his ship abruptly, 200 feet away. It was not allowed to proceed until fire-fighting equipment had been cleared from the scene. Cecil was unhurt.

Guatemala Riots Kill 4, Injure 61

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, July 13 (AP) — This capital city quieted down today after two days of rioting in which four persons were killed and 61 injured.

The government suspended constitutional guarantees for 30 days in a decree dated Thursday. It described the rioting as part of a plot against the regime of President Jacobo Arbez Guzman.

The street demonstrators called themselves anti-Communists but the government said this was a masquerade.

Miss Mosby Dies

WARRENTON, Va., July 13 (AP)—Miss Pauline Vincent Mosby, 82, the last surviving daughter of Col. John S. Mosby, died in a Warrenton hospital yesterday after a brief illness.

Mosby was the leader of the famed Mosby's Rangers of the war between the states.

House Continues To Blast Holes In Controls Bill

Rejects Authority For New Agencies

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — A rebellious house shot new holes in the Administration's economic controls bill today.

By a vote of 92 to 39, the chamber rejected President Truman's request for unlimited authority to set up new Federal corporations to spur defense production or assist in control measures.

Republicans Lead Way

Once again the Republicans took the lead in blasting away at the already tattered controls measure. A few Democrats joined them.

Rep. Crawford (R-Mich) told the House that the requested authority would take away the right of Congress to control the "chicaneries" of any new government agencies which the President might see fit to create.

Under the corporations control act passed several years ago, only Congress itself can charter new agencies such as the Commodity Credit Corporation, which supports farm prices, or the Home Owners Loan Corporation, set up in depression days to aid hard-pressed home owners.

The vote came on an amendment by Rep. Hardy (D-Va) striking the proposed power out of the new bill.

Hardy said he had become convinced after first-hand experience with government agencies that all Federal corporations should be chartered by Congress.

Work At Snail's Pace

Working at a snail's pace — with gaping vacancies on both sides of the aisle — the House had taken up only 16 of 57 pending amendments as the chamber got ready to recess for the weekend after five days of voting.

President Truman has asked for a two-year extension of the present controls law, with greater authority to impose curbs on prices, wages, rents, materials and other economic factors as a weapon against inflation.

The Senate has passed an eight-month extension, but has loaded it down with restrictions on the Administration's powers.

Allies Await Reds' Reply To Demands

Communist Position Remains Unchanged

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP)—The Allies awaited a Red reply today (Saturday) to Gen. Matthew P. Ridgway's demand that Communist soldiers get out of Kaesong and the Reds show other proofs of good faith if cease-fire talks are to be resumed.

Since shortly after 1:15 p. m Friday (10:15 p. m. EST Thursday), the next move has been up to the Reds.

At that hour, radios beamed to the Reds a statement by General Ridgway, Allied Supreme Commander, on why there have been no three "primary prerequisites" for getting them started again.

Makes Demands

He accused the Reds of objectionable tactics from the start of the talks Tuesday.

Ridgway's three demands:

1. Clear Kaesong of armed guards and also the five-mile area radiating from its center—or pick another site with such a neutral setting.

2. Permit complete freedom of movement to and from the conference site.

3. Allow each side to send anyone they wished, up to 150 persons, including "representatives of the press," to the conference site.

"If you agree to these proposals," Ridgway said, "the present recess can be terminated and the conference resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

Ridgway told the Reds that "since the first meeting at Kaesong your delegation has placed restrictions on the movement of our delegation." He emphasized that the recess since Wednesday was "solely due to those unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions against which representatives have repeatedly protested."

Remain Unchanged

Some indication that the Communist position remained unchanged came fom a message sent Friday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il head Red delegate, in reply to a message Thursday from Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator.

Nam firmly rejected Admiral Joy's demand that 20 Allied correspondents be allowed to visit Kaesong, although they were not to have attended the conferences.

"Hell On Wheels" Armored Division Arrives In Europe

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Advance troops of the "Hell On Wheels" armored division landed here from the United States today "to keep the Russians out of Western Europe."

That's the way Maj. Gen. Williston B. Palmer described the mission of his famed Second Armored Division as 1,100 soldiers walked down the gangplank of the Navy transport General Gallan. Other transports are carrying the rest of the Second's 15,000 men across the Atlantic.

"This division was sent over here to keep the Russians out of Western Europe and we aim to do it," Palmer said.

The armored division follows the Fourth Infantry Division into Germany under the U. S. plan to build American fighting strength in Europe to six divisions.

Two more U. S. divisions—the 28th and 43rd — will follow the Second Armored later this year. Combined with other Allied forces, the West will have more than 14 divisions in Germany before 1952.

Outside on the dock double lines of medium tanks lay on flatcars ready for movement. The equipment preceded the division's vanguard and soon will be battle-fit.

Most of the Second's arriving troops were drafted last December. They average between 20 and 22 years old and seem cheerful.

House Group OK's Billion Dollar Air Force Building Plan

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A secret billion dollar Air Force building project in Europe and areas rimming Russia was approved today by the House Armed Services Committee.

New and expanded American air bases are included in the project.

In other moves to force a mighty global ring of American air bases against any Soviet aggression:

1. The State Department said Saudi Arabia has agreed to let U. S. bomber and fighter planes use strategic Dhahran airfield for the next five years. The big Middle-East base is only about 1,500 miles from Russian territory.

Wants 150 Groups

2. The House Armed Services Committee tentatively approved $357,686,000 in construction at eight bases in the Alaskan area and Puerto Rico and six within the United States.

3. Senator Lodge (R-Mass) proposed that the U. S. speedily build a 150-group Air Force, the mightiest in the world, to avoid the risk of "national disaster."

The Air Force said yesterday it is rushing the construction of a system of North African bases.

The Armed Services Committee action was part of its item-by-item consideration of a $6,561,262,000 world-wide military construction program. The committee approved the spending of $1,071,638,000 for the secret Air Force construction.

To Buy Weapons

The State Department also disclosed it had agreed to let Saudi Arabia buy weapons and defense materials in the United States. It added that training in the use of the equipment would be offered so "Saudi Arabia may maintain its internal security, its legitimate self-defense, or participate in the defense of the area of which it is a part."

Lodge estimated the cost of building the 150-group Air Force at $74,000,000,000 over a three-year period.

Lodge estimated Russia has 9,000 tactical planes it could use in any attack on Western Europe. He expressed belief Russia had increased its armaments build-up even more than the United States since the Korean War began.

Allies Unhappy Over Korean Truce Stalemate

Believe Communists Outsmarted Them

MUNSAN, Korea, July 13 (AP)—Have the Communists outsmarted the Allies at Kaesong?

There are numbers of American officers in and near this "peace" camp who are very unhappy about the way things went at Kaesong.

This was in effect conceded today in Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's demand that the Reds either move their armed forces away from Kaesong and make it a truly neutral zone, or else start armistice talks all over again in an altogether different place.

Ridgway mentioned that he had first proposed conferences aboard the Danish Hospital ship Jutlandia, where "a completely neutral atmosphere" could be attained. The Communists apparently did not think so.

Danish Contribution

The Jutlandia is Denmark's contribution to the United Nations effort in Korea, and while it is a mercy ship without arms, the Reds certainly regard it as "enemy" territory. They also possibly recalled the Japanese surrender aboard the Battleship Missouri six years ago and figured any shipboard meeting would look bad for the Red side.

So the Reds proposed a meeting at Kaesong. From their point of view they had good reasons, most of them propaganda-connected. Kaesong was the only south Korean town of any size that was within reach of the Red armies.

There was a lot of talk from the Allied side at the time about it being in no-man's-land. This was only partly true. The Allies had sent patrols into it several times, and appeared on the point of occupying it firmly when the Reds suggested it as a cease-fire site.

Still, it was in Red territory at the time. As soon as Ridgway said okay to a Kaesong meeting, the Reds pushed their troops back into the town and set up road blocks to the south.

Taking advantage of the neutral corridor proclaimed by the Allies, they also sent company-sized patrols down to the Imjin River and sent scouts south of the river to spy out Allied military positions.

Several of these have been captured by the Allies in the past few days. All have been in uniform, so they could not be charged with espionage.

Made Kaesong Fortress

The Communists thus have been able both to boast to the world that the U. N. was coming to them to seek an armistice, and also have taken some military advantage of the situation.

They have ushered the U. N. parties in and out under guard as if Kaesong were a Communist fortress and have preempted the right to decide who can enter.

Allied dissatisfaction was brought to a head Thursday when the Reds stopped a party of 20 newsmen that Ridgway had authorized to visit Kaesong, although not to attend the meetings.

As a result, the whole convoy returned and the Allied delegates did not go to Kaesong.

This also brought to a head the tangled question of press coverage. This is a whole subject in itself, but it is now caught up in the main issue of Communist and Allied good faith.

Whatever the final outcome, the Reds have managed things so they are telling the world that the Allies are to blame for breaking off the armistice talks.

Rising Flood

Thirteen persons are known to have lost their lives since the floods started three days ago. There were unconfirmed reports today that three more died in Kansas City, Kas. when a boat capsized.

Many were missing, but no totals were available as many missing persons were located in refugee centers.

All transcontinental rail service through this major rail rub was halted, as was all through highway travel.

Reinstate Reds Congress Bond

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Bowing to a higher court, Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today ordered 15 second string Communist leaders freed on bond.

He reinstated $176,000 bail posted by the Civil Rights Congress.

Ryan revoked the bonds Wednesday and outlawed the Congress as a future bondsman in his court. The 15 were locked up in Federal detention cells.

Appeals Judge Learned Hand reversed Judge Ryan yesterday but the Reds remained in jail overnight to await Judge Ryan's decision.

"Judge Hand has ruled," Ryan said. "I have nothing but the most wholesome respect for Judge Hand and this court will obey his ruling. What he says is the law is, to me, the law. Besides I have a personal affection for Judge Hand."

The decision wrecked any immediate government hopes to dam the seemingly endless flow of bail money from the Civil Rights Congress to the Communist Party.

Yacht Crewman Killed Shark With Knife Before Rescue

PEARL HARBOR, July 13 (AP) — Steel-nerved Ted Sierks told today in a ship-to-ship radio interview how he stabbed to death a shark which nibbled at his feet during the 30 hours he was adrift in a life-ring in Mid-Pacific.

In Good Health

The 40-year-old Avalon, Calif., yachtsman fell off the racing sloop, L'Apache, Wednesday 810 miles northeast of Honolulu. He was plucked from the eight-foot waves Thursday afternoon by the destroyer-escort Douglas A. Munro.

In good health but weary he admittedly had been on the point of despair after several searchers had come close without sighting him.

Today, talking by radio from the rescue vessel, Sierks told about the seven foot shark:

"It was after my bare feet. It kinda nibbled on them. I grabbed it by the tail, turned it over and ripped its belly with my sailor knife. The shark had circled around and kept eyeing me for 15 to 20 minutes before it came in.

"The whole thing was over in 20 minutes.

"Fortunately, I had kept my knife with me. I thought I might have to use it."

Killed Shark Wednesday

He killed the shark in daylight Wednesday, a few hours after he fell overboard from L'Apache, a contestant in the 2,225-mile Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race.

How did the accident happen?

"We were repairing a broken boom tackle," Sierks said.

"There were heavy seas. I leaned out and had to put my weight against the rail.

"The boat heeled over and I went in the water."

Other crew members of the yacht, skippered by Phyllis B. Brunson of Hollywood, tossed Sierks two life-rings.

Doctor Indicted In Spinster Death By Grand Jury

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 13 (AP) —A grand jury today accused Dr. Donald F. Gibson, 49, of manslaughter in the death of the aged, well-to-do Danbury spinster who made him her heir.

The jury charged that the physician caused the death of Miss Elizabeth M. Ayres, 74, last July 26 "by the gross and reckless administration of drugs."

The jury was discharged without taking any action in the case of a second Danbury physician, Dr. Frank T. Genovese, who was implicated with Dr. Gibson in a finding by former coroner Theodore E. Steiber.

Mayor, Police Chief In Fight

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 13 (AP)—The mayor paid a $25 fine today for assaulting his police chief after both gave a judge a blow-by-blow account which agreed on this point only—there was a fight.

Police Chief William J. Collins—age 58, weight 185, height 6 feet one—charged he was punched "four or five times" last Monday in the mayor's office by Mayor Joseph L. Willett—age 45, weight 185, height 6 feet two.

About 200 spectators jammed the courtroom which normally seats 65 when the tall mayor—who pleaded innocent to a charge of assault and battery—said he did not punch the chief.

The mayor is an ex-marine who drives a bus Friday and Saturday nights.

Both the mayor and the chief are spare-time athletes.

The chief gave this version to district Judge Daniel J. Cavan: "The mayor said to me—'I can make you take off your glasses.' x x x I got up and headed for the door. x x x I was hit back of the head. He (the mayor) hit me four or five times and had his hands on my neck."

Two witnesses backed up the chief's story.

The mayor didn't offer any witnesses but when an attorney asked him if he disagreed with the chief's witnesses, the mayor answered:

"Oh, absolutely."

What started the fight?

The chief said the mayor wanted to shake up the police department and he opposed it.

Plan Considered To Store Old County Records

Some Files May Be Destroyed

The Allegany County Court House is bulging at the seams.

So says Albert A. Doub, president of the Allegany County Bar Association and Harry I. Stegmaier, also a member of the bar.

They met with the Board of County Commissioners yesterday morning to discuss the possibility of obtaining several rooms in the basement of the Court House to store old files so space in Circuit Court offices may be used for new records.

Cover Over 100 Years

Doub said deeds, mortgages and other records dating back for at least 100 years are overflowing in the land records office and that it proves difficult for attorneys and court attaches to work with the overcrowded condition.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board, told Doub and Stegmaier, who were accompanied by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden, that Judges Morgan C. Harris and George Henderson have consulted with the board concerning the matter and something will be worked out.

Lemmert also said that records of the tax office, assessors' office, and those of the commissioners are also so numerous that plans must be made for taking care of all the units at the Court House.

To Prepare Petition

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, was instructed to draw up a petition to present to the court under which old records not required to be kept by law would be destroyed. Certain papers such as deeds, records of court cases, mortgages, and other vital papers would not be destroyed.

Doub said the bar association has enough money to purchase a photostat machine which would greatly facilitate handling of court records and cut down on the expense of transcribing by typewriter.

The commissioners were asked to make the necessary repairs and do other work to put the basement rooms in proper shape. It was pointed out several large rooms in the basement would be ideal for storing old records which must be kept and the expense would not be too great.

Old Cancelled Checks

It was mentioned that among surplus papers still stored at the Court House are cancelled checks of over 50 years ago, correspondence from as long ago and various other non-essential documents. Old assessment records and similar papers would also be destroyed under court order.

Plans are to photostat various records and also provision is being provided for land maps and plats which are very necessary in the transaction of business by attorneys and others interested in real estate sales.

The Case Of Tungsten

Two defense agencies have been charged with responsibility for this country's "pitifully small" store of tungsten, that hard and scarce metal essential to the production of arms and civilian goods. They are accused of playing "blind man's buff"—with all the players "blindfolded"—until the communist victory in China closed the best source of supply. And then, it is asserted, stockpiling "merely stepped up from a crawl to a shuffle."

A subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, generally called the Senate's defense "watchdog" committee, has handed up this indictment. The defense agencies involved are the Army and the Munitions Board. And the phrases already quoted are only some of the sharply worded criticisms in the subcommittee's report on the tungsten situation.

One more sentence might sum it up: "This is one of the worst examples of the evil effects of bureaucratic complacency upon the defense program that our subcommittee has uncovered."

It can be said in extenuation of the two agencies that the present stockpile, however inadequate, is larger than the supply in this country at the beginning of World War II. But that is not the question. The question is to what extent the nation's needs were met.

That must be the criterion, and the two agencies concerned can hardly plead not guilty. The subcommittee declares that "the free world stands on the verge of tungsten starvation." It says we are "in a position where we must tighten our belts until it hurts and it is going to hurt plenty." It says there is no possible way now to provide all the tungsten required for essential military and civilian production.

So there has been a failure. It was an inexcusable failure, because there is simply no excuse good enough when what needed to be done went undone.

Never Had It So Good

Norway has put on the American run a new tanker, the Dalfonn. Each of the 50 officers and seamen aboard the 24,500-ton motor ship has a private, air-conditioned cabin, and facilities for crew entertainment include an aluminum swimming pool.

All this luxury will seem incredible to those who have read "Moby Dick," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Twenty Years Before the Mast," or "The Caine Mutiny." Indeed, it will seem incredible to the men aboard most of the ships still afloat, for naval architects have not been noticeably solicitious about the comfort, or even the health, of seamen.

Bad ventilation, criwded sleeping quarters, lack of privacy and boredom have been the traditional lot of ships' crews.

The new dispensation is not wholly a matter of humanitarianism. The discomforts of life at sea, particularly on merchantmen, have lessened the number who are willing to become seamen.

The luxury offered by the Dalfonn is obviously an attempt to meet the problem of recruitment.

Some of the oldest and toughest of sea dogs may look with scorn at the Dalfonn, as an old Regular Army sergeant will snear at even the modest comforts of the modern army camp. But few will share their nostalgia for the Spartan life in the forecastles and barracks of old. Men can be men, good soldiers and good sailors, without living like cattle.

Aid To Korean Schools

The Republic of Korea has been assured by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization that it will be helped in the job of rehabilitating its schools. The Korean minister of education has asked for assistance in mapping out an educational program and for financial aid. He also asked for help in a campaign to increase literacy in his country.

The director general of Unesco, Jaime Torres Bodet, replied that the needed help would be given to Korea and mentioned the particular debt that the United Nations owed to Korea. Had the Republic wished to surrender to the North Koreans it might have spared the destruction of its cities. Instead it elected to fight and it became a symbol of United Nations unity. This is a debt that cannot be taken lightly.

It seems appropriate that one of the ways in which the obligation to Korea will be repaid is through education. In Korea the United Nations can prove to the world that it is interested not only in stopping wars by use of international force but also in preventing them by eliminating the sources of war. Poverty, ignorance and disease have been contributing causes to war since men first took arms against one another. Any move to eliminate or alleviate these evils is a step in the right direction.

Marching With Time

The "March of Time," documentary film series which has presented, analyzed and interpreted trends in the news for over seventeen years, will shortly be seen no more in the nation's movie houses. The films will henceforth be seen over television.

The series began in the midst of the great depression and continued to chronicle and explain the world situation through World War II and the eventful years since. The films maintained a standard of excellence that commanded attention even from people who went to the theater purely for relaxation and entertainment and who would ordinarily have shunned educational productions.

The long series contributed much to the documentary approach to movie making. Perhaps it can have a corresponding effect on the comparatively new field of television. In turning aside from its shrinking movie audiences and stepping into a new field, the film series seems to keep spirit with its dramatic identifying signature line, "Time marches on."

Spare Tires Again

The Defense Production Administration is lifting its ban against spare tires in new automobiles. Manly Fleischmann, the administrator, explained that there have been an improvement in the rubber situation and a reduction in automobile production. Fewer new cars require fewer spare tires. The combined result, he said, makes it possible to lift the ban against the spare.

All this is to the good. We are glad that the rubber situation is better. We are not glad that automobile production is lower, although on Sunday afternoons it is even possible to be glad for that. But we are glad that the new cars in the showrooms will have spare tires again. We think Fleischmann owes his public, however, exact figures on the rubber savings achieved by the spare tire ban, which prevented the manufacturer from installing a spare tire, leaving that job to the nearest service station.

Insect Venom Reactions

Fate plays strange tricks. A 42 year old Texan, in the best of health, decided to trim the hedge alongside his house. H struck a nest of yellow jackets and was stung on the forehead, back of the neck, and probably in the armpit. Within three minutes he turned blue and began to froth at the mouth; in five minutes he was dead. The man was thought at first to have had a heart attack but his physician finally came to the conclusion that sensitivity to the sting of a yellow jacket was responsible. Three weeks prior to his death he had been stung on an arm and the entire limb puffed up like a balloon.

A resident of Santa Monica, Cal., was more fortunate. He was strolling along the beach barefooted and stepped on some half dead bees lying in the sand near the water line. Almost immediately he felt a sharp pain near the base of his left great toe; ten minutes later his palms began to tingle and stiffen and the lips became numb and swollen. Within a half hour he became weak and suffered abdominal cramps. Meanwhile, swelling of the eyelids and other parts of the body, tightness of the chest, hives, and intense itching developed. His physician, who was called immediately, recognized the difficulty and the man was completely relieved after an injection of adrenalin.

Such reactions after insect bites usually are on an allergic basis; the individual is sensitive to the venom. As a rule the area swells and itches intensely; the lesion that arises after a mosquito bite is a typical example. The aftermath is more serious when greater sensitivity exists. In some the eyes become puffy and itching is excruciating; others encounter asthma with sneezing and wheezing. A sense of uneasiness, rapid pulse, and a fall in blood pressure also may occur. The severe reaction encountered by the California man is rare and the experience of the Texan was extremely unusual. Much depends upon the amount of venom injected and the degree of sensitivity.

The ordinary insect bite generally can be disregarded. Household ammonia or a wet pack made with sodium bicarbonate eases itching. Ointments containing one of the antihistaminics are proving to be excellent remedies; they are specific against allergies and frequently offer relief within a few minutes after application. A physician should be consulted for the more violent reactions because emergency care may be required. Persons who are not sensitive to mosquito bites often assert they never are bitten. This is not true; the insects like them as well as anyone else, but when there is no reaction to the sting the person is unaware of having been bitten.

Marked sensitivity to insects may be a hazard to men and women who work out in the open. A rancher or farmer, for example, who is sensitive to bees, wasps, or bettles must be on the lookout at all times. Desensitization may be necessary and stinging insect venoms now are available commercially, but continuous treatment with these extracts may be necessary because protection is shortlived. The antihistaminics also help and many must learn to give themselves emergency adrenalin if a dangerous reaction arises.

HAIR LOSS

Mrs. L. writes: Can a person's mental state affect the hair? Recently I had a nervous breakdown and since then my hair is becoming thinner.

REPLY

Nervousness and illness are listed among the causes of hair loss in women. Anemia and a deficient thyroid secretion are additional possibilities to investigate.

DR. MURPHY

L. C. writes: A group of us were discussing the great Dr. John B. Murphy. What did he do to make his famous?

REPLY

Much of his renown rested on his ability as a surgeon and teacher. He devised several operations and invented the Murphy button which was used in those days to connect separated loops of the intestine after surgery. He also worked with bone grafts and pneumothorax. For those who are interested in reading about Dr. Murphy's career, there is a book on him by Dr. Loyal Davis called "J. B. Murphy; Stormy Petrel of Surgery" (Putnam).

BABY'S HEART DEFECT

Mrs. E. writes: In a blue baby, what part of the heart is involved?

REPLY

The bluish tint of the lips and epidermis occurs in children whose circulation thru the lungs is interfered with, or when venous and arterial blood merge thru a communication between two chambers. The two specific lesions which lend themselves to surgical treatment—patent ductus arteriosus and pulmonary stenosis—are located in the large channels just outside the heart.

SEA BATHING

Mrs. D. writes: Is ocean bathing good for arthritis?

REPLY

Not in itself but a shore vacation often is helpful because it provides rest, relaxation, sun, and salt air.

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Communist Once Worked For Pearson; Young Newsman Was Converted To Party By Author Of "My Sister Eileen"; Fired Four Years Ago.

WASHINGTON.—It's hard to write about a man who is dead and cannot defend himself. However, I should like to write about Andrew Older, listed recently by an FBI undercover agent as a member of the Communist party.

Older worked for me for a brief period after the war and it became my unpleasant duty to fire him. During the course of firing him, I got to know a little bit about what makes a Communist tick.

If we are going to cure Communism in the American body politic, then it's important that we know what turns a man into a Communist and how he can be cured. Here is one case history in point.

Older worked for a group of conservative trade journals—a paint and varnish magazine, a bakery journey, a poultry monthly, together with the film and radio dailies and the Hollywood reporter. During the tail end of the war when manpower was short he also worked parttime for me, in addition to his other chores.

Canadian Spy Ring

Andy was a nice boy, worked hard and I never dreamed at first he had any links with the Communists. But as time passed and I wrote more and more critical stories about Russia I became suspicious. He frequently argued against the columns which criticized Russia.

I recall especially the column I wrote exposing the Russian spy ring in Canada. At that time—1946—a great many Americans still were devoted to the idea that we could and must cooperate with Russia, and the critical mail I received calling me a liar and a warmonger was heavy. Older was among those who deprecated this column.

Later a friend reported that he had seen Older with both a member of the Soviet Tass News Agency and the editor of the Soviet Information Service, which was published by the Russian Embassy. As a result, I went to J. Edgar Hoover, told him of this report and asked whether he had any information regarding Older and a possible affiliation with Communism.

Mr. Hoover reported a week or so later that Older was listed as a member of the Communist party in Washington.

Next day I called Older in, figuring that in conformity with standard Communist practice he would deny membership in the party. But he didn't. He told the truth.

Dazzling Authoress

In a way this made things more difficult. If he had lied, it would have been easy to fire him. But when a man tells the truth you certainly owe it to him to listen to his story.

So we had a long talk, during which Older said he had joined the party early in 1940 largely through the influence of Ruth McKenny, author of "My Sister Eileen," and editor of the New Masses from 1937 to 1946, who later broke with Communism. The counsel for the Senate Internal Security Committee states that Miss McKenny broke with the party at the same time Browder had his difficulties.

Older's father was born in Russian Poland, and Andy had been ardently anxious for peace between the United States and Russia. He said, however, that he had had a few tough policies to swallow which had jarred him—one of them being the party line against preparedness at a time when Stalin and Hitler were allies in 1939, and later the sudden party switch to all-out preparedness.

He said that he had been trying to get away from the party, hadn't attended meetings since 1944 and was fed up with highhanded Communist tactics. However, he said that it was hard to get away when you were once a member because the comrades blackmailed you by threatening to expose your membership.

He said he gradually had come around to my point of view that Russia was the chief disrupter of the peace and that her tactics under the Kremlin were just as imperialistic as under the Czar.

Lippman Had Communist Secretary

At first I thought I could wean Older completely away from Communism and had some talks along this line with J. Edgar Hoover. I figured that if I could get Older to do a Budenz and take a militant stand against the party, he would become a highly useful citizen.

However, I also had heard that the Communists had planted a secretary on Walter Lippmann and that it was standard Communist practice to put men in key spots where they could influence public opinion. So, figuring there was no use making life difficult by sitting on a continual keg of dynamite, I let Older go.

I saw him occasionally after that and have reason to believe he threw his old associates overboard and straightened himself out politically. In fact, he became something of a small-scale capitalist, and in addition to his trade journals, operated a laundry.

And since he cannot be here to defend himself, I would like to say that Andy Older was one of those unfortunate youngsters, who, through the influence of persuasive personalities, got off to a bad start, but who saw things in a far clearer light before he died.

"Stop Eisenhower"

A full scale "Stop Eisenhower" campaign is being cooked up backstage by the Chicago Tribune and backers of Senator Taft.

Taft himself probably doesn't know about it, but a rough smear job to discourage General Eisenhower from going after the GOP nomination for president is being conducted as part of the regular four-year warmup for picking a president.

Initial move was a Chicago Tribune syndicated story of July 7, which inferred that Eisenhower, as president of Columbia University, is friendly with Communists. Similar stories are due to appear later.

Another and more kindly facet of the campaign, credit to Taft's unofficial campaign strategist, Sen. Owen Brewster, is to spread the story among delegates that the general is too busy organizing Europe's defenses to "play politics."

This is now being told Republican grass-roots leaders by Taft organizers.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

"Face"

In the orient, "face" is everything. It is the quality of success, of position, of authority. It determines who is right and who is wrong. Surely, the Far Eastern experts in the State Department and those who practice psychological warfare know all about "face."

Yet, this country has been jockied into the position of suing for peace. Instead of meeting on a hospital ship, the truce conference is in enemy-held territory, in an enemy city, surrounded by an enemy guard. Our representatives came unarmed; the enemy came armed. They were serviced by their press and photographers; our reporters were forbidden access to the meetings.

This was not what the Army intended the American people to know. It was only the courage and daring of American newspapermen who forced these facts into the open in spite of military censorship. The Army was handling this situation as General Eisenhower handled the truce with the Germans at the end of World War II. He tried to suppress the facts of the truce, but Edward Kennedy of the Associated Press refused to be a party to the deceit. Such newspapermen are in the grand tradition of this profession.

The first truce meetings were not even as between equals. The Chinese came as they chose; the Americans came as subordinates. It is astonishing that the Chinese communists did not revert to their ancient custom of requiring foreigners to kow-tow — that is to bow low, striking their foreheads on the ground three times in total abjection. The old Manchu emperors demanded that and were resisted by a braver race.

Who is responsible for this humiliation?

Someone issued the order to reduce the United States to a defeated nation. Or, have we been defeated? Are we suing for peace?

The entire episode is astonishing. The President's message of friendship to the Russian people, hammered over the Voice of America many times during the day, is also a misreading of the oriental as well as the Russian mentality.

Among Orientals one does not speak of friendship unless one feels weak, abject, subordinate. The language of position demands the tone of equality. It is a nuance of words and ideas which the psychological warfare ought to catch, by ear, almost instinctively. Orientals pay strict attention to such shadings of posture and manner.

In a word, both the Russians and the Chinese will sense a feeling of "scare" on the part of the United States. They, of course, know their own strength and weakness, and they can have a good idea of ours. But they must wonder why we are so scared. It must be difficult for people who have never known a free election to realize that the approach of the 1952 campaign has psychological effects upon the Administration that could not exist in their own countries. They shoot down the opposition.

The "loss of face" which the opening of the Kaesong conference has brought to us cannot be measured by specific yardsticks. Among those who must resist Russia in Asia, if they are to remain free and independent — Burma, Siam (Thailand), French Indo-China, Philippines, Pakistan and even India — the disappointment is likely to be very profound.

For even if the leaders in those countries recognize that Americans do not give a tinker's damn about "face," they will continue to wonder, as they have for many years, whether they dare entrust their fate and prospects to a country that so often does not seem to know what it is about.

No sound State Department would have permitted its country to walk into this obvious and cleverly constructed trap. Either the experts were ignored by the man from Independence, Missouri, or we no longer have any experts, or the same old pro-Communist gang, so violently opposed by Senator Joe McCarthy, is still at work. You can have your choice.

There is one other side to all this: Americans tend to be practical. If a truce is to be found, let's find it and get on with it! From that standpoint, what difference does it make whether we "lose face" or not? That side has meaning in the United States; in Asia it cannot be understood at all. Therefore, we might assume from the recklessness of the truce instructions that the State Department is prepared to pull out of Asia altogether and to leave that continent to Soviet Russia by default. In a word, in spite of all that has happened, this country is still functioning on the theories of Yalta.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The great controversy over whether the power to impose economic controls is to be retained by the emergency agencies revolves almost wholly around the need of price and wage regulation to arrest inflation. This is also the main argument for higher and higher taxes. But it now develops that controls can backfire and do such serious damage to the defense program as to make it questionable where the advantages of restrictive action really lie.

Thus, the defense mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson—who is doing an earnest and impartial job in trying to stabilize the economy — frankly confesses that price controls can sometimes do considerable damage. Accordingly, he has ordered the relaxation of price controls on machine tools and the modification of other emergency restrictions so as to get more metalworking tools produced sooner for the defense program.

To several government agencies now has gone a directive from Mr. Wilson aimed at dissolving the bottleneck in machine tools said to be holding up the rearmament program in key industries, especially in the manufacture of jet aircraft.

First of all, the directive permits higher prices for machine-tool makers as well as providing help in manpower, materials and the financing of contracts.

Encourage Production

Second, Mr. Wilson declares that adjustment of price ceilings is necessary so as to encourage increased production and to grant the industry "more equitable treatment." He states that the "cost of the delay in waiting for machine tools will far exceed the cost of the tools."

Third, the machine-tool industry, which is now operating at the rate of $675,000,000 a year, will have to be stepped up to make $2,900,000,000 of metalworking tools by July 1 of next year.

These considerations are serious enough to make exceptions in the government's price-control program, but the significant fact is that the government agencies are face to face with a reality—the need for encouragement of production.

Defense Effort Hurt

Most of the officials hereabouts have been so busy placating labor-union demands for limitations on corporate income, restrictions on amortization of plant facilities, and price controls that they have allowed the defense program to lag behind.

This is not the only reason, of course, for past delays in the armament program, because there are others—such as failure of the government to get going soon enough, as is evidenced by the revelations before a congressional committee that the famous B-36's have not been produced in quantities needed by the U. S. Air Force.

It is more important now to prevent future delays. The surest way to delay further the armament program is for Congress to listen to "left wing" propaganda that all is lost unless unlimited power is given to impose controls on prices. Even in the matter of the rollback of cattle prices, the issue has been exaggerated. In due time there will be a scarcity of beef because it will be found that the price-control program has discouraged production. The argument that the housewife is being discriminated against and that members of Congress who are questioning the drastic control methods are voting against the interest of the consumer is one that will not be uttered so loudly a year from now if the production of beef to take care of expanding demand is found to be much less than anticipated. The rule works there as it does on machine tools—production must be encouraged.

Unbiased Approach Needed

To manage the economic system of the United States in such a way as to curb runaway inflation and at the same time not to discourage productions requires a nonpolitical, dispassionate approach. Situations in different businesses and industries will vary. Hence a flexible power is more important than a rigid system. There would have been a grant of flexible power if many members of Congress and their constituents had not lost confidence in the handling of the control program. The dramatic defection by organized labor and the consequent approval of the escalator clauses in wage contracts, as demanded by the unions, led other groups to feel they, too, could exert pressure.

What is needed more than ever is a better understanding of incentives to production, and when the price-control officials take due account of the need for preserving incentive—and when Congress also takes this into consideration in the making of tax rates—there will be a better chance to restrain all groups and curb such inflationary trends as present a real danger.

Prices And Politics

By MARK SULLIVAN

The top official in charge of the agencies administering economic controls, Charles E. Wilson, is able and sincere, and of this the country is probably aware. His radio addresses to the country convey earnestness and conviction. And the country is certainly aware that some controls are necessary. Congress was aware of this when it enacted the existing controls in the Defense Production Act last September. And the country probably understands that the need for which the controls were set up will not end with whatever may be the outcome of the "cease fire" negotiations in Korea.

Why then is there unwillingness in Congress to enact controls which Mr. Wilson says are necessary, determination to undo some steps he has taken under the controls as they exist? In the debates there is comparatively little attack upon Mr. Wilson except as he is a symbol; there is no demand that he be replaced by another.

Mr. Wilson, in the earnest appeal he made to the country last Monday, said, "I do not know the political complications in the halls of Congress." Politics there is, though not in an exclusive or even major sense partisan politics. Groups of Democrats and groups of Republicans unite in the opposition to some controls.

Beef Price Roll-Back

Much of the politics is pressure politics, pressure by groups to which Congress reacts. This is illustrated by the strong disposition in Congress to undo what has become the most conspicuous of the steps taken by the Price Control Agency under Mr. Wilson, the "roll-back" in prices of beef. The reaction of Mid-West farmers to that rollback has been described in articles by John W. Ball of "The Washington Post." Writing from Chicago July 1 he reported that "the farmers . . . are angry . . . grass-roots meetings . . . are being held nightly in small farm communities." Meetings, Mr. Ball reported, are sponsored by branches of a national organization of farmers, the American Farm Bureau Federation. "Those present are urged to write their Representatives and Senators in Washington."

The people feel outraged about the price of beef, probably 99 out of 100 regard it as too high. They may or may not give thought to whether a "rollback" is the best way to remedy the condition, but that is the way it is presented to them. In any event their wish is outweighed by pressure from a group. The pressure bears on members of Congress belonging to both parties, both wish to carry the Mid-West farm vote in the Congressional election next year.

While the pressure against the rollback on prices of beef is especially well-oirganized and effective upon members of Congress, there are many others from various sources. The sum and resultant of them acounts for much of what Congress does about controls against which Mobilization Director Wilson complains.

Inherited Trouble

A large portion of Mr. Wilson's truobles are an inheritance. The outbreak in Korea that gave rise to need for controls occurred June 25 last year. President Truman within a short time appealed for authority to set up controls, and Congress enacted controls September 8. There was, however, delay on the part of the Administration in putting some of the controls into effect, the order freezing prices and wages did not come until January 26.

It is little wonder if much of the present criticism of controls in Congress dwels upon this delay. Because of it, Mr. Wilson did not get authority to set up controls until need for them had been made greater by rises in prices and wages that had taken place during the months of delay. Criticism in Congress is not against Mr. Wilson, he felt obliged to deal with condition as he found them when he got authority. Criticism is against President Truman as being responsible for the delay.

The criticism of Mr. Truman, as an incident of criticism of controls, goes farther back. The purport of the controls is to check inflation and rising prices and rising cost of living. But charges in Congress maintain, and are justified in maintaining, that over a period covering the whole of his Presidency beginning in 1945, he and his Administration followed policies and practices which caused the price level to rise, cost of living to go higher and inflation to get increasing momentum.

All this clearly is no responsibility of Mr. Wilson's.

Prince Becomes Benedictine Monk

DEGGENDORF, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Prince Friedrich Von Sachsenmeiningen, brother-in-law of Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the defunct Austro-Hungarian crown, has become a benedictine monk, it was disclosed here today.

The Prince took the Bendictine vow Wednesday.

It was learned the prince had joined the Catholic clergy last year. He became a priest at Passau, Germany, under the name of Vincenz Maria Marck.

know today that the amount of solids deposited from a flue-gas stream will not be in proportion to the loading of the flue-gas stream. In fact, a lightly loaded flue-gas stream such as is present at the local P. E. River Plant may under some conditions deposit a greater weights close to the stack area than a plant having a much higher dust concentration.

"This problem of setting a dustfall limitation has become quite involved and very controversial.

History Outlined

"At first and prior to 1938, the limitation was on a simple nuisance basis. However, all plant operators objected that such a limitation was unreasonably indefinite. Then in 1938 the City of New York set the limitation of 400 'grains' of cinders per 1000 cubic feet of flue-gas, but failed to and did omit the gas temperature and so restricted the standard to be useless.

"Then in 1940 St. Louis set the figure of 0.75 grains per cubic foot of flue-gas at a stack temperature of 500 degrees F—this was workable for big and little plant operators. It was adopted by Pittsburgh and used by them to clean-up their city. It has done a good job for them and is doing a good job for us—should we ask for a correction under the circumstances?

"The Smoke Prevention Association of America, Inc., authorized a sub committee to work on this problem in the spring of 1947 and after three years of work and study they made certain recommendations on May 25, 1950, to adopt as a standard a complete new set of rules. To the best of my knowledge, no city has had courage to take this step. I do not recommend to your body any such legislation that has to be proven—even though I believe the sub-committee will someday obtain this as a national standard.

"Their standard of emission value is not given as a value that expresses a scientific dividing-line between nuisance and a nonnuisance and as you all know the mental conception of what constitutes a nuisance varies with different individuals and with the same individual at different times and ages. In the net result an economic compromise on all dust limitation value is more likely to be required. Our present law does not demand of any plant operator a criterion that he can not accept and accomplish. It will and has, as reflected in this year's steady improvement in dustfall readings for our city, brought about a cleaner condition.

S[illegible] Not Fix Fuel

"In my considered opinion and with[illegible] writing endless pages in support of our ordinance, I honestly believe the Ordinance No. 1815 will need no changes for the next five years. No ordinance should dictate even the type of fuel to be used, say in a diesel locomotive which is smoking, or in order to eliminate the SO2 or CO2 from industry, or in the firing of fuel in a blast furnace or in an incinerator. In fact, it would be inconsistent to change over to some other fuel in a plant that was smoking while burning refuse, garbage, or process fumes because, and I have stated it many times, fuel is not the cause of smoke or fly ash. Why then restrict it's use? And in view of our local economical structure, I must strongly advise against any restriction on coal.

"The aforegoing statement will indicate to you that I believe the present smoke ordinance is adequate. As to its enforcement, Mayor Thomas S. Post, as executive head of the city, directed me to proceed upon the enforcement of our ordinance with one basic principle in mind and that was to co-operate with our industry in an educational program, and to prosecute only those who failed to show the right spirit of co-operation.

"In adopting this principle, it took more time on the part of the Smoke Abatement Department. Its wisdom and results are a source of gratification, for the relationship between our transportation systems and the industries of our community have never before stood on such a co-operative plane."

Progress Noted In County Life Study Project

A project of the Maryland State Department of Education to obtain a comprehensive picture of life in each of the state's counties is making progress here.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools for the county Board of Education, reported that for a year and a half information has been accumulated by the various committees appointed to carry out the different phases of the program.

The overall plan is to have each county board of education supply the detailed material necessary to tell of the county, its people, industries and geography.

All these facts will be accumulated and a plan coordinated by Dr. James E. Spitznas, formerly of here, director of education for the State Department of Education, the bulletins will be exchanged.

Thus, for the first time, the schools will have usable, concrete information on life in the state to base their Maryland studies.

For the researchers a separate committee prepared a bulletin on "Handbook of Instructions for Preparing a Bulletin."

With this guide the work has progressed on these phases of the culture in Allegany county; Historical aspects of Allegany county; geographical aspects; ethnic background of the people, industrial development and social life.

The committees, which have been augmented since the beginning of the project, all teachers and members of the Board of Education staff, are:

History—Gertrude Williams and Martha Donaldson, with Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of county junior high schools as consultant.

Geography — Alma G. Logsdon, chairman, Msr. Roberta C. Andrews and Frederick H. Seeley, with Miss Nellie S. Willison as consultant.

Background of residents — Mrs. Evelyn Poland, chairman, Miss Kathleen McDermott, co-chairman; Ina Spitznas, Marie D. Ingles, Helen M. Allee, Catherine Manley, Nellie Thomas Isaacs, Emogene Caudill and Esther Holzshu with Miss Winifred Greene, elementary school supervisor, as consultant.

Industrial development — Robert C. Morris, chairman; Margaret K. Ringler, Nellie Kooken and Paul Footen, with Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools as consultant.

135 August Draftees Will Be Marines

BALTIMORE—(AP)—One out of every five Marylanders inducted into the military service next month will go into the Marine Corps, it was learned here.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state director of Selective Service, said about 135 draftees will be assigned to the Marines.

A defense department order Tuesday raised the nation's draft sights for August from 22,000 to 35,000. Of these, 6,000 are headed for the Marine Corps. Maryland's share will be about 135, Stanwood said, and the state's overall draft quota is 688.

Those slated for Marine Corps service will be picked at induction centers. A new Defense Department order provides examining stations which will process inductees for all branches of the military service.

The August draft will take men ranging from 18½ through 25. They will be subject to 24 months' service.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

IF, to paraphrase Kipling's poem, a woman could be friendly with Capital officials and celebrities everywhere, yet speak the language of Every man. . . IF she had common sense, but wasn't common. . . IF she were bright, but never brittle. . . IF she could be mother of two grown sons yet keep a girlish figure. . . IF she could be a fascinating lady, beautifully dressed, yet never seem frivolous or self-centered. . . IF she could go to luncheon with Vice President and Mrs. Barkley, yet often choose to dine alone with a book on economy. . . IF she could, as a Washington correspondent, write a rattlingly good column for several large newspapers—IF she could do all these things, and be all these things, then she'd surely be Florence Mahoney.—AUSTINE

Pretty Eleana Machado, daughter of Cuba's popular Ambassador, and her equally pretty house guest, Conchita Galan, whose father is the Spanish Minister to Cuba, say the traffic in Washington scares them. In comparison, Washington seems tranquil and rural. (It will be a great day when they use radar and lights for signaling.)

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Come what may in Korea, it's going to cost you a lot of money in the next few years—whether those years bring peace or war.

We have become punchy with digits followed by a procession of ciphers, and no longer really comprehend them—if we ever did.

Our current defense program, which has little or nothing to do with Korea, will cost us $150 billion at the very least. Sixty billion of it is asked for 1952, for our own needs alone, plus $8 billion for real or imagined allies.

That's a lot more money than this government spent in the first century and more of its 175 years of existence. From a human factor, as a matter of fact, we have lost more men in the Korean "police action" than we did in two wars with England, one with Mexico and one with Spain.

Booklet Clarifies Problem

We'll be paying for Korea and the present rearmament program beyond the year 2,000 A. D. A new booklet issued by the Public Affairs Committee attempts to clarify the overwhelming problem. I quote:

"We often hear it said that when a nation borrows money for war or national defense, it is taking the burden off the present generations and placing it on future generations.

"This is misleading. There is no way by which the costs of defense, or of war, can be postponed. They must be paid out of income as we go along.

"Borrowing merely involves the promise of a reward in the future for those who bear the burden at the time. Let us see how it works.

"If the government borrows $50 billion for defense, the money advanced by individuals is used to build airplanes and battleships and to pay our soldiers and sailors. The persons who lend the money have less to spend for their personal needs. In return for their doing without certain things at this time, the government promises that they will be repaid out of taxes levied on future income.

"But the future generations do not pay the cost of defense; they merely repay the persons, or their descendants, who advanced the money for defense costs during the emergency.

"Why this is so can be seen by looking at what actually happens when a country strengthens its defenses. The steel which goes into tanks, battleships and bombs, the food and uniforms provided to the men in our armed forces, must be real.

Someone Must Sacrifice

"We cannot use today the things we make tomorrow. The supplies used in defense come from the work done today, and reduce by so much the supplies available for today's living. Someone must sacrifice, let us say, a new house or a new radio, if all the needed materials and skilled labor are to be available for defense.

"The question is, who will be called upon to make the sacrifice and on what terms?

"This does not mean that you and I will have less money in our pay envelopes from now on. Perhaps some of us will. But many of us will have more, through longer hours and overtime work. Taking the country as a whole, rearmament has put a great deal of extra money in people's pockets.

"Unless the extra money is drained off in taxes or some other way, prices are bound to rise. Price ceilings, at best, can serve only as a stopgap. If people have extra money left over, they are likely to look around for a place to spend it. If they buy bonds, well and good.

"But if they don't buy bonds, they are bound to bid up prices of unregulated scarce articles. It is this process that leads to inflation."

Be nice if UN worked, wouldn't it?

Local Service Record Set By All-American

By carrying 1,057 passengers Sunday, All-American Airways reportedly is the first "local service" air carrier in the nation to carry over 1,000 passengers for any one day in scheduled service.

A spokesman for the airline pointed out that this new record resulted in a "load factor" of over 65 per cent for the day. In airline language, it was explained, load factor is defined as the percentage of seats filled based on the available seats and miles flown for a particular period of time.

New Drive-In Theatre Being Considered

A Petersburg, W. Va., man inquired by letter yesterday concerning the location of a drive-in theatre at the "Y" intersection of McMullen Highway and the road between McCoole and Westernport.

He wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners pertaining to the drive-in theater and asked if an application were needed to establish such an enterprise.

Two requests were also received for road repair work.

Harry Hughes asked that the Short Day Road off Cash Valley Road in Dressman's Addition be widened and repaired. It was referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

Mrs. Paul Paugh asked that Prospect Drive in Potomac Park be repaired. She cited it is used by many Celanese workers of the neighborhood and by school buses.

The board also accepted the bid of the Eiler Chevrolet Company, to furnish a pickup truck for use of the County Roads Department. The local firm was low bidder on its offer of $650 for a trade in on an old truck owned by the county and $1,554.75 for the new truck making a net bid of $905.75. Other bids were received from Collins GMC Company, this city, and Heiskell Ford Motor Company, of Frostburg.

The bid of the John C. Lewis Company, of Baltimore, to furnish a loader for use of the County Roads Department was also accepted. The firm bid $6,950 on the loader. There were several other higher bidders.

Further tabulation was termed necessary before the bid on a grader for use of the Roads Department will be awarded. There are three firms among the low bidders, but certain technical checking must be made before one is selected.

A spilled perfume bottle can do a lot of damage in your luggage! Easy precautions will prevent such a mishap.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Like the little boy who brought the butter home under his hat on a hot day, the charmer who doesn't pack her perfumes and liquid toiletries safely will find that at the end of her trip they have all wasted away.

The leaking of perfumes and other liquids in vacation luggage is one of life's little tragedies that needs never occur — and won't if you follow the suggestions of the Fragrance Foundation, whose experts have tackled the problem scientifically.

Expert Safeguards

A perfume bottle that is to go traveling should never be more than three-quarters full. The empty space allows for the expansion of heat or high altitudes.

If the bottle has a ground glass stopper, twist it into the neck of the bottle. When it's so tight that it will not open with the turn of your hand, rest secure—it's secure! Never use nail polish for sealing because the alcohol in the perfume will eventually dissolve it. Use paraffin instead. You can also depend on pharmaceutical corks, which are abtainable at low cost from your druggist. Another suggestion is a leak-proof atomizer; it's slightly more costly but also more permanent.

At your destination, hot water will remove the paraffin. To loosen a tightly packed stopper just tap it with another piece of glass.

Colognes and toilet water usually come in bottles with screw caps, which are excellent travelers if you just observe the precaution of making sure that the bottle is no more than three-quarters full and if you double check the tightness of the cap.

Bath Liquids And Powders

The safest way to comport your liquid bath toiletries (like oil or bubbles) is to transfer them to one of the new, unbreakable, plastic bottles. Bath powder and talcums packaged in shaker-type containers are no problem at all.

If you prefer the luxury of a puff and box of dusting powder, pack them this way: Place a cleansing tissue over the powder so that the edges fall over the sides of the box all around; place the puff on top of this tissue; squeeze the cover on over the wedges of tissue; and then, wrap the whole thing in tissue and ribbon.

With the above know-how you can always safely take your glamor aids with you.

Monday: Bosses tell why some business girls can't get ahead.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Are all of us born "aggressive"?

Answer: This remains the most debated question that I know of in psychiatry. Dr. D. W. Harding's rather satisfying answer in the British Journal of Medical Psychology is that the capacity for aggressive behavior (that is, for fighting for what you want) is inborn, but the wish to exercise it depends upon circumstances— above all, the amount of frustration you experience as a child. What he calls a "socially developed person" will not be able to fight without feeling regret if not "anguish of mind." Aggression is sometimes inevitable, but war is not a "psychological necessity" for civilized people.

Is everyone "psychopathic"?

Answer: Not in any practical sense. Nearly everyone has trends which are characteristic of some form of mental illness and so could be classified as "psychopathic," but the type of people the psychiatrists call "psychopaths" are happily comparatively rare. Most of us, for example, sometimes do things which we are ashamed of but our consciences (or common sense) prevent our doing such things most of the time. A true psychopath has neither any directly effective conscience not any ability to foresee the consequences of his actions. He will lie or cheat to his own long-range disadvantage.

Is childishness a form of mental illness?

Answer: Not inherently, says Dr. Bengt J. Lindberg in the Copenhagen "Acta Psychiatrica." Psycho-infantilism is an attitude or mental weakness rather than a disease, and shows a wide range of differences. People who are psycho-infantile are characterized by helplessness, uncertainty and a desire for guidance and authority. They are easily influenced and may break down under the strain of being forced to make decisions. But while an emotionally childish person who has never had to "face reality" may not be neurotic—and may even be quite happy — psycho-infantilism is at the root of most mental illness.

Whitworth Urges Closer Control On State's Entire Budget System

Would Eliminate Special Fund Idea

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., of Westernport, yesterday made six specific recommendations to the Commission on State Governmental Reorganization at its session in Hagerstown. His talk before the group was on "Better Budget Procedure in Maryland."

His recommendations follow:

"1. Present a factual budget to the people of Maryland and the General Assembly by the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental appropriations into one statement that would disclose the total spending proposal for each department and purpose.

"2. Make each department live within its appropriations by fixing a ceiling on their expenditures.

"3. Reduce and eliminate if possible budget amendments to prevent the shifting and transferring of funds from one department to another.

Would Cut Special Funds

"4. Make a thorough study of the Baltimore City budget procedure.

"5. Reduce the number of special funds and eliminate the "special fund clause" in the budget bill itself.

"6. Stop surplus financing by a closer and more realistic estimate of revenues."

Part of his statement follows:

"From my past and present experience as a member of the General Assembly of Maryland from Allegany county, and having served on the Ways and Means Committee of the House for the past five years I have found myself and the majority of the other members of the General Assembly limited in knowledge and in the ability to obtain the true financial picture of state finances and therefore I have fought for certain changes in budget procedure, that in my opinion, are the only means of obtaining for the people of Maryland a more efficient and economic administration of the taxpayers money that is in many cases, shamefully being wasted by the various state agencies."

"I might say that I am not alone in my opinions, and that my thoughts are shared by various organizations, such as the Baltimore Association of Commerce, the Commission on Governmental Economy and Efficiency and many business people throughout the state who are interested in good government.

More Control Needed

"In my opinion the commission should direct its attention especially to the special fund system that has grown by leaps and bounds in our financial system to the extent that at the present time 45 percent of our total budget is made up of special funds that the Legislature no longer has control over by reason of the special clause placed in the budget bill itself at the end of each department's appropriations that has special funds.

"This system started some years ago in the Health Department Mattress Fund which was for the purpose of policing the mattress business in Maryland, and is being used by other Departments, such as the University of Maryland, which has more than $8,000,000 in special funds alone which come from the people of Maryland and their representatives in the assembly have no voice in."

"The Authority on Authorities"

THEY TELL IT TO YOU

IT IS NOT always necessary to hear a bid from your partner in order to know what he holds. Sometimes the opponents will tell you the facts. If they pass the deal out at some very low stage, such as 1-No Trump or two of a suit, and your own hand is of just about average strength, you can feel pretty sure your partner has a holding roughly equal to your own, perhaps a bit better. You can therefore consider reopening the bidding with some kind of action. If there is no clear-cut declaration for you to bid, your best action in such a spot is usually a double. That gives your partner a chance to bid his best denomination or make a business pass.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl

West's pass of the 2-Hearts told North practically as much about his partner's total strength as would a bid by him. South was sure to have practically an average hand, or very close to it, possibly slightly better than average. Since North had a bit of support for either of the unbid suits, and was equipped with pretty close to a stopper in each of the opponents' suits, if South preferred to try No Trumps, he made the sound move of reopening the bidding with a double.

This gave South the widest possible range of choices. He soundly chose the most profitable, a business pass of the double, in view of the position of his high cards in hearts. With his own indifferent hand, opposite a partner who could not bid voluntarily on the first round, he felt sure his side could not make a game in anything. He also appreciated the truism that beating the opponents' doubled contract at all pays better in the long run than making any less than game contract.

His pass paid out, as the defenders scored three tricks in trumps, three in clubs and one in diamonds, beating the 2-Hearts two tricks for 500 points, whereas the best contract for his side would have been only 3-Diamonds or 2-No Trumps, worth much less.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.

Could you play baseball without rules? No, in any game there are rules that must be followed.

And it's because of these rules that the game is orderly and interesting. Without them a ball game would result in complete confusion, and neither the players nor the spectators would enjoy it at all.

So it is with society. Through the ages the greatest civilizations have been those with the best rules and laws. Our own United States Constitution, a masterpiece in law, has proved that good government produces a great nation.

Life must also have rules if we are to live happily. And to guide us toward this end God has given us a set of rules, which is known the world over as the Ten Commandments.

Open your Bible and learn them today—and tomorrow and always you'll be a better, happier person.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A pair of shutouts yesterday marked play in the Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League, as the pacesetting Midland Post team took Grantsville into camp at Midland, 9-0, and Victory Post of Westernport turned back the tossers of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at Community Park, 3-0.

In the contest here, Bobby Raines, Westernport ace, had a no-run, no-hit game in his grasp until the final inning when Kirtley and McGregor rapped singles. Raines struck out 10 in gaining the nod over Ed Dickel in a neat mound duel.

Dickel yielded seven hits and fanned five.

Keller batted in Westernport's first run with a triple and scored on Kirk's single in the opening frame. Wilkinson, Kyle and Shimer singled for Victory Post's final marker in the second frame.

Jack Brodie tossed a three-hitter for Midland and fired the third strike past eight batsmen. Richards and Kelly led the 11-hit assault on Miller with two of Richards' wallops being two-baggers.

Final Registered Shoot Before State Event Set Sunday

Trapshooters of the tri-state area will get in some practice licks for the West Virginia State championship events when they gather tomorrow for a registered shoot at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

The program of 100 16-yard targets, 50 handicap and 25 pairs of doubles will get under way at 11 a. m.

West Virginia's state shoot will get under way at the Ridgeley traps on Friday, July 20 when the preliminary round will be held. The main events are set for Saturday and Sunday.

George Fazio Retains Lead

Holds Stroke Edge In Western Open

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 13 (AP) — George Fazo, the slight professional from the Pine Valley, N. J., club, scrambled to a 72 today to hold a precarious one stroke lead at the halfway mark of the 72-hole Western Open Golf Tournament.

The 36-year-old easterner, who opened with a tournament record 63 yesterday, slipped two over par in his second round over the 6,416-yard Davenport Country Club course. His 135 total for 36 holes was still good, however, for the front position.

Only a stroke behind the leader were Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y. and Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill. Each had two 68's on the board.

Sam Snead, the Old Master seeking his third straight Western title, thrilled the late-day gallery with a 67, three under par, for the best second round score.

Snead, seven strokes behind Fazio with an opening 70, closed the margin to only two strokes with his 137. Sam dropped a downhill 18-foot putt on the 18th green to get his 67 for a round that included eight birdies.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., joined Snead at 137.

Only three strokes shy of the pacesetter at 138 were Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., (67-71); Chuck Klein, San Antonio, (69-69), and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., (36-35).

Chick Harbert of Detroit had one of the most remarkable rounds of the second session. He went four over par on the first three holes, then settled down for a 69, blistering the back nine in 30, a course record. Harbert's 69 brought him at 139 where he was tied with Roberto Devincenzo, the foreing threat from the Argentine.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., was the second round casualty. The former national open champ had a first round 66 but faded to a 75 today and a 141 total.

Thef ield was trimmed to 58 professionals and four amateurs for the final 36, holes tomorrow and Sunday. It took a 151 or better to qualify.

Charley Dressen Says 1951 Dodgers Are Best

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—Manager Charlie Dressen today called his current Dodger team the greatest in Brooklyn history.

"All I know," said the Brooklyn skipper, "is that when we won the pennant in 1941, everyone said that was the greatest club Brooklyn ever.

"I can tell you this much," he continued. "This is a better club than the 1941 team. I was the third base coach then. Today, I'm the manager.

Manager Charley Hornbrook's scrappy Athletics knocked off the front-running Senators for the second time yesterday in a Little League game at Stitcher Field. The score was 3-2.

Spotting the league leaders two runs in the third, the A's won an uphill battle by registering three times in the 5th by coupling hits by Bobby Page, Charles Smith and Richard Hedrick with a stolen base and walks to Gerald Farrell and Mike McCullough. Hedrick's hit climaxed the rally and drove in the winning tally.

Ed McKinney and Charles "Deacon" Smith yielded four hits each. Smith wiffed 11 in six frames and McKinney struck out eight in five innings.

Win Sixth Straight

It was the A's 6th consecutive victory and put them only two full games out of first place.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it nine wins in 10 starts by taking the measure of the Braves at Fort Hill, 6-5.

A single by Hillegas, Bruce's double and an error netted two runs and the ball game in the 4th frame. Wolford poled a homer for the Braves. Ronnie Bruce of the Dodgers and Billy Beck and Jimmy Beck of the Braves had two hits each.

Gene Cave, Dodgers' pitcher, chalked up 11 strikeouts.

Connelly's single in the 6th inning robbed Jesse Markley of a no-hitter as the Cardinals downed the Giants at Campobello, 10-0. Markley had two hits and batted in four of the Cardinals' runs.

Indians Scalp Tigers

"Whip" Kreitzburg's Indians scalped the Tigers at Penn Avenue Field in a night game, 10-2. Bob Paye and Jimmy Davis held the Bengals to two hits. Paye was also the leading hitter with two singles and a double to his credit. Billy Brode and Robert Judy collected two hits each. The scores:

ST. LOUIS, July 13 (AP)—If Philadelphia played the St. Louis Browns all season, Gus Zernial would seem to be a sure bet to break Babe Ruth's home run record.

The slugging Athletics' outfielder has hit 10 of his league-leading 22 home runs against Brownie pitchers. His grand slammer Thursday night came against Dick Starr, one of his favorite pitchers. It was No. 4 off Starr.

'Sonny' Started Here

Fairgo's Top Jockeys

Owen May Go To Ohio

Bettors Are Careless

By C. V. BURNS

Did you know that Raymond (Sonny) Workman, of Washington, D. C., who became one of the country's top riders, got his start at the Cumberland Fair Association's track at Fairgo in 1926?

That was the year only win and place money was paid at the local half mile oval, the meets were limited to five days, the top purses were $500 and seven races were held daily.

Workman led the riders at that meeting with five wins, five seconds and five thirds.

On the second day of the 1926 session, "Sonny" rode into the money in all seven races. He won with Lally, came in second on Delriada, Sunny Hill and Carmen Pantages and showed with Gus R., The Peruvian and Starbright.

"Sonny" is now in the real estate business in Washington and is reported doing well.

Here's the way he rates the race riders of the past quarter of a century:

Raymond (Sonny) Workman

No. 1—Laverne Fator. No. 2—Earl Sande. No. 3—Clarence Kummer. No. 4—Albert Johnson. No. 5—Linus (Pony) McAtee. No. 6 — George Woolf. No. 7—Eddie Arcaro. No. 8—Frank Coltiletti. No. 9—George Ellis. No. 10—Jack Westrope.

Carson Kirk, one of five brothers who rode on Maryland tracks; "Bobby" Edens, the Virginian, and Eddie Smith of Washington, D. C., in that order was the winningest jockeys at Fairgo's half mile oval since 10-day racing meets were inaugurated there in 1935.

Kirk who later starred on the major tracks had 22 winners here in 1943. Edens had a leg up on 21 in 1945 and Smith piloted 19 first place horses in 1935. Both Kirk and Sammy Palumbo have been "in the money" 43 times at a single meeting.

Here are the leading winning jockeys:

1935	Eddie Smith	19	7	7	123
1936	Sammy Palumbo	13	10	10	105

Mrs. Glick Cops Title 6th Time

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) — This Friday the 13th brought no luck to Mrs. J. P. Touchaud of Washington, who had hoped it might prove a jinx to Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, perennial Maryland women's golf champion.

And so Mrs. Glick kept her crown for another year.

She disposed of her challenger, four and three, in the finale of the women's state tournament over the short, east Indian Spring Country Club links.

Mrs. Glick, the top feminine player of Baltimore's Woodholme Club, now has won the Maryland woman's title in six of the last eight years. That's still one short of tying the record set by Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, also of Baltimore, who gained the championship in 1924 and repeated six times after that, winning for the seventh time in 1933.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Radio broadcast rights for the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcot 15-round heavyweight championship bout next Wednesday night at Pittsburgh were acquired today by the Pabst Brewing Company. The fight, to be televised by the Dumont network, will be carried by CBS on radio.

Two Crack-Ups Mark Test Runs On Derby's Eve

Robert Stanley's Car Is Damaged; Program Today Starts At 1 P. M.

Two crack-ups marred the test runs held yesterday for the fourth annual Cumberland Soap Box Derby scheduled for today at 1 p. m., on a 1,000 foot course on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Robert Stanley Danny Nightengale

Robert Stanley, 13, Keyser, W. Va., suffered brush burns and bruises about the hands and forehead when the brakes failed on his heavy oak racer which hit a curb and overturned.

Stanley was unable to stop his car after crossing the Pennsylvania Avenue finish line at the intersection of Fourth street and the gravity coaster continued down the hill out of control. A auxiliary policeman and several volunteer workers at the finish line pursued it but were unable to catch up. The little racer hit a curb on Laing Avenue, throwing Bobby clear.

Car Badly Damaged

Both axles and all four wheels were damaged beyond repair. Last night, Bobby and his brothers began working on the wrecked car in an effort to get it back into racing condition.

In the other mishap, Danny Nightengale, Lonaconing, ran against a curb half-way down the course when his steering mechanism failed. He was not hurt and repairs to his car were completed several hours later.

Today's program in the fourth annual derby here is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. A field of 34 will compete, seven in Class B and the others in Class A.

Champion Goes To Akron

Winners of the two classes will compete in the final race of the day for the championship and the right to represent Cumberland in the All-

Citation Runs At Hollywood

May Become First Horse Millionaire

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 13 (AP)—Ten candidates were named today to run in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup, which means that seven horses will be shooting at the star of the cast — Citation — and his bid to become the first horse millionaire in turf history.

Citation will go to the post with his two crack running mates of the Calumet Farm Stable, the champion mare Bewitch, and a four-year-old colt, All Blue.

Naturally the Calumets are pointing Citation for the winner's circle, a feat that will send his present all-time unprecedented earnings of $985,760 soaring well over the $1,000,000 mark.

Even second place, with its $20,000 prize, will put Citation in the lavish bracket. But the Calumet people, including Trainer Jimmy Jones, want to win in true champion style, as well as collect the guaranteed net $100,000.

Opposing the powerful threesome, barring scratches before tomorrow in the mile and one quarter event, will be:

T. G. Benson's Lotowhite, 117 pounds; Andrew Crevolin's Be Fleet, 122; Mr. and Mrs. F. Norman Phelps' Sturdy One, 109; Clifford Mooers' Sudan, 107; The Breel Stable's Alderman, 103; the Sevan Stable's Akimbo, 103, and the Silver Creek ranch's Tantamount, 100.

Citation, assigned his impost June 6 when his current campaign was none too promising, gets in at 120 pounds; Bewitch at 108, and All Blue, 111.

Racing fans are careless with their earnings according to a report of the West Virginia Racing Commission which shows that in 1950 tickets valued at $17,767 were never presented for payment at the combined Wheeling and Charles Town meetings. Unredeemed tickets at Wheeling amounted to $7,501.90.

Bettors have two years in which to claim this money, provided they present the tickets.

Many stories are told about Hugh Casey, the former major league pitcher, who took his life last week.

Mickey Owen who caught Casey when they led Brooklyn to the 1941 pennant says Hugh had a heart as big as a baseball diamond and a terrific sense of humor.

Owen recalls the time Casey said the Dodgers had too many kids on the bench and not enough veterans.

Hughie explained:

"We have too many kids eating candy bars during a game instead of men chewing tobacco."

GIVES EXHIBITION HERE SUNDAY—Jimmy Nichols, nationally known one-armed golfer, will give an exhibition at the Cumberland Country Club Sunday at 1:15 p. m. Nichols, a Texan, lost his right arm when a railroad locomotive struck his car. Jimmy began playing golf when 24 after losing his arm. In his first practice game he made a score of 212 for nine holes. While in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in 1949 he shot the course of 18 holes in 66, six under par. Since he started giving exhibitions he has been constantly astonishing the huge gallery of fans that follow him with his remarkable shots. While on tour in 1950 Nichols had over 50 rounds at 70 or below. He is associated with the A. G. Spalding Sporting Goods Company. There will be no admission charge for tomorrow's exhibition.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

HOW WRONG can a guy be?

That Turpin. What he did to us!

Ouch!

It seems that only a few days ago we wrote that Sugar Ray Robinson would not only make Randy Turpin look like the famous Ben Turpin but Sugar Ray would wind up with the light heavyweight crown and perhaps the heavyweight title if he decided to go after it.

Simply we said that Sugar Ray was just "too good."

Well, now what are we going to do about explaining it?

Oh, what you said!

• • • • •

REPORTS from London indicate that Turpin not only won Sugar Ray's title but he trimmed the great Sugar good.

Along boxing's big bailiwicks the explanation, as feeble as it may be, is that Sugar Ray's "gay living" was the reason for the reversal, referred to as the greatest upset since Gene Tunney outpointed Jack Dempsey.

It doesn't seem just right to grab that one from the grapevine and save face. Ray did enough boxing in Europe before that Turpin turnover to keep him sharp enough despite any non-training sortees, if such were the case.

And if we go for that one, how do you explain what Sugar Ray's wife said after the fight?

"Too much boxing and training on the continent was the cause of his downfall," Mrs. Sugar was quoted as saying.

No, we'll have to find some other out.

Robbie, perhaps, might help. What did he say?

"You were real good," he said to Turpin, "just like they said you were. I have no alibis. I was beaten by a better man."

Come on, Johns, be honest. No alibis. Admit it was just another one of your bum picks.

Okay, we surrender.

• • • • •

NEEDLESS to say when Sugar Ray and Randy meet in New York next September, which is said to be the next move, we'll be picking the Sugar man again.

Too long we've been filled with the thought that Sugar Ray is the best ringman in the world, pound for pound. His bouts against any and all comers have proved it. His record speaks for itself.

But what we are overlooking, perhaps, is time.

We never could make ourselves believe that Joe Louis was losing his stuff and even as late as last year we picked Mr. Joe to beat Ezzard Charles.

It's that old MacArthur take-off, perhaps, that champions never die, and they never fade away.

• • • • •

SUGAR RAY losing his stuff?

It can't be. We don't believe it. When he fights Turpin in the fall Sugar will knock him out. And we'll bet on it.

Man O'War, Citation, Dempsey, Notre Dame, the Yankees—all great champions which COULDN'T LOSE.

As we said at the start, how wrong can a guy be?

Dodgers Top Chicago, 8-6

Cubs Hit Five Homers But Lose 8th In Row

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP)—Brooklyn's blistering Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the first two innings, then withstood a late home run barrage to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 6, today for their eighth straight victory.

It was Chicago's eighth straight loss. But the Windy City lads clubbed five home runs—two by Randy Jackson—to cause some anxious moments for the Ladies' Day crowd of 28,822.

Big Don Newcombe sought his 13th victory for the runaway league-leaders. His mates staked him to five runs in the first inning and three in the second, but the big righthander developed stiffness in his right shoulder and had to leave the game in the fourth frame.

His successor, Clyde Kin, served up three home run balls but managed to register his eighth triumph against four setbacks. Box:

Hot Stove League Booster Twin Bill Set For 1:45 Sunday At Penn Avenue

Funds Sought To Send 4 Teams To Pittsburgh

Penn Avenue Field will be the scene of the only league baseball games in Cumberland tomorrow.

With the Cumberland Merchants at Westvaco and the Moose and Black Sox players in the Interstate League All-Star game at Moorefield, Hot Stove League teams will share the spotlight in a booster doubleheader starting at 1:45 o'clock.

In the opener, Manager Earl Nonnemann's Optimists Club will oppose the Rotary Club while the nightcap B'nai B'rith will angle with the Kiwanis Club.

The Rotarians, managed by Lonnie Jackson, are the only team to hold a decision over the Optimists.

Funds realized from this game will be used to send the players of the four clubs to witness one of the Pirates' home games.

Umpires who have donated their services are Kenneth "Sooky" Grimes and "Buck" Frantz.

Keyser Finishes Fiscal Year With $937.22

Disbursements Total $12,002

KEYSER, W. Va.—The City of Keyser left a balance at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, of $937.22, as shown by the annual report issued by A. A. Jordan, city clerk.

The report shows that disbursements for the past fiscal year amounted to $12,002.79, balancing the receipts for the new fire station, closing that account.

The city recreation fund balance at the opening of the last fiscal year amounted to $8,829.50. Disbursements during the year amounting to $2,001.55, left a balance of $6,827.95 at the close of the year.

The sum of $10,254.32 was paid on the 1923 bond sinking fund, clearing off that account, and $2,796.74, was paid into the sinking fund covering the 1947 bond issue.

At the close of the fiscal year, the water works bonded debt of $66,000 was reduced by $8,000 to $58,000 which is payable at five percent. The bond issue runs through April 1, 1957, with payments to be made semi-annually at five percent. The total issue at the time it was made amounted to $175,000. In the coming year the city will pay off another $8,500; in 1953 and 1954, $9,000 will be paid each year. In 1955, the amount will be $9,500; in 1956, the amount will be $10,000, and 12,000, due April 1, 1957, will be the final payment.

The city has on deposit with the State Sinking Fund Commission, at Charleston, as of June 30, 1951, a balance of $19,189.72 on the 1941 bond issue for a swimming pool for Keyser, and $2,796.74 was paid during the year into the 1947 bond sinking fund.

The 1949 bond sinking fund for the final work on the new fire hall received a payment of $12,500 on the issue of $38,000, leaving a balance of $25,500 at two percent. Two more payments are to be made on this three-year issue, with $12,500 by June 1, 1952, and $13,000 by June 1, 1953.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 13—(INS)—Barbara Peyton, who soon becomes the bride of Franchot Tone, stars in "Bride of the Gorilla" and no one is kidding her more about the title than the bridegroom-to-be.

Lon Chaney

Robert Broder, producer of the horror special, borrowed Barbara from Bill Cagney productions just before she took off for a short vacation.

Lon Chaney, Jr. is the co-star.

Now about "Bride of the Gorilla": It's an original screenplay by Curt Siodmak, who will also direct. Outside admitting that it is a deep jungle chiller, he's keeping the real horrors of the plot secret—or as secret as anything with a title like that can remain.

Teen-age problems will be televised this fall when 14-year-old Margaret O'Brien takes to TV in a series called, "The Affairs of Maggie."

Geared strictly for the bobby-soxer audience ("grown ups" can look in if they like), Maggie's adventures will be done as films released as half-hour shows.

The men lined up for "behind the scenes" give you a rough idea of the care with which the series will be made: Morris M. Wein is the producer; Ed Sedgwick, formerly with MGM, will direct, and well known Edward Conjager, will handle the camera.

Bobby Driscoll will be Miss O'Brien's co-star in some of the antics.

Quite a story behind Dewey Martin's getting the next most important role to Kirk Douglas' in "The Big Sky." Both Montgomery Clift and Marlon Brando wanted this part.

But it goes to the 24-year-old Texan who started off big with Humphrey Bogart in "Knock On Any Door"—and then didn't get another picture for eighteen months!

What do struggling actors do when they aren't acting. They struggle.

Young Martin worked daytimes loading trucks at the May Company and nights at a gas station. But he really hit bottom when he found himself taking tickets at the Pantages Theater, the same house where he had been featured on the screen with Bogart.

When Howard Hawks remembered him, and actually scouted the town to give him a role in "The Thing," Martin wasn't even sure he wanted to get back in the heartbreak game.

"Don't worry, kid," Hawks told him, "you're on your way this time." And he kept that promise.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Errol Flynn, ill again in Korea, but insisting on doing his USO shows with the Jack Benny troupe.

Jimmy Cagney, finished with "Come, Fill the Cup" at Warners, celebrates his birthday Tuesday, in New York, before heading for his New England vacation.

Katharine Hepburn, Humphrey Bogart, John Huston and the rest of "The African Queen" company are in London, battered, beaten and bitten from the location in Africa.

June Havoc getting a big kick out of the 100-man Shriner band serenading her outside the theater after the conventioneers had seen "Affairs Of State."

With her bags packed to take off for New England, Phyllis Thaxter learned her five-year-old son has been exposed to chickenpox. She'll have to wait to see if the doctor orders quarantine.

Cleo Moore, voted "Miss Van Nuys" of 1951, gets the siren role in "Thy Neighbor's Wife" for Hugo Haas. Hear she's of the same school of acting as Dagmar and Jane Russell.

At the Captains' Table for a late supper were Dan Dailey and Diane Garrett — the ex-Mrs. Madman Muntz.

It's a "mighty" happy Irving Rapper planing in tomorrow after three months making the Bette Davis-Gary Merrill movie in London. He says it's another Oscar performance for Bette—but there's no place like home to a Hollywooder.

Monday will find your girl and mine, Louella Parsons, back on the column giving you the news as only Hollywood's greatest reporter can do it. From the thousands of letters which have come in asking about her, I know how happy you will be to have her back. There's nobody like her. God bless her.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Mildly Vicious Circle

Once, during the rehearsal of "The Big Show," the producer was trying, over Tallulah Bankhead's strenuous objections, to cut a few of her lines just as a matter of timing. It was an epic battle, I'm told, but the producer finally won though he didn't escape entirely unscathed. Groucho Marx, who was within earshot, took the cigar out of his mouth just long enough to mutter: "The Timing of the Shrew."

I don't know why I'm telling you all this except that too many people are reading "The Vicious Circle" and quoting too much of it to me. Said Noel Coward to the highly tailored lady: "You look almost like a man." Retorted the highly tailored lady to Noel Coward: "So do you." The art of insult, especially that one, is still around in different form, though perhaps not so succintly expressed. Said Tallulah to Bob Hope: "Hope, leave this stage until I call for you." Said Hope to Tallulah: "Don't lower your voice to me. I knew you when you were Louis Calhern."

• — • — •

The art of insult which I inspect annually along with dumb women jokes, political jokes, and tax jokes, has declined a little in the past year. But there have been a few —all of them, I expect, modifications of Max Beerbohm's or Oscar Wilde's but still, I think, at least as quotable as those in "The Vicious Circle." There was that one on "This Is Show Business," for instance.

BERT LAHR: I told this same joke recently at the Capital theater and you could hear them laugh across the street.

CLIFTON FADIMAN: What was playing over there?

Then, there was Ronald Colman on the Jack Benny program.

COLMAN: I never told you this, Jack, but I heard the first radio program you ever did.

BENNY: Gee, Ronnie, I didn't know that. The very first program?

COLMAN: Yes. How have they been since?

Well, after all, there were some pretty old jokes in "The Vicious Circle," too, but they were on the whole more visious. People just don't insult one another with the zest they once used, so we'll have to turn elsewhere. (If Bennett Cerf can get away with this, I can try, too.) I rather like Groucho Marx's brief patriotic oration which ran: "We owe a great deal to the government. The question is, how are we ever going to get the money to pay for it?"

• — • — •

That last is known as the tax joke which in sheer numbers is far out in front of my joke file. Radio and television actors and writers make much more money than is good for them; the government takes it away from them for their own protection and this solicitude preys on their minds. Pretty soon they write jokes about it. Or if they get real mad, they vent their spleen on the politicians. "My boy friend is out making stump speeches to draft Eisenhower. He wants to draft Eisenhower before Eisenhower drafts him." (Gene Autry show).

Or if they get too depressed to write jokes about either taxes or politics, they can always fall back on the woman driver joke. "Well, I signaled for a left turn and then changed my mind and signaled for a right turn. Then I decided to take a short cut down the sidewalk because there were too many man drivers cluttering up the street. Well, this weasel was hogging the sidewalk and I was late getting to the beauty parlor so in order to avoid an accident I just ran over him." (Red Skelton show).

It's been a good year, all around, for women jokes. Gracie Allen returned the eight day clock George bought her because the eight days were up and at least one girl bought "Little Women" for a friend because he was marrying a midget and Dave Garroway broke the news about the perfume that was driving women mad—it smelled like money—and my friend Irma . . . well, let's not get into my friend Irma or we'll be here all day.

• — • — •

We started with Groucho and we'll finish with Groucho:

GROUCHO: If you like the sea, why aren't you a sailor instead of a landlubber.

CONTESTANT: That's not a very good way to raise a family.

GROUCHO: The fish manage pretty well.

I plan to collect them all in a book some day but not until the winter after the Christmas jokes are in. "Second Story Jackson is in jail again."—"What's he in for this time."—"He was doing his Christmas shopping early."—"Early?" — "Before the store opened." (Duffy's Tavern.)

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

9-Year-Old Girl Held In Theft Of Pocketbook, $55

A hearing for a West Side nine-year-old girl is scheduled for this morning in Juvenile Court in connection with a pocketbook theft Thursday evening.

A purse belonging to Mrs. Kaplon Jackson, 300 North Waverly Terrace, was taken from a Greene Street beauty parlor while she was having her hair done by an attendant. The purse contained a wallet with $55 in bills, and $200 in bonds.

Detective E. M. Powell found the young girl, thought to have taken the pocketbook, shortly after 5 p. m. Powell said the girl admitted taking the purse and states that she threw the brown billfold containing the $55 in the Potomac River near Blue Bridge after taking $2 from it. According to Powell, the girl said she placed the purse under the bridge, on the ground. The youngster had spent the $2 Thursday night.

Anyone finding the purse is requested by police to turn it over to the police department. Powell described the purse as a large, white lady's purse containing $200 in bonds.

Margaret Likes American Men

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Margaret Truman, one of the nation's most eligible girls, came home from her first European tour today, fancy-free and singing the praises of American men.

Give me American men," said President Truman's only child. "Continental men are very charming, but there is nothing like the gentlemen at home."

Then, just so newsmen wouldn't misunderstand, Margaret grinned and added:

"Gentlemen—that's plural."

"I'm a good sailor," she explained as she ended her seven-weeks tour. "But nothing looks as wonderful as land."

The initial meetings were reported only through brief Allied communiques, secondhand "briefings" and Communist broadcasts.

Allied Patrols Meet Resistance

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, July 14 (AP) — Allied patrol advances up to five miles secured a ridgeline southeast of Kumsong on the Korean East-Central front Friday against stubborn Red resistance. Fighting continued until 9 p. m.

This limited-objective attack was the only significant action on the Korean front.

Platoon-sized patrols with mortars and small arms opposed some Allied troops elsewhere.

There were continuing reports, however, that the Reds were strengthening their main lines during the current lull.

One Allied officer on the Western front said there was nothing to indicate the Communists were ready to launch an offensive in the near future but "their capabilities are increasing."

Latest available estimates place the total Red strength, all along the line and in close reserve, at 350,000 men. An Eighth Army spokesman said there was nothing to indicate concentrations in any one area.

Stock Market Makes Best Performance Of The Week

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—In a sparkling advance that gained power as it progressed, the Stock Market today turned in its best performance of the week.

Especial strength was displayed by railroads, and the aircrafts contributed materially to the expansion of buying interest in the final stages of trading.

Interest was not by any means confined to those two divisions. Steels, oils chemicals, rubbers, and some utilities, motion pictures and building material issues all gave generous help in the advance.

Bullishness in today's market was encouraged by the fact that prices backed down only one day this week. As prices moved forward and absorbed all bearish attempts to force them down, traders became less cautious and started buying more briskly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents, the best since July 5, and stood at $92.20. Both the industrial and the railroad components were up 80 cents, and utilities advanced 20 cents.

With prices rising, the volume of business also mounted to 1,320,000 shares, also the best since July 5. Previously this week the volume had been unusually low. Yesterday's total was only 1,050,000 shares.

Radio Corp. with 33,400 shares traded was the day's most active issue. It held unchanged at 21½. It was followed by Northern Pacific up 3 at 41, Columbia Gas up ¼ at 14, American Radiator up ⅛ at 15¼, National Distillers up ⅜ at 33, and Benguet Mining unchanged at 1⅜.

Walkout And Cable Break Plague Telephone Company

1,200 Homes Hit By Mishap Here

Telephone service to about 1,200 homes and business places was cut off early yesterday afternoon when an H beam being driven into North Centre Street struck a large telephone cable.

The beam, being hammered into the ground to support piling needed for the installation of a flood control conduit, almost sheared apart the cable containing 400 pairs of telephone wires.

Telephone officials said shortly before midnight that they hoped to have service restored to virtually all of the lines by this afternoon.

The cable was sheered about 1:50 p. m., cutting off all service on Bedford, Lincoln, Hill and Independence Streets and affecting part of the lines on Frederick and Columbia Streets.

Alert crews immediately began restoring vital telephone service to Police Headquarters and East Side Fire Station by stringing temporary lines from nearby areas not affected by the broken cable.

Officials said two line crews and two splicing crews, along with additional workers at the central office, began work at once when the emergency arose.

The men will work non stop until the service is restored to all subscribers.

Early last night, a new length of cable was installed and splicing crews expected to begin joining the wires together shortly before midnight.

They then began the slow job of testing and matching each of the broken wires and finally splicing them together after they were identified.

The terrific task was similar to that which occurred January 23 when a cable was broken during the construction of a building on North Centre Street near the scene of the North Centre Street explosion.

Fear Strike Area May Be Widened

The possibility that walkouts which hit three Washington suburban exchanges of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company yesterday may spread was expressed last night by CWA-CIO sources.

Spread of the action was voiced last night by a union official here after he was contacted concerning the Washington walkouts.

The union official declined to elaborate or to guess the next spot to be hit.

The Associated Press at Baltimore said pickets patroled in front of the Hyattsville, Silver Spring and Bethesda exchanges yesterday in a wage dispute that has been under negotiation since last May. The contract between the company and some employes represented by the Communications Workers of America (CIO) expired June 30.

Two similar job departures were staged by Baltimore clerical and maintenance employes during the past two weeks.

Service Is Maintained

Yesterday's walkout removed about 200 of the approximately 350 plant employes in the three units, according to the company.

The company reported that about 40 per cent of its operators and 70 per cent of its commercial employes crossed picket lines and reported for work.

The operators and commercial employes in the three exchanges are under the jurisdiction of the Washington union headquarters, and plant employes are with the Maryland union jurisdiction which is bargaining with the company.

The dispute is over the 10 per cent wage increase which the company has offered. The union feels that the $5 increase in starting rates in Maryland suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight boost of 10 per cent on the current basic rate with additional money going to employes receiving less than $65 per week wherever such distribution is possible under law.

The company takes the position that the $5 increase in beginning pay for some job classifications will bring its starting pay more in line with community wage levels, making it possible to attract and retain the required number of employes.

A union source yesterday added that a seniority clause was also at issue.

Talks May Resume

Negotiations were recessed Wednesday night, but may be resumed at any time at the behest of either party, a company spokesman said.

He added that the company feels

REPAIR CABLE BREAK—Telephone Company crews are seen working frantically last night in an effort to restore telephone service to some 1,200 homes of this city. The top picture shows the scene of the break which occurred when a H beam being driven into the street for flood control work struck a telephone cable containing 400 pairs of lines. In the lower photo, Walter Orndorff is working in a manhole, installing a new cable so that splicing work can begin. Officials said service should be restored to most subscribers by late this afternoon.

Governor Names B & O Official To Safety Group

Williams To Serve On State Commission

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has been appointed to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin announced yesterday.

Although the appointment was made last week, announcement was delayed.

The commission, which consists of 18 members, is appointed by the Governor for six-year terms. One-third of the terms expire every two years. The commission was organized in 1941.

Chief objective of this 18-member group is the promotion of traffic safety on the streets and highways of Maryland. The commission seeks to coordinate activities of public and private agencies interested in, or affected by, the problems of traffice safety, assisting such agencies to augment their programs by study, education and information. The commission has enlisted the aid of business associations, civic groups and newspapers in the promotion of traffic safety.

A veteran railroad man, Williams came to Cumberland in his present capacity last October. He lives at 217 Washington Street. Before coming here, he was superintendent of the Pittsburgh Division of the B & O.

Maryland School System Needs Investigation, Senator Charges

Sobeloff Commission Hears Suggestions

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 13 (AP) — "The whole Maryland school system would bear investigation—and plenty of it," the Sobeloff Commission was told here today.

The commission met here to listen to suggestions for improving the state governmental system.

Construction Costs

The blast against the school system came from Senator McLaughlin, Washington County Republican. He charged that the state forces the counties to construct buildings which are too elaborate and costly.

He cited Washington as a county which manages to get along without bonds and with the $1.50 tax rate because "we build plain commonsense schools."

He also charged, without specifying localities, that in some schools the high school graduates are not taught some of the necessary subjects which qualify them for colleges and universities.

Governor McKeldin added to the Washington County Senator's remarks briefly. He said that someone will eventually have to decide just how far the state should go in helping counties finance their schools.

Too Many Boards

Then branching into other fields of the state governmental setup, the Governor said that under the present system there are too many boards and commissions to enable him to keep up with what is going on in the state.

He said he would like to see a cabinet system of authority replace the 65 boards and commissions he must contact for reports on state doings.

The commission also heard a number of recommendations on the state budget system from Delegate Whitworth (R-Allegany). Among other suggestions, Whitworth asked for the consolidation of the proposed budget and supplemental budget into one statement to present a "factual budget to the people of Maryland."

He also suggested that department heads who spend over their budget allocations be fired.

Kimble Takes Issue

Senator Kimble (R-Allegany) took issue with his colleague on the point of firing department heads. He said if legislators would work to get the facts behind the budget, there would be no need for changes in the budget system.

He indicated that in his opinion legislative cuts of department askings are sometimes too drastic to allow a department to function.

Kimble also called for a single Department of Labor in the state governmental setup to take care of labor issues which he said are currently resolved in various departments of the state government.

Today's meetings was attended by delegates from Washington, Garrett, Frederick and Allegany Counties.

Similar meetings have been held in Ocean City, Annapolis and Baltimore.

29th Division Units Fan Out For Hometowns

CAMP PICKETT, Va., July 13 (AP)—Homebound units of the 29th Infantry Division were fanning out today on highways, railways and skyways to National Guard armories in 67 communities in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia.

The two-week training period ended today. First units of the blue and gray division left this sprawling Southside Virginia reservation this afternoon for the long trip to West Virginia by bus.

Division artillery started on the first leg of the journey back to Maryland today. The truck convoy of artillerymen will spend the night in bivouac at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation, and then proceed to Pikesville, Westminister and Laurel areas of the Free State.

Troop trains carrying the 175th Infantry Regiment and most of the 115th Infantry leave tomorrow morning for the Baltimore area.

Aviation elements of division headquarters and artillery units will fly to Richmond, Norfolk and Baltimore.

And as the soldiers traded khaki for civvies, rear detachments were left behind for the usual job—policing the area.

Loan Association Lists Finances

The Home Building and Loan Association, Inc., 19 South Liberty Street, finished the first half of 1951 on June 30 with assets totaling $215,828.92, according to the balance sheet released yesterday.

"Our mortgage loans, savings shares and reserve for contingencies have all increased substantially and all our loans are in good condition," George K. Steiner, association secretary reports.

In the firm's balance sheet, assets included $201,564.76 in first mortgage loans, $3,000 in U. S. bonds, $11,161.32 in cash, $1.84 in petty cash, $1 in furniture and equipment and $100 in prepaid bond premium.

Liabilities and capital, totaling $215,828.92, included $194,138 in savings shares, $2,150 special cash account, $17,727.64 reserve for contingencies, $144.95 special reserve, $65 withholding tax, $10 appraisal fee and $1,593.33 loans in process.

Business Property Sold For $56,500

A deed was recorded in the land records office at the Court House yesterday morning listing sale of property on North Centre Street near the Baltimore Street intersection for approximately $56,500.

The property was sold by Goldie K. Selly, 350 Central Park West, New York City, to Frater Realty Corporation, 114 East 23rd Street, New York City.

The property was described as being that deeded to the New York woman by the Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Baltimore City, trustees for the estate of Dr. Frank M. Wilson, on November 20, 1950.

The property was said to be that built recently on the site of the explosion almost 10 years ago and is occupied by several business firms.

Hitchcock Says City Smoke Law Is Adequate For Next Five Years

Union Shop Ruling Affects Several Area Industries

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP) — About 40 Maryland industries will feel the effects of a National Labor Relations Board ruling outlawing certain Union Shop clauses in wage contracts.

The ruling, based on a recent Supreme Court action, held that Union Shop elections held before top AFL and CIO officers signed non-Communists affidavits with the board were invalid.

Regional Director John A. Penello of the NLRB said about 40 wage contracts between the CIO and large and small Maryland industries had Union Shop clauses based on elections now held invalid.

Among them, he said, were the Celanese Corporation of America in Cumberland; the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke; the Fairchild Aviation Division, the Pangborn Company, the Hagerstown Shoe Company and Victor Products Company, at Hagerstown; the Mt. Vernon Woodbury Mills, the Associated Brewers, and the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Co. of Baltimore.

Engineer Sends Report To Council

Cumberland's Smoke Control Law, known as Ordinance No. 1815, is adequate, according to George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

In a report, ordered by the Mayor and City Council, released yesterday, Hitchcock says the ordinance will need no changes in the next five years.

Copies of the mimeographed report were distributed yesterday morning by Miss Mary Clay, secretary to Mayor Thomas S. Post at a closed meeting of the Council. Hitchcock was not present.

Mayor Post said after the meeting that the report would be taken under study.

The full report follows:

"Report to Mayor and City Council as ordered on May 21, 1951—Report to Council as to whether or not the Smoke Control Ordinance No. 1815 is sufficiently adequate to take care of the conditions in this community; and, if not, what should be done to enforce the ordinance.

"On the council floor the evening that this motion was so ordered, I did reply and answered in the affirmative. To qualify my statement I said that the records and proof for the statement were public property and in my office.

"Since that time we have had the benefit of two public hearings; the first meeting held on June 7, 1951 when the industrialists along with their engineers were present. Our smoke control ordinance was wholeheartedly attested to as being sufficient. The real value of the program was testified to by those men certainly in a concrete position to know. They must carry his burden and they do so in a good neighborly spirit of co-operation.

"But since there was no voice raised in favor of backing a more stringent ordinance, it may have left a question in the minds of some council members as to whether our ordinance is adequate. Therefore, I shall attempt to clarify the one point in question based on fly ash emission value.

Fly Ash Emission Value

"To begin with, of the 200 cities in the United States that have smoke control ordinances in operation, 62 per cent have modeled their ordinances on St. Louis and Pittsburgh, and so did we here in Cumberland. In other words, we operate under a standard for stack discharge that is known as a high value—of 0.75 grains per cubic foot of flue-gas adjusted to 12 per cent carbon dioxide at 500° F. The low value being held as ideal by the A.S.M.E. Code of 0.85 lbs. per 1,000 lbs. of gases adjusted to 50 per cent excess air.

"Between these two limits some cities specify 0.40 grains and some 0.30 grains per cubic foot and all based on the quantity of flue-gas leaving the stack. And contrary to what has been said before the City Council, the City of Pittsburgh has had in mind to lower their standard to 0.30 grains for the past eight years and they have failed to this date to do so.

"From a nuisance viewpoint, the above outlined standards have no basis or foundation in fact. We

422 Eligible To Express Opinion

Residents of Cresaptown will have an opportunity Monday to ballot on a proposal to install street lights throughout the community.

Polls will be open in the Water Office, Craddock Drive, from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m., to give all the 422 registered voters a chance to vote for or against the referendum question.

The plan calls for establishment of 113 street lights. Cost of the plan will amount to an assessment of between 15 and 20 cents on each $100 of assessable property. On an average $3,000 assessment, street lights will amount to about 50 cents per month, observers point out.

The proposal is a part of the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association's development and comes under provisions of the measure establishing the Cresaptown Special Taxing Area.

The community has already adopted a water system and installation of mains and equipment is proceeding steadily. Project No. 2 of the system is underway. This includes a water main to the top of the hill on Brant Road, leading from a point at Calvary Baptist Church.

Two pumps are to be installed to supply a 100,000 gallon pressure tank, and provide the area with adequate water and pressure. Officers said yesterday when this phase is completed, a survey of fire insurance rates can be made and a reduction is anticipated on all property within 600 feet of any fire hydrant.

Officers of the association are urging every Cresaptown resident, qualified to vote on the street light question, do so, and that voters go to the polls early to avoid a last minute rush.

Christian Skidmore is association president; Philip Bowman, is vice president; Joseph Wenrich, water commissioner; Charles Bird, treasurer, and Frank Ferrone, secretary.

Unemployment In Area Shows Increase July 1

According to figures released by Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the State Department of Employment Security, there are 168 more persons unemployed in the area as of July 1 than on the June 1 report.

During June there were 3,046 persons on file at the unemployment office as compared to 3,214 persons seeking jobs July 1. Carroll explained that the increase was primarily due to high school and college graduates seeking jobs.

A total of 408 new applications was filed in June, and there are still 675 veterans seeking jobs.

Carroll said there are some job openings in other areas. There are job openings in Baltimore and Hagerstown for skilled mechanics. There are no openings for persons without skilled training.

Carroll stated the unemployment figures were stabilized and have not changed for about two and a half years. He believes that figures will stay about the same until some new industries move into the area.

Some of the slack has been taken up by various construction work, the flood control project, building of Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools, and repair work on McMullen Highway and Vale Summite Road, Carroll said.

All-American Petitions To Cancel Plane Service At Cumberland Airport

Facilities Inadequate; Location, Weather And Visibility Hamper Service, Report Says

Terrain hazards, poor visibility, inadequate approaches and lack of facilities are offered as reasons for cancelling air passenger service to the Cumberlnd arport.

All-American Airways, Inc., filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday asking to suspend plane service to Cumberland, Connelsville-Uniontown, Pa., and Fredonia-Dunkirk, N. Y.

All-American said it wanted to stop the Cumberland service solely on the basis of the airport condition here, although it believes the area has a good traffic potential if the airport could be used at night and in all kinds of weather.

Condition Termed Hopeless

An All-American official termed the Cumberland Municipal Airport "hopeless" from the standpoint of being able to handle the kind of service All-American would like to provide here.

He said the firm's planes could be operated into the airport only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

During the long summer months, he added, fairly adequate service can be provided in Cumberland, but that in the winter months it is a "different story".

Flights must be made in the late morning, the AA official said, to avoid early morning fogs, and no night flights are possible.

Mountains in the area, he added, are always a hazard in using the Cumberland field.

Primary reason advanced in the request to stop the Connelsville-Uniontown and Fredonia-Dunkirk service was that they had provided "extremely poor traffic" for the line, the airline official said.

12 Per Cent Overflights

In its petition, All-American declares it was forced to overfly Cumberland due to weather on 12 per cent of its actual trips during May, 1951 and that the overflight average is 9.5 per cent during October, 1950, to May, 1951 period.

Weather conditions here, however, were apparently not so bad as at the Connellsville - Uniontown port, where 11 per cent of flights were overflown.

The firm said it is regrettable that service to Cumberland is proposed to be discontinued but said there appears no practical manner in which the airport facility can be improved except at extreme cost.

The airport at Cumberland, All-American said, is in a valley completely encircled by mountains, and while operable, is otherwise marginal, and can be used only during daylight hours and under visual flight conditions.

It quoted from the summary of the Maryland State Aviation Commission that:

"Terrain hazards, limited approaches and site restrictions preclude a safe instrument and night operation of aircraft."

The state group, the brief said, recommends a series of conferences be held to ascertain methods of eliminating hazards or developing a new airport.

All-American said if facilities at Cumberland are improved, it will gladly seek to develop the potential of Cumberland.

Term Request Imperative

The combination of the airport factor and the marginal traffic aspects at Cumberland, make the request imperative, the firm said.

Mileage to be saved by a suspension of the service at Uniontown-Connellsville and Cumberland, All-American said, could be utilized over one of the firm's more heavily traveled and profitable route segments.

The request called for temporary suspension of service at the above named points until January 11, 1952, or until further notice from the board.

Cumberland is by far the greatest revenue producer of the three points mentioned.

Passenger Load High

During 11 months of 1949, All-American handled 1,258 passengers at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Last year, the passenger load rose slightly to 1,433, and 535 passengers were handled during the first five months of 1951, for a total passenger load of 3,236 since service was instituted.

The Dunkirk - Fredonia field handled 328 in the same period in 1949; 711 in 1950 and 309 during 1951.

The Connellsville-Uniontown port had 1,111 passengers in 1949, but only 806 last year and 279 during the first five months of this year.

The Cumberland Municipal Airport, located at Wiley Ford, W. Va., about three and one-half miles from the heart of the city, has three runways, one 5,950 feet, one, 3,150 feet, and a third 3,900 feet.

Operating cost to the city is almost $11,000 a year.

Recreation Department Gets Croquet Balls

Box hockey practice on city playgrounds got under way promptly this week when a local hardware store provided hard-to-get croquet balls.

Edmund F. Hoey, recreation director, issued an appeal for old croquet balls to be used in the game, explaining he was unable to secure them without buying complete croquet sets.

When the Wilson Hardware Company read of the difficulty, it dug into its shelves and came up with a box containing a dozen balls and donated them to the playgrounds.

APPOINTED—Chester A. Fisher, LaVale, was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission for a six-year term, this week, by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. Fisher, an accountant at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, succeeds William B. Ludman who completed his term as a commission member.
